Foreign Policy Council Urged By Vandenberg

Bipartisan Group Would Set Limits For Aid Abroad, Determine Needs

By Ferdinand Kuhn, Jr.
Post Reporter

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg yesterday proposed the quick formation of a bipartisan council to advise the Administration and Congress on the impending economic crisis abroad.

The Senator suggested that such a council be composed of outstanding citizens "at the highest attainable level." Specifically, he said it should produce "facts and recommendations and judgments" regarding:

1. The limits within which the United States may "safely and wisely" plan its economic help;
2. The basis upon which the help should be given, "including reciprocal considerations"; and
3. The total needs in Asia as well as Europe.

Matter of U. S. Self Interest

"We need a total balance sheet," said the Senator, adding that American self-interest required "a sound, over-all inventory of our own resources to determine the attitudes within which we may consider these foreign needs."

The Senator made his proposal in a formal statement which recognized, for the first time on Capitol Hill, the seriousness of the dollar shortage abroad.

Although he did not refer directly to Secretary Marshall's Harvard speech last week, he echoed some of the Secretary's arguments on the need of large-scale American help for world reconstruction.

Administration Gratified

Administration officials regarded the statement as important and helpful in many ways. It was taken as a sign of growing congressional awareness of what Senator Vandenberg called "difficult national decisions which we unescapably confront."

It represented an effort to broaden bi-partisan cooperation into the field of economic foreign policy. And it seemed to offer mechanism for bringing Congress, the Administration and public opinion together into the formulation of the new program.

Senator Vandenberg has complained in the past that he was not consulted early enough in the development of crises abroad, especially in the Greek-Turkish program of last March.

Follows Talk With Marshall

This time he has had at least one long talk with Secretary Marshall on foreign economic developments. The new bi-partisan council might be an additional point of

Bar Wallace At Watergate, Court Asked

Post Reporter

The American Anti-Communist Association yesterday sought a court injunction to deny Henry A. Wallace use of the Watergate Open Air Amphitheater for a speech Monday night. They alleged the meeting is under Communist sponsorship.

The motion, filed in U. S. District Court here, charged that Interior Secretary Julius A. Krug had shown an "outright and absolute disregard" for the people's welfare in agreeing to let the Southern Conference for Human Welfare schedule a meeting in the public park.

Representative Alvin E. O'Konski (R., Wis.), president of the association, told the House that it was "time for a showdown" when the United States was spending billions abroad to fight communism but permitting a "front organization" to use Federal property for a meeting.

George Perkins, executive secretary of the Anti-Communist Association, said a hearing on the motion is scheduled for Monday, the day the former Vice President is scheduled to speak.

An attorney for the association delivered a copy of the motion to Undersecretary of the Interior Oscar L. Chapman.

Jury Selected For Trial of 16 In Conspiracy

By Robert Bruskin
Post Reporter

A jury of seven women and five men, without a Government worker among them, was completed yesterday at the mass conspiracy trial of the Joint Anti-Fascist Refugee Committee Board.

Selection of the jury was speedily concluded after denial of a petition by the 16 defendants that the cases be tried in New York because of a "witch hunt" in Washington.

Defense Attorney Oetje John Rogge claimed also that about half the customary jury panel was made up of Federal employes.

"Because of the loyalty investigation order," he said, "these employes are afraid for their jobs and will be afraid to rule against the Government in this case."

Although the petition was quickly denied by District Judge Richmond B. Keech, Rogge's fears about the Government workers were unnecessary.

Not a single Federal employe was called on the panel. The defense eliminated seven by peremptory challenge and Assistant U. S. Attorney Charles B. Murray challenged two others.

The petition alleged that the Washington Times-Herald had instigated a "witch hunt" against the defendants, who are accused of contempt of Congress and conspiring to withhold information from the House Un-American Activities Committee. They include

Cop on Beat Is 'Ideal Father'

"I GUESS MY CHILDREN LIKE ME . . . when I'm not giving them haircuts," says Policeman John O. Riley, chosen Greater Washington's Ideal Father for 1947. Surrounded by his children, James, 4; Johnny, 7, and Mary Ann, 9, he reads winning letter his daughter wrote to The Post

John O. Riley, sr., a 35-year-old police private, is Greater Washington's Ideal Father for 1947.

"He works real hard so some day we can have a home of our own," wrote his 9-year-old daughter in the winning letter.

This father of three did not know that he had been entered in The Washington Post sponsored contest until notified that he had won.

A strapping big man with light brown hair and an engaging smile, Riley has been on Washington's police force for five years and has chalked up five commendations. He is attached to the Eighth Precinct.

A reporter and photographer interviewed Riley at his home at 4327 Harrison st. nw. after he had been notified.

"I guess my children like me except when I cut their hair and make them take baths," he said modestly.

Mary Ann, a student at the Janney School, wrote the winning letter. Her two brothers, John, jr., 7, and James, 4, added their names. Here is the letter as Mary Ann wrote it:

"We think our Daddy is the best Daddy in the world. He is a policeman and when we are sleeping at night, Daddy is out protecting us and other people.

U. S. Charges Reds Overstep Austria Rights

By Wilbur Mackey
Post Reporter

The United States yesterday accused Russia of "the exercise of extraterritorial rights" in their part of Austria, while Communist-inspired unrest continued elsewhere is central Europe.

The Austrian matter came up in the Allied Control Commission meeting when Lieut. Gen. Sir James S. Steele, British High Commissioner, introduced a resolution accusing the Soviet Union of illegal seizure of oil. Lieut. Gen. Geoffrey Keyes concurred in the British statement, the Associated Press said.

The Russian action was said to have ignored both the Allied Control group and the Austrian government. The French did not comment, but the Soviet representative, according to the United Press, threatened to walk out, finally sitting in disgruntled silence.

The oil came from the Zisterdorf fields, which the Soviets took as reparations, claiming they were German assets. The British and Americans don't subscribe to this thesis.

The fields' 1944 production was about 8,491,000 barrels, the Associated Press said. The Russians agreed 60 per cent should go to Austria, but Austrians said they are getting 40 to 50 per cent.

The resolution also accused the Soviets of bartering goods from Austrian factories for Yugoslavian raw materials without informing Vienna authorities and in violation of the four-power agreement.

The oil charges were all the more serious because the Russians refuse to pass over the problem to get at the writing of the Austrian treaty.

Truman Aides Said to Advise Labor Bill Veto

By Alfred Friendly
Post Reporter

A majority of the "Secret Seven," President Truman's leading advisers on labor matters, favor a veto of the Taft-Hartley labor bill, it was learned yesterday.

The group, composed of Cabinet officers and White House advisers, met on Thursday. They heard Paul M. Herzog, chairman of the National Labor Relations Board, and Secretary of Labor Lewis B. Schwellenbach denounce the bill as unworkable.

The Post learned that two more members of the group—Interior Secretary Julius A. Krug and Presidential Assistant Clark M. Clifford—are almost equally convinced that Mr. Truman should turn down the bill.

Attorney General Tom Clark, Commerce Secretary W. Averell Harriman and Presidential Assistant John W. Steelman were reported not to have committed themselves definitely one way or the other. Speculation was that Steelman favored a veto, Clark was on the fence, and Harriman was inclined to have the bill signed.

The President has until June 19 to make his decision. He has not

'Colonel Blimp,' British Movie, Deflated in U. S., FTC Alleges

Roger Livesey "Colonel Blimp" | Mary Pickford | Charlie Chaplin Have 20 days to answer FTC charges

By Dillard Stokes
Post Reporter

"The Life and Death of Colonel Blimp" shown American movie fans was called a cut-down version of the real film, by the Federal Trade Commission yesterday.

Charles Chaplin, Mary Pickford and other officers and owners of United Artists, Inc., were given 20 days to answer FTC charges of misleading advertising. The case may lead to a formal court test of the FTC power to review movie and other national advertising.

The FTC accused United Artists of winning good reviews with the 2½-hour Colonel Blimp that was made and shown in England, and then working off an hour-and-a-half abstract on the American public.

Colonel Blimp, with Roger Livesey in the title role, ran over 14,000 feet in the English version, Richard Coe, The Post's drama critic, saw it when he was an overseas soldier and thought it a fine film. He said he did not believe it could have been cut much without greatly altering its quality.

The FTC charged yesterday that when United Artists cut more than 6000 feet out of Colonel Blimp the changes of both the film and its story were substantial. Yet, the FTC said, United Artists not only did not mention the abridgement in advertising and publicity, but represented they were offering "the original, complete, full-length film."

Not only the public but movie exhibitors were said to have been misled by the Colonel Blimp ads and publicity.

United Artists was said in the

National Ku Klux Charter Revoked by State of Georgia

Atlanta, June 13 (U.P.).—The State of Georgia abolished the Ku Klux Klan's charter today when the secret order abruptly dropped its fight for corporate survival.

Grand Dragon Samuel F. Green called the action meaningless and asserted "the KKK will ride so long as a white man liveth."

The peppery Atlanta obstetrician spoke out in a sultry courtroom after Superior Judge Bond Almand signed orders revoking the Georgia charter of the hooded knights and dissolving the national organization's corporate status.

Klan Counsel Morgan Belser surprised the handful of spectators by requesting the "double-dissolution" order shortly after the hearing opened.

State Attorney General Eugene Cook got the jump on Belser by dropping original suit charges that the Klan was dovetailed with the German-American Bund and various subversive groups.

Instead, Cook pegged his case on arguments and evidence that the Klan violated its charter pledge to operate without profit. He said the order profited from dues and the Dragon profited from sale of robes and trappings. The Klan offered no defense against these charges.

Green heads the Georgia Klan, unincorporated, but has been the national guiding spirit.

The court edicts do not outlaw either the Georgia or national Klan and both may apply at will for new charters.

The Attorney General said if Green ever manages to get a charter for his Klaverns (local Klan chapters), spread through north Georgia, "we'll strip him just like we did the national outfit."

Klan Counsel Belser told Judge Almand that the charges the Klan harbored murderers, arsonists, seditionists and thieves reflected on a membership that included "ministers, judges, sheriffs, Congressmen, Governors and, yes—even newspapermen."

He said the Klan acted quickly last year to get its State charter to squelch an attempt by the anti-Negro, anti-Jew Columbians, Inc., to take over the Klan name.

Police Seek Wreckage Of PCA Liner in Area Around Blue Ridge

Craft Sought In Tri-State Area Was Coming Here From Chicago

Police and rescue workers were scaling the rainswept Blue Ridge foothills early today following contradictory reports that the wreckage of a Capital-Pennsylvania Central Airlines DC-4 had been sighted.

The plane carried 47 passengers—one a baby—and a crew of three: was out of Chicago bound for National Airport.

Unreported since 7:08 p. m. last night when it was over Martinsburg, W. Va., the plane had been sought by scores of police in the tri-State area for hours.

City Policeman Lloyd Kelley at Leesburg said at 1:50 a. m. that State police teletype reported the wreckage found on North Short Mountain near Purcellville, Va.

At least seven persons from Greater Washington, including the three crew members—were aboard.

Captain of the liner was Horace Stark; the co-pilot, R. N. Creekmore, and the hostess, Margaret Walls.

The others with known area addresses:

David P. Godwin of 1407 31st st. nw.

Dr. Courtney Smith, 9901 Edgehill lane, Silver Spring.

C. H. McCafferty, 2704 Allison st., Mount Rainier.

Edmund J. Stone, 2921 Argyle dr., Alexandria, was reported returning here from Seattle. A neighbor said he was employed at the U. S. Public Housing Administration.

Converted C-54

The plane was a converted Army C-54, of the same type which crashed at LaGuardia Field May 28 and the one which plunged into the woods near Port Deposit, Md., two days later. The death toll in the two was 85 persons.

At 2:30 a. m., Mrs. James E. Stone, daughter of Deputy Sheriff Charles F. Reed of Leesburg, who was with the searching party, said no trace of the wreckage had been found.

She said she was in constant touch with Virginia State police at Culpeper, Va., who were in radio contact with cars in the search party.

Budgets of 33 U. S. Agencies Slashed Third of a Billion

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

The House Appropriations Committee yesterday cut 33 independent Government agencies a third of a billion below budget estimates, reaching out for a new House peak in 1948 savings.

But even as the House group swung the ax, the Senate Appropriations Committee restored $54,116,840 of House-slashed Interior Department funds. Bulk of this went for reclamation, calming the storm of Western protest.

The nip and tuck battle of the budget was entering its last and noisiest round.

Gore Disputes Claim

As adding machines clicked across the Capitol, House Appropriations Chairman John Taber (R., N. Y.) claimed House "savings" in projected 1948 spending now total over five billion. He said actual House cuts in new appropriations, not counting so-called recisions and unbudgeted receipts, have reached about 3½ billions.

Representative Albert Gore (Tenn.), Democratic scorekeeper, promptly challenged both claims. Gore said the House hasn't reached the two-billion mark in "bonafide" appropriation cuts, adding: "From now on that figure will drop as the Senate increases our bills."

With only two big money bills remaining (War Department civil functions and a catchall foreign aid deficiency), Taber and Gore will go to the mat next week on savings to date. Taber said he will announce itemized economies on Tuesday. Gore said he will release an appropriations scoresheet of his own.

4 Per Cent Trimming

In reporting the $8,167,869,027 Independent Offices bill, the House Appropriations Committee noted $330,540,732, or nearly 4 per cent, had been trimmed from the President's 1948 budget estimates for these agencies:

Veterans Administration, from $7,074,341,300 to $6,944,457,080; Atomic Energy Commission, from 250 million dollars to 175 million dollars; Federal Communications Commission, from $7,300,000 to $6,040,000; Civil Service Commission, from $260,063,000 to $259,304,000; Budget Bureau, from $3,470,000 to $3,376,608; Office of Government Reports, eliminated; Federal Power Commission, from $4,234,000 to $3,718,000; Federal Trade Commission, from $3,978,000 to $2,855,120; Federal Works Agency, $378,280,059 to $332,375,727; General Accounting Office, from $37,617,000 to $36,517,000; Interstate Commerce Commission, from $11,888,-

Strike Threat Marks Return Of President

The national strike picture took on a more somber hue last night as President Truman, returning from Canada, took up again the problem of approving or vetoing the labor-reform bill passed by Congress.

As CIO President Philip Murray said that "in all likelihood" there will be a walkout of CIO maritime unions upon expiration of current contracts Sunday night, Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach appealed to ship operators and unions to extend the contracts pending settlement of existing disputes.

Violence Breaks Out

Violence broke out in connection with the strike of foremen at Ford plants in Detroit, as five non-striking supervisors were injured in two assaults.

Public transportation in the St. Louis area, where live more than a million persons, was tied up by a strike of 3500 streetcar and bus operators.

A half million other persons were affected by continued stalemate of transportation facilities in the Oakland, Calif., area, due to a strike of 3000 AFL transit workers.

CIO President Philip Murray said last night that "in all likelihood" there will be a walkout of CIO unions in the maritime industry when contracts expire Sunday night.

Murray told a news conference that in the event employers and the unions fail to come to agree-

Offices Bill To Cost Jobs Of Thousands

By Jerry Kluttz
Post Reporter

Thousands of additional Federal jobs would be wiped out by the independent offices appropriation bill reported yesterday to the House.

The bill also would delay indefinitely the return here of a dozen Government agencies moved out during the war years.

Major reductions would have to be made under the bill in Veterans Administration, War Assets, Maritime, Public Buildings and General Accounting.

In the bill the House Appropriations Committee also recommended:

That the score of agencies covered by the bill either downgrade or fire employes in the upper brackets when they make reductions. It charged that most layoffs hit the low-salaried brackets;

That reductions be made in the personnel division of a number of agencies.

In denying the $900,000 to Public Buildings Administration to return the decentralized agencies here, the committee said it had not been presented with a specific program. It warned that no action should be taken until the Congress is advised of it in detail.

PBA officials proposed to return 3500 jobs here and it was estimated that only 2200 people would transfer here with the agencies.

Bandit Suspect, Detective Shot In Gun Fight

A 47-year-old District detective sergeant was shot and a suspected stop-light bandit wounded seriously last night in a wild exchange of gunfire at 10th st. and Rhode Island ave. nw.

Two other bandit suspects escaped after the shootings, but they may have been wounded, police said.

Hit by a bullet which passed through his shoulder some 2 inches below the bone was Detective Sergt. Joseph E. Hunt of 601 Hillwood ave., Falls Church, Va. He was taken to nearby Freedmen's Hospital.

Police identified the alleged bandit as Joseph Jones, 22, of the Braddock Hotel, New York City. He was taken to the same hospital with a bullet wound in the abdomen.

Detective Hunt's comrade in the shooting fray escaped unhurt, but one bullet passed through the shoulder cloth of his suit. He is Precinct Detective Ernest P. Jefferson, 34, assigned with Hunt to track down spotlight bandits held responsible for "several" hold-ups at the intersection earlier this week.

Police Inspector Walter Thomas, acting superintendent of police, described the shootings.

Doctor Would Keep Infant In Mother's Hospital Room

Atlantic City, N. J., June 13 (U.P.). A Mayo Clinic expert said today that it might be a good idea to keep the newborn baby in a crib alongside its mother rather than "relegating" the child to an isolated nursery.

Such a "rooming-in" arrangement already is being tried in New Haven, Conn., and Detroit hospitals, Dr. Benjamin Spock, of the department of neurology and psychiatry, Mayo Clinic, told the American Medical Association.

(The idea has not been untried in Washington. Dr. P. A. McLendon, pediatrician for George Washington University Hospital, has used it experimentally. Success of his experiments has led to construction of maternity bedside cribs in the new university hospital now under construction. The new hospital also provides small-capacity nursery wards with maximum capacity of eight infants.—Editor's Note.)

In these experiments, Dr. Spock said, the crib remains in the mother's room so that she can become familiar with his noise, moods, movements and appetite. The mother also can feed the child by breast when it is hungry rather than according to clock.

"Preliminary reports suggest that the effect is good," he said, "not only on mothers and babies, but on the father. In our conventional obstetric arrangements, the father is apt to feel like a rank outsider, a germ carrier and from whom the baby must be shielded."

Too many mothers, once they get the baby home, maintain a too-clock-like schedule for him, especially his feeding habits.

"Surprisingly, or perhaps not so surprisingly, most babies are found to work themselves onto a fairly regular schedule in a short time," Dr. Spock said. Waking the child from a good sleep so that he can feed can cause effects on the baby's personality in later life.

The same holds true, he said, when the mother attempts to wean the baby too soon, attempts to make him eat solids too soon, or learn toilet habits too soon.

"He works real hard so some day we can have a home of our own," wrote his 9-year-old daughter in the winning letter.

This father of three did not know that he had been entered in The Washington Post sponsored contest until notified that he had won.

A strapping big man with light brown hair and an engaging smile, Riley has been on Washington's police force for five years and has chalked up five commendations. He is attached to the Eighth Precinct.

A reporter and photographer interviewed Riley at his home at 4327 Harrison st. nw. after he had been notified.

"I guess my children like me except when I cut their hair and make them take baths," he said modestly.

Mary Ann, a student at the Janney School, wrote the winning letter. Her two brothers, John, jr., 7, and James, 4, added their names. Here is the letter as Mary Ann wrote it:

"We think our Daddy is the best Daddy in the world. He is a policeman and when we are sleeping at night, Daddy is out protecting us and other people.

U. S. Charges Reds Overstep Austria Rights

By Wilbur Mackey
Post Reporter

The United States yesterday accused Russia of "the exercise of extraterritorial rights" in their part of Austria, while Communist-inspired unrest continued elsewhere is central Europe.

The Austrian matter came up in the Allied Control Commission meeting when Lieut. Gen. Sir James S. Steele, British High Commissioner, introduced a resolution accusing the Soviet Union of illegal seizure of oil. Lieut. Gen. Geoffrey Keyes concurred in the British statement, the Associated Press said.

The Russian action was said to have ignored both the Allied Control group and the Austrian government. The French did not comment, but the Soviet representative, according to the United Press, threatened to walk out, finally sitting in disgruntled silence.

The oil came from the Zisterdorf fields, which the Soviets took as reparations, claiming they were German assets. The British and Americans don't subscribe to this thesis.

The fields' 1944 production was about 8,491,000 barrels, the Associated Press said. The Russians agreed 60 per cent should go to Austria, but Austrians said they are getting 40 to 50 per cent.

The resolution also accused the Soviets of bartering goods from Austrian factories for Yugoslavian raw materials without informing Vienna authorities and in violation of the four-power agreement.

The oil charges were all the more serious because the Russians refuse to pass over the problem to get at the writing of the Austrian treaty.

Truman Aides Said to Advise Labor Bill Veto

By Alfred Friendly
Post Reporter

A majority of the "Secret Seven," President Truman's leading advisers on labor matters, favor a veto of the Taft-Hartley labor bill, it was learned yesterday.

The group, composed of Cabinet officers and White House advisers, met on Thursday. They heard Paul M. Herzog, chairman of the National Labor Relations Board, and Secretary of Labor Lewis B. Schwellenbach denounce the bill as unworkable.

The Post learned that two more members of the group—Interior Secretary Julius A. Krug and Presidential Assistant Clark M. Clifford—are almost equally convinced that Mr. Truman should turn down the bill.

Attorney General Tom Clark, Commerce Secretary W. Averell Harriman and Presidential Assistant John W. Steelman were reported not to have committed themselves definitely one way or the other. Speculation was that Steelman favored a veto, Clark was on the fence, and Harriman was inclined to have the bill signed.

The President has until June 19 to make his decision. He has not

'Colonel Blimp,' British Movie, Deflated in U. S., FTC Alleges

Roger Livesey "Colonel Blimp" | Mary Pickford | Charlie Chaplin Have 20 days to answer FTC charges

By Dillard Stokes
Post Reporter

"The Life and Death of Colonel Blimp" shown American movie fans was called a cut-down version of the real film, by the Federal Trade Commission yesterday.

Charles Chaplin, Mary Pickford and other officers and owners of United Artists, Inc., were given 20 days to answer FTC charges of misleading advertising. The case may lead to a formal court test of the FTC power to review movie and other national advertising.

The FTC accused United Artists of winning good reviews with the 2½-hour Colonel Blimp that was made and shown in England, and then working off an hour-and-a-half abstract on the American public.

Colonel Blimp, with Roger Livesey in the title role, ran over 14,000 feet in the English version, Richard Coe, The Post's drama critic, saw it when he was an overseas soldier and thought it a fine film. He said he did not believe it could have been cut much without greatly altering its quality.

The FTC charged yesterday that when United Artists cut more than 6000 feet out of Colonel Blimp the changes of both the film and its story were substantial. Yet, the FTC said, United Artists not only did not mention the abridgement in advertising and publicity, but represented they were offering "the original, complete, full-length film."

Not only the public but movie exhibitors were said to have been misled by the Colonel Blimp ads and publicity.

United Artists was said in the

National Ku Klux Charter Revoked by State of Georgia

Atlanta, June 13 (U.P.).—The State of Georgia abolished the Ku Klux Klan's charter today when the secret order abruptly dropped its fight for corporate survival.

Grand Dragon Samuel F. Green called the action meaningless and asserted "the KKK will ride so long as a white man liveth."

The peppery Atlanta obstetrician spoke out in a sultry courtroom after Superior Judge Bond Almand signed orders revoking the Georgia charter of the hooded knights and dissolving the national organization's corporate status.

Klan Counsel Morgan Belser surprised the handful of spectators by requesting the "double-dissolution" order shortly after the hearing opened.

State Attorney General Eugene Cook got the jump on Belser by dropping original suit charges that the Klan was dovetailed with the German-American Bund and various subversive groups.

Instead, Cook pegged his case on arguments and evidence that the Klan violated its charter pledge to operate without profit. He said the order profited from dues and the Dragon profited from sale of robes and trappings. The Klan offered no defense against these charges.

Green heads the Georgia Klan, unincorporated, but has been the national guiding spirit.

The court edicts do not outlaw either the Georgia or national Klan and both may apply at will for new charters.

The Attorney General said if Green ever manages to get a charter for his Klaverns (local Klan chapters), spread through north Georgia, "we'll strip him just like we did the national outfit."

Klan Counsel Belser told Judge Almand that the charges the Klan harbored murderers, arsonists, seditionists and thieves reflected on a membership that included "ministers, judges, sheriffs, Congressmen, Governors and, yes—even newspapermen."

He said the Klan acted quickly last year to get its State charter to squelch an attempt by the anti-Negro, anti-Jew Columbians, Inc., to take over the Klan name.

Police Seek Wreckage Of PCA Liner in Area Around Blue Ridge

Craft Sought In Tri-State Area Was Coming Here From Chicago

Police and rescue workers were scaling the rainswept Blue Ridge foothills early today following contradictory reports that the wreckage of a Capital-Pennsylvania Central Airlines DC-4 had been sighted.

The plane carried 47 passengers—one a baby—and a crew of three: was out of Chicago bound for National Airport.

Unreported since 7:08 p. m. last night when it was over Martinsburg, W. Va., the plane had been sought by scores of police in the tri-State area for hours.

City Policeman Lloyd Kelley at Leesburg said at 1:50 a. m. that State police teletype reported the wreckage found on North Short Mountain near Purcellville, Va.

At least seven persons from Greater Washington, including the three crew members—were aboard.

Captain of the liner was Horace Stark: the co-pilot, R. N. Creekmore, and the hostess, Margaret Walls.

The others with known area addresses:

David P. Godwin of 1407 31st st. nw.

Dr. Courtney Smith, 9901 Edgehill lane, Silver Spring.

C. H. McCafferty, 2704 Allison st., Mount Rainier.

Edmund J. Stone, 2921 Argyle dr., Alexandria, was reported returning here from Seattle. A neighbor said he was employed at the U. S. Public Housing Administration.

Converted C-54

The plane was a converted Army C-54, of the same type which crashed at LaGuardia Field May 28 and the one which plunged into the woods near Port Deposit, Md., two days later. The death toll in the two was 85 persons.

At 2:30 a. m., Mrs. James E. Stone, daughter of Deputy Sheriff Charles F. Reed of Leesburg, who was with the searching party, said no trace of the wreckage had been found.

She said she was in constant touch with Virginia State police at Culpeper, Va., who were in radio contact with cars in the search party.

Budgets of 33 U. S. Agencies Slashed Third of a Billion

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

The House Appropriations Committee yesterday cut 33 independent Government agencies a third of a billion below budget estimates, reaching out for a new House peak in 1948 savings.

But even as the House group swung the ax, the Senate Appropriations Committee restored $54,116,840 of House-slashed Interior Department funds. Bulk of this went for reclamation, calming the storm of Western protest.

The nip and tuck battle of the budget was entering its last and noisiest round.

Gore Disputes Claim

As adding machines clicked across the Capitol, House Appropriations Chairman John Taber (R., N. Y.) claimed House "savings" in projected 1948 spending now total over five billion. He said actual House cuts in new appropriations, not counting so-called recisions and unbudgeted receipts, have reached about 3½ billions.

Representative Albert Gore (Tenn.), Democratic scorekeeper, promptly challenged both claims. Gore said the House hasn't reached the two-billion mark in "bonafide" appropriation cuts, adding: "From now on that figure will drop as the Senate increases our bills."

With only two big money bills remaining (War Department civil functions and a catchall foreign aid deficiency), Taber and Gore will go to the mat next week on savings to date. Taber said he will announce itemized economies on Tuesday. Gore said he will release an appropriations scoresheet of his own.

4 Per Cent Trimming

In reporting the $8,167,889,027 Independent Offices bill, the House Appropriations Committee noted $330,540,732, or nearly 4 per cent, had been trimmed from the President's 1948 budget estimates for these agencies:

Veterans Administration, from $7,074,341,300 to $6,944,457,080; Atomic Energy Commission, from 250 million dollars to 175 million dollars; Federal Communications Commission, from $7,300,000 to $6,040,000; Civil Service Commission, from $260,063,000 to $259,304,000; Budget Bureau, from $3,470,000 to $3,376,609; Office of Government Reports, eliminated; Federal Power Commission, from $4,234,000 to $3,718,000; Federal Trade Commission, from $3,978,000 to $2,855,120; Federal Works Agency, $378,260,059 to $332,375,727; General Accounting Office, from $37,617,000 to $36,517,000; Interstate Commerce Commission, from $11,888,-

Strike Threat Marks Return Of President

The national strike picture took on a more somber hue last night as President Truman, returning from Canada, took up again the problem of approving or vetoing the labor-reform bill passed by Congress.

As CIO President Philip Murray said that "in all likelihood" there will be a walkout of CIO maritime unions upon expiration of current contracts Sunday night, Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach appealed to ship operators and unions to extend the contracts pending settlement of existing disputes.

Violence Breaks Out

Violence broke out in connection with the strike of foremen at Ford plants in Detroit, as five non-striking supervisors were injured in two assaults.

Public transportation in the St. Louis area, where live more than a million persons, was tied up by a strike of 3500 streetcar and bus operators.

A half million other persons were affected by continued stalemate of transportation facilities in the Oakland, Calif., area, due to a strike of 3000 AFL transit workers.

CIO President Philip Murray said last night that "in all likelihood" there will be a walkout of CIO unions in the maritime industry when contracts expire Sunday night.

Murray told a news conference that in the event employers and the unions fail to come to agree-

Offices Bill To Cost Jobs Of Thousands

By Jerry Kluttz
Post Reporter

Thousands of additional Federal jobs would be wiped out by the independent offices appropriation bill reported yesterday to the House.

The bill also would delay indefinitely the return here of a dozen Government agencies moved out during the war years.

Major reductions would have to be made under the bill in Veterans Administration, War Assets, Maritime, Public Buildings and General Accounting.

In the bill the House Appropriations Committee also recommended:

That the score of agencies covered by the bill either downgrade or fire employes in the upper brackets when they make reductions. It charged that most layoffs hit the low-salaried brackets;

That reductions be made in the personnel division of a number of agencies.

In denying the $900,000 to Public Buildings Administration to return the decentralized agencies here, the committee said it had not been presented with a specific program. It warned that no action should be taken until the Congress is advised of it in detail.

PBA officials proposed to return 3500 jobs here and it was estimated that only 2200 people would transfer here with the agencies.

Bandit Suspect, Detective Shot In Gun Fight

A 47-year-old District detective sergeant was shot and a suspected stop-light bandit wounded seriously last night in a wild exchange of gunfire at 10th st. and Rhode Island ave. nw.

Two other bandit suspects escaped after the shootings, but they may have been wounded, police said.

Hit by a bullet which passed through his shoulder some 2 inches below the bone was Detective Sergt. Joseph E. Hunt of 601 Hillwood ave., Falls Church, Va. He was taken to nearby Freedmen's Hospital.

Police identified the alleged bandit as Joseph Jones, 22, of the Braddock Hotel, New York City. He was taken to the same hospital with a bullet wound in the abdomen.

Detective Hunt's comrade in the shooting fray escaped unhurt, but one bullet passed through the shoulder cloth of his suit. He is Precinct Detective Ernest P. Jefferson, 34, assigned with Hunt to track down spotlight bandits held responsible for "several" hold-ups at the intersection earlier this week.

Police Inspector Walter Thomas, acting superintendent of police, described the shootings.

Hunt and Jefferson, he said,

Doctor Would Keep Infant In Mother's Hospital Room

Atlantic City, N. J., June 13 (U.P.). A Mayo Clinic expert said today that it might be a good idea to keep the newborn baby in a crib alongside its mother rather than "relegating" the child to an isolated nursery.

Such a "rooming-in" arrangement already is being tried in New Haven, Conn., and Detroit hospitals, Dr. Benjamin Spock, of the department of neurology and psychiatry, Mayo Clinic, told the American Medical Association.

(The idea has not been untried in Washington. Dr. P. A. McLendon, pediatrician for George Washington University Hospital, has used it experimentally. Success of his experiments has led to construction of maternity bedside cribs in the new university hospital now under construction. The new hospital also provides small-capacity nursery wards with maximum capacity of eight infants.—Editor's Note.)

In these experiments, Dr. Spock said, the crib remains in the mother's room so that she can become familiar with his noise, moods, movements and appetite. The mother also can feed the child by breast when it is hungry rather than according to clock.

"Preliminary reports suggest that the effect is good," he said, "not only on mothers and babies, but on the father. In our conventional obstetric arrangements, the father is apt to feel like a rank outsider, a germ carrier and from whom the baby must be shielded."

Too many mothers, once they get the baby home, maintain a too-clock-like schedule for him, especially his feeding habits.

"Surprisingly, or perhaps not so surprisingly, most babies are found to work themselves onto a fairly regular schedule in a short time," Dr. Spock said. Waking the child from a good sleep so that he can feed can cause effects on the baby's personality in later life.

The same holds true, he said, when the mother attempts to wean the baby too soon, attempts to make him eat solids too soon, or learn toilet habits too soon.

VA's Budget Left Nearly Untouched

House Unit Acts

Smithsonian Role Cut by Funds Slash

Looks like Smithsonian Institution may have to postpone its plans to publish a booklet on American goblid fishes and Philippine maninid mollusks.

Ditto for printing projects concerning the insects of tribe Ceresini, and pycnogonido of North Atlantic. Ditto for other scientific works.

All because the House Appropriations Committee yesterday lopped $354,000 off Smithsonian's request for '48 funds, and instead permitted the expenditure of no more than $1,700,000. Smithsonian officials were not too surprised by the committee's action. They had testified a few weeks before that the institution has been "on a starvation diet" for 15 years.

Medical, GI Bill Costs Unaffected In 131-Million Cut

By Sam Stavisky
Post Reporter

The medical, hospital, and GI Bill of Rights programs for veterans escaped unscathed yesterday, as the House Appropriations Committee trimmed the Veterans Administration 1948 budget of seven billions by 131 millions.

The committee, which hitherto has applied the economy ax on appropriations sought by major Federal agencies, treated the veterans' budget gently.

The treatment of VA's budget was even more gentle than the 131-million-dollar cut indicates. Most of the reduction is strictly a matter of bookkeeping estimates. The commitee promised to make up any money needed by VA to carry out Uncle Sam's obligations to servicemen and their dependents.

The committe, however, made a real cut in administrative expenses, approximately 39 million dollars. Of this sum, 27 million dollars must be saved at the expense of 10,000 employes. The committee emphasized that the reduction of 10,000 employes—to a total of 205,000—is not to affect adversely the number of persons engaged in hospital work.

On the other hand, the committee took a dim view as to the necessity of expanding operations of VA's contact and special services divisions, and urged that their activities be left to the veterans' organizations "insofar as it may be possible."

The committee found "disturbing weaknesses" in the VA setup: lack of proper central control of personnel and supplies; evidence of delay and lack of efficiency and economy in real estate and construction.

$22.50 in Coin Stolen From Luncheonette

Nickles, dimes, pennies and quarters—$22.50 of them—wrapped in denomination rolls, were stolen from Powell's Luncheonette, at 1319 F st. nw., early yesterday, Helen Powell of 126 Webster st. nw., proprietress, told police. She said a thief entered by forcing a window. She traced his route from a second floor powder room to a nearby roof, to her window ledge.

rescue workers up the mountain followed early reports in the general area. The first came from Mrs. S. P. Alexander, wife of the Loudoun County sheriff, who said her husband had been called to investigate an airplane crash in the northern part of the county about 9 p. m.

At Harper's Ferry, police reported employes of a roadside stand 3 miles east of Charles Town, W. Va., heard a plane "in trouble" about 9 p. m. They said the engines sounded as though they were "skipping" but they could not tell whether it was going down.

Captain Stark, 46, who lives at 4507 Four Mile Run dr., Arlington, was one of Capital's 62 pilots with more than one million miles of flying. During his service with the company he invented a number of navigational aids, including the Stark Position Finder which the company adopted universally in 1939.

Co-Pilot Creekmore lives at 2887 S. Abingdon st., Arlington and is a native of Wolfe, Tex. An Air Forces veteran of 2500 flying hours, Creekmore is 28 years old, married and the father of two sons, 6 and 2.

Miss Walls, the stewardess, 24 years old, has been with Capital three years after employment with the Civil Aeronautics Authority here. She lives at Plattsburg Court, McLean Gardens, and has a brother, Lieut. Col. J. H. Walls, jr., of 601 19th st. nw. She is a native of Guntersville, Ala., where her parents now live.

Godwin is national fire control chief for Forest Service, United States Department of Agriculture, who wired his wife he was boarding the plane at Chicago.

Godwin was on a business trip for Forest Service at Madison, Wis., his wife said. A pioneer in the development of the agency's Northwest "smoke-jumper" crops for parachuting men to forest fires, he was awarded a meritorious promotion for outstanding service in forest work, in 1946.

His wife, Thelma Strabel, in career life, is a magazine serial writer and well known in Washington social life.

Dr. Smith, 47, is national medical director of the American Red Cross. He had attended the ARC convention in Cleveland and was on his way home.

Miss Dorothy Hosford of Cleveland, one of those aboard, was en route here to visit Capt. and Mrs. William Easton, 3070 Foxall rd. nw. Captain Easton said he had heard nothing definite from her relatives in Cleveland as to whether she had actually boarded the plane, but her name was listed on the manifest.

Miss Mary Jane Altman, a former Wave stationed at the Navy Annex here, was one of those aboard. She was coming here from Uniontown, Pa., her home, to visit Miss Margaret McLean, 30 Plattsburg court nw. She and Miss McLean served together in the Waves.

Start on D. C. Hospital Plan Gets Approval

A $1,700,000 start at giving Washington a modern, 1500-bed hospital center was approved yesterday by the House Appropriations Committee.

The bill, sent to the House for action next week, is part of the independent offices appropriation.

The committee trimmed $1,050,000 from money originally asked for planning the center and buying a site—but in place of the money gave the Navy Department authority to transfer to Federal Works without charge a portion of its Naval Observatory grounds for use of the center. Sponsors of the program indorsed the arrangement.

Three Washington hospitals are to take part in the center—Emergency, Episcopal and Garfield.

In testimony made public with the bill, W. E. Reynolds, public buildings commissioner, told the committee he believed the center will cost about 22 million dollars. Earlier estimates had been two million dollars lower.

D. C. Slum Cleanup Plan Funds Refused

By Edward F. Ryan
Post Reporter

Washington's first request for money to start cleaning up and redeveloping the city's slum areas was turned down in full yesterday by the House Appropriations Committee.

The committee threw out of the Independent Offices appropriations bill the $95,000 fund for the National Capital Park and Planning Commission—needed for making the general and detailed plans that are the first legal step in slum clearance under the law approved last year.

Bars Start

If the decision stands it would bar even preliminary work on slum clearance here for another year.

Senator Pat McCarran (D., Nev.) said he would make every effort to see that the money is granted. He led the fight for passage of the slum clearance bill, and is a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee.

A similar move may be made in the House, leaders said, but the result there is uncertain.

Pegged to Shortage

Reason for the House Committee action, its report said, was:

"The program, which involves the removal and reconstruction of housing in several areas, should be deferred until the demand for housing has been met to some extent and until the cost of construction has decreased."

District officials were shocked at the decision. They declined official comment, however, in the hope the money might be restored.

Senator McCarran said holding up the program would be dangerous.

"If we don't clean up these slums in a reasonable time," he said, "the City of Washington need not be surprised if an epidemic strikes here that will make us wish we had made the appropriations even earlier."

Described as Revolting

In steering the slum clearance authority bill through the Senate in October 1945, McCarran described Washington slum conditions as "to say the least, revolting."

The bill cleared the Senate without opposition, and the House approved it last July by a vote of 115 to 9.

Under the law, basic plans must clear through the Planning Commission and the District Commissioners. When a plan for redeveloping an area is approved, it would be carried out by the new District Redevelopment Land Agency, headed by Mark Lansburgh.

The agency has been drafting a budget reported to total several million dollars—but actual work could not start until the planning had been completed. The bill's policy is to give private industry first chance to redevelop blighted areas.

Those 2 Bills Face Truman, Back in D. C.

By Edward T. Folliard
Post Reporter

President Truman, winding up a highly successful good-will trip to Canada, returned to Washington last night to face one of the great tests of his political career.

Awaiting action in the White House were the tax-cut bill and the labor-reform bill. Hardly ever has an American Chief Executive been confronted with the necessity of passing on two such politically explosive measures in one week.

The presidential special rolled into Union Station at 9:42 p. m. Mr. Truman chatted with reporters just before getting into a limousine with Mrs. Truman and Miss Margaret Truman to drive to the White House in the rain.

He said that, upon his arrival at the White House, he planned to telephone to Grandview, Mo., and check up on the condition of his 95-year-old mother, Mrs. Martha E. Truman. He had called from Ottawa the night before, he said, and found that she was continuing to improve.

President Truman, according to all indications, is going to disapprove the tax bill and send a veto message to Capitol Hill sometime Monday. If he had any idea of approving the bill, it is reasoned, he would have done so before this.

What Mr. Truman will do about the labor bill is a closely guarded secret in his own White House group. He has until midnight Friday to sign it, veto it, or let it become a law without his signature.

As the special train rolled into Buffalo yesterday morning, after a stop on the other side of the river at Niagara Falls, Mr. Truman could see a huge billboard with these words:

"Welcome President Truman. Please veto the labor bill."

On the way to Washington, President Truman took a nap after luncheon. Thus, without knowing it, he disappointed crowds that gathered to cheer him at Renovo, Pa., and Williamsport, Pa. Many in the throng carried flags and other flags were flying from stores and homes.

His sojourn in Canada—where, he said, he had a "grand time"—came to an end in Niagara Falls, Ontario. He left the train, got in an automobile, and drove first to Horseshoe Falls, and then to Table Rock. Here he viewed the mighty cataract through a telescope and ducked when the spray came up to douse him and accompanying reporters.

House Unit Approves D. C. Undertaking Bill

A bill to regulate undertaking in the District was approved yesterday by a House District subcommittee headed by Representative A. L. Miller (R., Nebr.).

Instead of regulation by a seven-member board, with six of them undertakers, the committee approved a five-member board with two undertakers.

WAA Corruption Admitted

By The Associated Press

Administrator Robert M. Littlejohn says the War Assets Administration has its "share" of corrupt employes and "we will always have it—human nature is so constituted that way."

But he testified to a House subcommittee he has "set up a sort of FBI" in his organization to run down every rumor of dishonesty.

His testimony, made public yesterday, was during hearings on the Independent Offices Appropriation bill.

Representative Wigglesworth (R., Mass.) said he had had complaints that "speculation and corruption have developed and such things as commission splits with personnel inside your organization have gone on."

Littlejohn said that "of course, we have our share of it."

Wigglesworth asked whether Littlejohn's "FBI," generally speaking, has found corruption in WAA.

"Well, occasionally," the administrator replied.

Wigglesworth commented "if we are to believe half of the smoke that has appeared in the picture in the past year or two, there must have been plenty of fire."

As one of many examples, he said a friend he has known for years and who has had experience with various WAA offices in the Middle West charged in a written statement to him:

"Willful destruction of Government property worth millions of dollars; unreasonable expansion of personnel; . . . playing deliberately into the hands of unscrupulous people who have placed employes inside the organization to advise them of disposal facts; widespread bribery, graft, partiality and corruption; . . . inadequate defense against exploitation of veterans; the wanton and extravagant use of newspaper advertising."

A Government report that the War Assets Office in Detroit sold surplus aluminum at an "unconscionable discount" and gave "tips" to a buyer also was made public.

Thousands More Face Layoff In Independent Offices Bill

That would have created 1300 jobs here for discharged employes.

In the reductions, Veterans Administration was told it must turn off 10,000 employes to get down to 205,000. However, VA is now in the midst of a reduction to get within a 210,000 ceiling and only 5000 additional employes would have to be laid off to get within the committee recommendation. The committee suggested layoffs in VA's branch and regional offices.

The committee hit hard at Maritime's administrative staff of 2850 employes of whom 1575 are in this city. Money is provided in the bill to carry a staff of about 1750 which would mean a layoff of 1100.

However, Maritime's training division would be increased by at least 750 employes—none, however, in this city—and its reserve fleet force of 3400 would not be touched.

Over the next year the hapless War Assets Administration would have to cut from 42,000 to 16,400, which was planned, but the slash would have to be made much sooner if the committee has its way. WAA's funds for personnel were cut 15 million dollars. This would mean a slash of at least 5000 additional employes on top of the reductions now under way. The committee specified that WAA's six zone offices be wiped out. However, very few employes here would be fired immediately.

This is an agency by agency breakdown of how personnel would be affected by the committee action:

GENERAL ACCOUNTING: Its budget was cut $1,100,000, and it was ordered to delay efficiency studies of Federal agencies as required in the Congressional Reorganization Act. The agency asked for a million dollars to set up a staff and to make the studies. It has 11,000 employes now and the number will be cut below 10,000 within a year.

OFFICE OF GOVERNMENT REPORTS: This agency of 150 employes would be liquidated and all of its employes fired. No funds were recommended to carry it beyond June 30.

BUDGET BUREAU: The $93,000 cut given this agency would not force it to fire a single employe here or in the field service.

WHITE HOUSE: The President was given all the money he asked for—$952,500 to operate the White House. No layoffs here.

ECONOMIC ADVISERS: It was given $350,000 to carry on its 48 employes. The committee said a proposed expansion "is not justified at the present time."

ATOMIC ENERGY: Although given a budget cut, it appears that its number of employes would not be affected by it. Its officials proposed increasing the number of employes from 3200 to 5531, and to continue to carry about 40,000 additional people on contract. The committee took a crack at the AEC press staff, and it nailed a rider onto the bill which would force the agency to fix the salaries of its employes, except scientists and technicians, by Classification Act rates. The rider would become effective on November 30 and it would force many agency employes to take salary cuts.

CIVIL SERVICE: Its buydget was cut $1,080,000 which ordinarily would mean the firing of about 300 employes. However, the commission will bank on congressional approval of the Federal employe loyalty program which would require it to add about 4000 people. Surplus employes would be transferred to that program if and when it's approved.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS: It has about 1400 employes now and requested additional funds to build up its staff to 1657. But instead of giving it more money, the agency was cut $211,900 below this year's funds. A layoff of between 25 and 40 people must be made if it is approved.

FEDERAL POWER: It sought additional funds to increase its staff from 895 to 943. Apll new funds were denied and the agency was given the same as it has for this year.

FEDERAL TRADE: This agency, too, wanted to build up its staff here from 600 to 802. It was given only a $5000 increase, which means the expansion was denied. The committee hinted the commission was already overstaffed in several offices. It specifically banned any funds for work on a proposed financial reports program.

FEDERAL WORKS: The administrator's office was cut $35,460 which was proposed for several additional jobs. No layoffs would have to be made.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS: It sought $33,015,000 for salaries and expenses in this city. The committee cut off $3,300,000. A personnel cut of around 1000 in the custodial and mechanical staff would appear probable. However, officials say that the PBA staff has a turnover of around 400 a month and that a big layoff is "most unlikely." With Federal employment going down here, PBA officials admitted a staff as large as had been planned would not be necessary.

PUBLIC ROADS: It was given funds to carry on a staff of 655 here and 2170 in the field.

INTERSTATE COMMERCE: This agency requested funds for 2674 employes. The committee recommended money enough to carry on the 2269-man staff.

NATIONAL ADVISORY COMMITTEE FOR AERONAUTICS: It was given an increase of $5,950,000 which it could use to hire about 500 additional employes in the field. However, a request to increase its staff here from 132 to 182 was denied. The agency has 6000 employes now.

ARCHIVES: It was given $15,000 more than it has for this year, but $434,000 less than what it requested. The present staff can be continued, but it ordered the agency to spend no additional funds on a history of the Government's war experiences. The committee also demanded that the agency downgrade upper bracket employes and knock out a recent reorganization.

SECURITIES & EXCHANGE: It was given a $200,000 increase which could be used to expand moderately. SEC has 1270 employes and it requested funds for 1587.

SMITHSONIAN: It was given an increase of $67,400 which could be used to increase its 500-man staff.

NATIONAL GALLERY OF ART: Its 310-man staff would continue unchanged.

TARIFF: It was given $39,349 more than it has for this year, but $171,000 less than it asked for. A small increase here.

These are among the agencies the Public Buildings Administration sought to return to this city:

Securities and Exchange, and Immigration and Naturalization from Philadelphia; Bureau of Employes' Compensation, and the Veterans' Administration's actuarial insurance division in New York; Fish and Wildlife, Indian Bureau, National Park Service, Alien Property, and Federal Deposit Insurance from Chicago, and the Civil Service regional office from Winston-Salem.

Officials said they would appeal to the Senate to okay the program.

Half Atomic Plants Reported Obsolete

House Group Reports 'Startling' Changes; 75 Million Cut Asked

By The Associated Press

The Atomic Energy Commission says half its plants and equipment are obsolete because of "startling improvements" in processes but that commercial use of atomic power still is probably 10 to 15 years away.

The information was made public by the House Appropriations Committee yesterday in a report recommending that the commission be given only 175 million dollars of the 250 million dollars it asked for the fiscal year starting July 1.

Doubts on Spending

The committee said it had no desire "to retard development in connection with this most important project" but that it had been unable to find out how the agency plans to spend its money or how many people will be on its payroll.

The committee suggested the commission can come back to Congress for more funds after it gets its facts and figures straightened out.

The commission contended during committee hearings that the accounts and records it received from the Army when it took over the Manhattan project were insufficient for more than what Representative Wigglesworth (R., Mass.) called "an over-all curbstone guess" on its budget.

General Manager Carroll L. Wilson testified more and more of the commission's two billion dollars worth of plants and equipment will become obsolete as new improvements are developed to push atomic science toward more powerful weapons and peaceful uses.

The Appropriations Committee allowed the commission the full $250,000,000 it asked in authority to make contracts to be financed by future appropriations.

It proposed, too, that the commission make a "substantial" cut in its publicity staff.

Revealed at Hearings

Questioning of Commission Chairman David Lilienthal, Wilson and others during the hearings brought out this information outside the field of "hush-hush" atomic development:

1. If atomic energy for commercial use is developed in the next 10 to 15 years, it is unlikely to supplant all other forms of power but may keep their costs down.

2. The field where private atomic activity can begin first appears to be in the "production and the utilization of radioactive isotopes." Isotopes are slight variations of the same chemical element.

These isotopes have "practical possibilities" in industrial, medical and chemical research, some in the field of plant biology.

3. The commission is planning new or explanded plants or laboratories at various points in the country. The Appropriations Committee cautioned that the greater the scattering of facilities, the more danger there is to preserving "essential secrecy."

4. The commission expects to have advisory groups to study the question of whether big factories should be split into small ones, and whether some should go underground to avoid industrial disaster in an atomic war.

5. Incentives for industry must be developed rapidly if America is to have an "atomic industry." Right now profit possibilities are hard to predict and "the commercial gamble is rather a long one."

143 Affected

House Group Would End Reports Unit

The House Appropriations Committee yesterday sounded death knell for the Office of Government Reports.

The committee recommended that Congress abolish the 143-man executive unit by refusing to approve any part of the $600,000 budget sought for fiscal '48.

One of the newer Government agencies, OGR in its 10 years has nonetheless had its share of public controversy and newspaper headlines.

A highlight of the organization's career occurred in 1942, when under Lowell Mellett the OGR built a $600,000 information center at 14th st. and Pennsylvania ave. nw. This project came under fire as unessential to the war effort. The building now houses various agencies, including the District Veterans' and Housing Centers.

Currently, OGR comprises four divisions: liaison with the advertising industry, liaison with the moving picture industry, Government information service, and press and radio intelligence service.

33 Agencies' Funds Pared

000 to $10,611,100; National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, from $43,839,000 to $43,449,000; National Archives, from $1,691,000 to $1,256,335; Securities and Exchange Commission, from $6,500,000 to $5,738,700; Tariff Commission, from $1,320,000 to $1,148,349; Philippine War Damage Commission from 90 million dollars to 70 million dollars; National Capital Park and Planning Commission, from $3,368,000 to $279,000; and Smithsonian Institution, from $3,015,400 to $2,649,738.

While claiming only a third of a billion budget cut for the lot Representative Richard B. Wigglesworth (R. Mass.), chairman of the subcommittee handling the bill, insisted "savings" in next year's outlays will range far higher.

Wigglesworth said cutbacks in existing appropriations (recisions), additional revenue from sale and charter of vessels and other receipts would bring "over-all savings" in the bill to $1,411,690,732.

Representative Joe Hendricks (D., Fla.), a minority member of the committee, challenged even the strictly budget cuts. Instead of trimming the budget $330,540,732, Hendricks said the committee cut it only $155,240,000. He charged many purported cuts were "phonies" that merely "postponed spending."

Here are the cuts Hendricks charged were rendered meaningless by contract authorizations to each agency; Atomic Energy Commission, 75 million dollars; Veterans Administration Hospital and domiciliary construction, $80,300,000; Federal aid postwar highways, $31,288,854, and Philippine War Damage Commission, 20 million dollars.

The Senate Appropriations Committee, meanwhile, helped quiet a Western tempest started by House cuts in reclamation projects. It voted the Interior Department $54,116,840 more than the House did. Of this increase, $36,837,932 went to the Bureau of Reclamation for Western land and water resources development. The Senate bill gave the Interior Department $215,530,353 all told, or $80,605,067 less than the President asked.

Western legislators in both parties had complained bitterly when the House slashed reclamation projects. Interior Secretary Julius A. Krug had hopped into the fight, charging it invited a "major depression."

Senate Republican Whip Kenneth S. Wherry (Nebr.) chairman of the Senate subcommittee which restored slashed projects, hit back at Krug in reporting the bill. He said Krug "misled" the public.

Wherry said the President asked no new funds for nine reclamation projects. On nine others, he said the Budget Bureau agreed with the House, leaving "only 13 in which there was a difference of opinion."

Wherry added:

"This hardly justifies Mr. Krug's prediction of dire calamity, and certainly in the light of the apropriation increases granted by the Senate committee, such claims can no longer be leveled against Congress by honest advocates of Western resources development."

The Senate group earmarked $36,837,932 for such reclamation projects as the Missouri River Basin, Central Valley project, and Hungry Horse, Mont. It added another $9,314,600 to the $6,907,800 which the House voted the Bonneville Power Administration.

It was less generous to projects in the Democratic South. In fact, it eliminated all construction funds for the Southwestern Power Administration, for which the House had voted $1,246,000.

Nation Needs Training Most, Says Baruch at Bust Unveiling

Harris & Ewing

LEADERS—Secretary of State George C. Marshall (left) and Bernard M. Baruch stand by the bust of Baruch, presented yesterday to the War College

Elder Statesman Bernard M. Baruch yesterday marveled at "the regularity with which errors are repeated by the civilian and political mind."

The tall, white-haired financier who has been called upon to help the Nation through two wars declared "it is not an army we must train for war; it is a Nation."

His comments came after he had received the plaudits of Cabinet members and top military men on presentation of a bronze bust of Baruch to the National War College.

The presentation was made in the War College auditorium on Greenleaf Point by Herbert Bayard Swope. The bust was carved by Rudolph Evans.

Quotes Greek Biographer

Baruch declared "we must depend on our soldiers and sailors not only to protect us, but to help us avoid the entanglements that may prove fatal." He quoted Plutarch "in war it is not often permitted to make the same mistake twice" and added:

"But we did it and we got away with it. It is one of the primary functions of this newly established National War College to guard against this weakness by perfecting the marriage of political and military objectives."

General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower, Chief of Staff, had said "billions would have been saved, as well as many lives," if those involved in the recent war had applied the lessons of the First World War—lessons which, he said, Baruch "worked day and night" to preserve.

Marshall Cites Historic Dinner

Admiral of the Fleet Chester W. Nimitz, Chief of Naval Operations, lauded Baruch's "enviable record of unselfish but highly effective service to his country."

Secretary of State George C. Marshall declared the "real start in getting military equipment" came out of a dinner arranged by Baruch and James F. Byrnes with several key Senators. Prior to that time, most of the Senators, he said, had been "rather stiff in their attitude toward military requirements," and he was being attacked in the press for calling for 10,000 planes, he added.

Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson said Baruch's likeness at the War College, "will serve as a constant reminder that he is the father of one of the most potent elements the United States has, its tremendous industrial capacity."

Source of Honesty

"If we preserve and develop that element," according to Patterson, "it will not go unnoticed overseas."

Secretary of the Navy James Forrestal told Baruch two things that impressed him:

"You left a blueprint from the last war to guide us," he said, "and you were a catalyst to reconcile differing views, a source of common sense and honesty."

Swope referred to Baruch as the first commander of the "Arsenal of Democracy" as chairman of the War Industries Board in the First World War. Vice Admiral H. W. Hill, commandant of the War College, expressed his appreciation for the honor bestowed on the institution. Maj. Gen. A. M. Gruenther, deputy commandant, also paid a tribute to Baruch.

Among the guests who gathered to honor the elder statesmen were Secretary of the Treasury Snyder, former Secretary of State Byrnes, Judge Bennett Champ Clark, Eugene Meyer, owner of The Washington Post, Gen. Omar Bradley, head of the Veterans Administration, Maj. Gen. Leslie R. Groves, Leon Henderson, former Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes, British Ambassador Lord Inverchapel, Admiral Emory Land, several Senators and members of the Atomic Energy Commission, including David E. Lilienthal, chairman.

Fund Proposed For Study of Air Weapons

By The Associated Press

The House Appropriations Committee yesterday proposed a $43,449,000 fund for research in aerial weapons after hearing that potential foes might "jump at us" if they ever get air superiority.

The commitee recommended the appropriation for use by the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics during the fiscal year starting July 1. It would be a $12,736,000 increase over the amount granted last year.

The committee report said research in such weapons as guided missiles and planes of unprecedented speed is essential to national security.

No Present Danger

Jerome C. Hunsaker, chairman of the advisory group charged with coordinating the Government's research work, said during the hearings the United States would be "in a splendid position" if war broke out now, but added:

'Our aircraft are not absolete today because no one else has any better, but the seeds of obsolescence from an engineering point of view are already apparent . . . I am speaking now for legislation to keep us out in front."

Mush of the testimony at the hearings was so secret that it was stricken from the public record.

Committee members pressed Hunsaker and his aides for details on how American aviation developments compare with other countries.

Interest Not Exclusive

The transcript showed this exchange:

Representative Hendricks (D., Fla.): "May I ask, is it not reasonable to assume that other nations are as much interested as we are?"

Hunsaker: "Entirely so."

Hendricks: "Is it not reasonable to assume that if war started, if war broke out, that they might have to jump on us?"

Hunsaker: "Yes. If they knew they had the edge on us that might be the only reason for them to jump at us."

One-Way Look

At another point, Representative Albert Thomas (D., Tex.) observed: "It is a pretty fair assumption that the Russians have a pretty good idea of what we are doing, and we have not the slightest idea of what they are doing."

Dr. George W. Lewis, director of aeronautical research: "That is right."

Committee members pressed Hunsaker on what his committee may need during the next five or ten years.

"Instead of estimating 35 or 40 millions," said Hunsaker, "we may need two or three times that amount."

Need of World Health Unit Cited by Judd

By The Associated Press

Representative Walter H. Judd (R., Minn.), urging United States participation in the world health organization, said yesterday that the speed of modern travel has made international cooperation in fighting disease essential.

Judd, a former medical missionary, told a House Foreign Affairs Subcommittee that this country has but two choices: to work with other nations to eliminate disease at its source, or strict quarantine. He termed the latter impossible.

The committee is holding hearings on a bill by Judd for United States participation in the world organization, an offshoot of the United Nations.

Among other things, the organization is intended to promote exchange of information among nations on diseases and to develop international regulations for control measures and standards of quality for pharmaceutical and biological products.

Sixty-three nations have indicated an intention to participate.

Both Judd and Surgeon General Thomas Parran cited the recent outbreak of smallpox in New York City, brought by a passenger on a bus from Mexico, as an illustration of how the increased speed of travel has heightened the danger of disease spreading across borders.

Secretary of State Marshall sent his indorsement of the bill to the committee with this message:

"I should like to emphasize that the world health organization is intended to provide the international machinery to bring about conditions of health essential not only to the welfare of the United States but to a stable world order."

Atom, Arms Must Tie In, Russia Says

Lake Success, June 13 (AP).—Russia warned today that the United Nations Commission on conventional armaments might fail on its assigned task unless it accepts a Soviet demand to link the atomic control problem with arms limitation.

On another U. N. front, the Soviet Union charged at a meeting of the drafting committee of the Commission on Human Rights that the American-controlled Japanese government is "closing its eyes to Fascist activities" and that the "old Japanese military clique" is in power.

Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet deputy foreign minister who has fought for months to persuade the arms commission to tie the atom up to arms limitation, held up adjournment of the commission today to insist that the U. N. Assembly had recognized the connection between the two in its broad arms resolution of December 14 and that the commission should do the same.

Col. W. R. Hodgson, Australia, criticized the Big Five for not breaking a 60-day deadlock between Russia and the United States on a plan of work for the commission. Spearheading a demand from the small nations for action, he called upon the commission to agree on the United States draft and get down to work. Despite that, the commission adjourned until June 18 without a vote on any plan. Hodgson charged that the Russian plan was too "rigid."

In the Human Rights Committee, which is drawing up an international bill of rights, Vladimar Koretsky, Russian, said the new Japanese constitution sounded like a translation of the United States Constitution. He charged that no modification of the Federal landlord system had taken place. He said that this meant that the old Japanese military clique, like wolves in sheep's clothing, was arresting political leaders and demonstrators while the government closed its eyes to these "fascist" activities.

Elsewhere in the U. N.:

Secretary-General Trygve Lie announced that Wilder Foote, chief adviser on public information to the United States delegation to the N. N., had been named a director of the U. N. department of public information at $10,000 annually, tax-free.

The U. N. Balkans Inquiry Commission postponed its first meeting at U. N. headquarters until Monday.

Austin Scouts War Talk

Cambridge, Mass., June 13 (U.P.).—Warren Austin, chief American delegate to the United Nations, said today tension between the United States and Russia was delaying agreement on major U. N. problems, but talk about the inevitability of another war was "folly."

Austin, addressing the graduating class at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, said the world may require 50 years to build a peaceful society. He added that "there will inevitably be periods of setback and of discouragement such as the period through which we are now passing."

Hotel Enables Guests To Choose Bath Scent

New York, June 13 (AP).—Guests got a scent in return for the price of a room with a shower at a Manhattan hotel today.

The Henry Hudson Hotel installed gadets in its showers which sprayed guests with water and soluble perfume of pine (for men) and apple blossom (for women). Guests merely had to turn the right knob to smell the right way.

Uprising by Reds In Athens Likely From the Evidence

By M. W. Fodor

(Post reporter, authority on the Balkans and Near East, author of "Plot and Counterplot in Central Europe," "South of Hitler," and other works.)

Athens, June 13.—Athens, as all Balkan capitals, was, and is, always a white-hot center for rumors. There is a whole crop of them now— "Have you heard? There will be shortly a new uprising of the Communists in Athens." "You've heard that the International Brigade, destined for Greece, has arrived in Split, Dalmatia?"

In troubled times, such as the present ones, you cannot ignore these tell-tales. You hear of them from important cabinet ministers, from distinguished Greek journalists. Thus these rumors cannnot be ignored our own mission must listen to them. Most of these rumors have some basis; others are intentionally circulated by the Communists, with a purpose, or by sensation-mongers.

Ripe for Uprising

The most important of these rumors is the one about the coming Communist uprising in Athens. Life here is exceedingly expensive, wages are out of step with costs, the heat is excessive, passions, as always, are at a climax in Athens. Thus there is always a reason for the outburst of passions. No country in the world, except some South American republics, has as many revolutions as Greece.

With all the impoverished Asia Minor refugees living in the suburbs of Kaiseriani Syngros, Pankrati, Kokkinia, Neo-Smyrna and Neo-Philadelphia round Athens, (where they were settled by the Republican leaders 22 years ago) there are enough embittered people here who might follow the call of the Communists. They could easily arrange strikes, which might develop into a general strike. This, sooner or later, could bring clashes between the strikers and the army and police, developing into a regular civil war in the Greek capital.

Strong Measures Likely

It is possible that the Communists would resort to such desperate measures to prove at the coming discussion of the Greek situation before the Security Council of U. N., that Greece is seething with revolt. The Greek army and police, especially with the help of the British troops still stationed in Athens, has the power to suppress the revolt, even if it would prove extremely disastrous and costly.

Yet it is possible that the Communists are intentionally spreading these rumors concerning the coming uprising because these rumors compel the Greek general staff to keep plenty of troops in and around Athens, preventing their being dispatched further north, to combat the guerillas.

The rumors about the International Brigade have received here complete credulity. Speaking the other day with an important member of the cabinet, he fully endorsed them. As these rumors came from sources which you simply cannot neglect (which does not mean that they are true at all) I will summarize them. The International Brigade, destined to fight for Greek "liberation," as the International Brigade fought in Spain is being formed in southern France, in the cities of Narbonne, Perpignan, Toulouse and Biarritz. A French Communist deputy, M. Garandy, is supposed to be its head, and many of the Spanish refugees in France are being drafted into it. General Miaja, the defender of Madrid in Loyalist days, is supposed to lead the Spanish contingent.

The group formed in France is being shipped to the Dalmatian port of Split (Spalato) in Yugoslavia. It is not quite clear why such a port situated quite a distance from Greece was chosen. It would appear that an Albania port, such as Durazzo or Valona, would be more suitable for operations against Greece.

The spokesman of the Greek general staff, General Manitakis, when queried whether units of this International Brigade were encountered by Greek troops, answered in the negative. Thus we must "wait and see." It is believed possible that the Soviets would go so far as encouraging the formation of such an international Brigade, yet this certainly would not help the cause of the Greek leftists. It would only cause the further "internationalization" of the conflict in Greece.

coincided with these developments:

1. HUNGARY. Ousted Premier Nagy (pronounced nudge to rhyme with fudge), before boarding a plane in Switzerland early today, would give an account here of Hungarian developments "and if necessary to public opinion of the entire world," the United Press reported.

Nagy explained that the Hungarian gold, sent to Switzerland for safekeeping during the war, had been transferred in a double-locked safe, the keys to which are held by resigned Minister to Switzerland Ferenc Gordon and Joseph Szal, Communist secretary at the legation. Both keys are needed to open the safe, Nagy said, and Gordon will not surrender his except to a freely elected government.

United Press sources estimated that approximately $500,000 in gold was transferred by Hungary to Switzerland in 1943.

Deszo Sulyok, who denounced the pro-Communist regime in Parliament Thursday, told the Associated Press in Budapest his Freedom (Liberty) Party would challenge the forthcoming elections unless they were held under international supervision. His party has 18 members in Parliament, all expelled from the Smallholders Party in the first Communist purge a year ago. He said he felt safer from arrest since his speech, because the Communists would not now want to draw attention to themselves by a move against him.

President Zoltan Tildy denied Nagy's statement he was induced to stay in office "by threat of deportation to Russia."

2. ROMANIA. The Moscow radio reports "widespread unrest" and said many students, teachers and officers had been arrested in a "new underground," the International News Service stated.

Iulia Maniu, head of the Peasant Party, and Constantin Titel, chief of the Independent Socialist Party, told the United Press the Truman doctrine of economic aid should be extended to all European countries. Maniu called it "the only intellectual and moral means which can still assure world peace."

3. GREECE. Yugoslavia, according to the United Press, charged that Greek planes machine-gunned a Yugoslav outpost, killing the commander and two soldiers. Athens promptly denied the charge, saying it "forms part of the war of nerves."

Seymour Freidin of the New York Herald Tribune Foreign Service, in an interview with an unnamed Communist leader, quoted him as saying that Leftists must join the cabinet if guerilla warfare is to end. He suggested Nikko Zachariades, Moscow-trained Communist Party secretary, and forecast that if his idea was not followed the United States would be as hated in Greece as Britain is now.

4. BULGARIA. Communist-led government reject British note protesting closing of two newspapers, saying that printers just refused to work for them until the two stopped "everything dear to the workers hearts." It was indicated that they would publish soon.

Trial of Peter Koev, former Finance Ministry aide, was reported started in Sofia, and he allegedly named Nicola Petkov, Agrarian Party leader, as head of a plot against the government.

Ferenc Nagy Expected in D. C. Tonight or Tomorrow

Ferenc Nagy, who was ousted as Hungarian prime minister by a Communist coup last month, is expected in Washington tonight or tomorrow.

Aladar Szegedy-Maszak, Hungarian minister to the United States under Nagy, said last night he had been notified by TWA that the former prime minister was scheduled to arrive in New York at 6 (EST) tonight (7 p. m. DST).

Szegedy-Maszak, who refused a recall to his country by the new Communist government, will meet Nagy in New York Szegedy-Maszak will be accompanied by Steven Borosody, former counsellor of the legation.

He expects the former premier to be accompanied by his wife, daughter, Juliet, and 4-year-old son, Lacik. Ferenc Nagy, jr., another son, who was an attache at the Legation here until the Communist coup, is resting at the home of friends, and will be unable to meet his father in New York.

The 22-year-old Ferenc, jr., recently explained to a reporter that his family name is pronounced as though spelled "Nodj."

Britain Agrees To Carry Out U. S. Aid Plan

London, June 13 (AP).—Ernest Bevin declared today that Britain would take the initiative in organizing the American-proposed program for rebuilding the shattered economy of Europe. He hailed the day as a "bridge to link the east and west."

Bevin

The British Foreign Secretary, in indorsing the program recently outlined by United States Secretary of State George C. Marshall, welcomed American inclusion of Russia among countries eligible to participate in the plan.

"We are glad to know that misunderstanding has been removed by including Russia in the American proposals," he told the Foreign Press Association. "It was a real attempt by a great country trying to make its contribution toward creating a healthy world, healthy in body and mind.

Britain to Call Conference

"I can only say to other nations that when the United States throws a bridge to link east and west it is disastrous for ideological or any other reasons to frustrate the United States in that great endeavor."

Shortly before he spoke Government informants said Britain would soon call a conference of European countries to draft a joint rehabilitation program. Bevin made no mention in his speech of a definite date for such a conference, but said:

"We have decided to consult France and other European nations to see how best we can take advantage of this great proposal of the United States."

He predicted that a first step would be urgent consultations between Britain and France, and added:

"I think the initiative will develop upon us to direct and lead Europe back to a healthy state.

Marshall's Speech "Historic"

Bevin said the speech by Marshall at Cambridge, Mass., last Thursday in which the American Secretary proposed the reconstruction program "may well rank as one of the greatest in the world's history."

Marshall pledged American economic aid, but added that the initiative must come from Europe.

Bevin used the phrase "A bridge to link the East and West" when he indorsed the American proposal for a four-power pact against Germany, and he referred to that proposal—thus far not accepted by Russia—again in today's speech.

Sinkiang Ordered To Hold to Last Man

Chinese Report 'Red Star' Planes Aiding Attack Denied by Soviet Group in London

Nanking, June 13 (AP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek sent a dramatic order to Sinkiang's garrison today to defend China's border "to the last man" against reinforced invaders from pro-Soviet Outer Mongolia.

While beset in that far western province, press accounts said China's military rule in adjacent, semiautonomous Tibet was challenged by an armed revolt of the powerful Lamas. Chungking dispatches said fighting persisted near Lhasa, the "forbidden city" and Tibet's capital.

The chief concern remained in Sinkiang, however, where press reports said the focal point of battle was Pietashan, 50 miles inside China.

Latest accounts asserted warplanes bearing Russia's Red Star emblem continued to bomb and strafe Chinese positions.

(Tass, official Soviet news agency, denied in London that Russian planes took part.)

The trouble in Sinkiang was unrelated to the fighting in Tibet, where, dispatches said, Chinese military authorities were "seriously troubled" by local clashes.

Tibet, lying south of Sinkiang, is designated a "special area," not a province. China exercises military control with a small garrison, but Tibet's Lamas largely run civil and religious affairs. Lamaism is a form of Buddhism.)

Press reports said the trouble began when Chinese military authorities put to death the leader of the Lamas or monks, who was pro-British. (The British long have had an interest in Tibet, which trades with adjacent India.)

All the Lamas of the three major Lamaseries, which practically rule most of Tibet, then rose in armed rebellion.

Red Sinkiang Plot Seen

Nanking, China, June 13 (U.P.).—Invasion of Sinkiang Province by the Communist-dominated Mongolian army was reported by a government supporter today to be part of a plan to establish a pro-Soviet regime there similar to that which revolted and proclaimed its independence in Outer Mongolia in 1924, forming the Mongolian Peoples Republic.

Accounts to Nanking indicated the 11-day-old Mongolian invasion is aimed at assisting Abomati-Chang, pro-Soviet vice governor of Sinkiang Province, to take power from Masud, a Moslem of the higher group recently appointed governor by the central government.

These accounts said Masud has been unable to assume his post because of Abomati-Chang, who has threatened bloodshed if he attempts it.

Masud now is reported living 20 miles outside the Sinkiang capital of Urumchi (Tihwa), while Abomati-Chang controls the government.

Chinese nationalists at last report had recaptured the town of Peitashan, 50 miles inside Sinkiang from the Mongolian border, but reports said the fighting still was going on.

Meanwhile, a source close to the Chinese Foreign Office disclosed the Russian commander in the Kwantung Peninsula has refused to permit Chinese Nationalist troops to enter Dairen or Port Arthur.

Because of this, a Chinese mission studying "local conditions" before taking over the two ports, was reported to have abandoned its survey.

Other reports said Chinese Communists in southern Manchuria had stepped up their offensive against the railroad town of Szepingkai, 70 miles south of Changchun, with waves of troops attacking the railroad station and airfield under cover of a heavy artillery barrage.

These accounts said the Nationalists fell back and blunted the Communist offensive with air attacks. Heavy fighting was continuing.

24 Employes Ousted On Disloyalty Charges

The Civil Service Commission yesterday informed Congress that 24 employes were either fired or resigned and 42 were denied jobs in the first three months of this year on disloyalty charges. Since 1941, 1313 people have been fired or denied employment because of questionable loyalty, it was said.

Officer's Clothes Stolen Except Those He Wore

Lieut. Gale E. Krouse, USNR, of 4302 25th st., Mount Rainier, Md., told police yesterday that a thief broke into his park automobile and stole all his clothes save the uniform he had on. He set his loss at $300; his immediate worry was what to do when the uniform needs cleaning.

Reich Rumor Has America, Soviet at War

Frankfurt, Germany, June 23 (U.P.).—American, Russian and German officials tonight were trying to put down the wildest flood of war rumors since the surrender.

The Russians put their official spokesman, Major Savaliev, on Radio Berlin for the third time in a week to tell the Germans to forget rumors that the United States and Soviet will be fighting each other in a matter of days.

The Frankfurt city council adopted a resolution proposing criminal prosecution of Germans found guilty of spreading rumors.

The latest flood apparently was provoked by the flight of American Superfortress formations over German cities a couple of days ago. Wild talk immediately started that they were carrying atom bombs out on a raid.

contact between Congress and the Administration.

Senator Vandenberg did not say whether such a council should be appointed by the President or the Secretary of State, or whether some or all of its members should be appointed by the Speaker of the House and the President pro tempore of the Senate.

Nor did he say whether it should be composed entirely of private citizens. He simply suggested that "we have many distinguished American citizens with profound experience in these or related fields of action."

Meanwhile, the State Department announced that Undersecretary Will Clayton would stop in London and Paris for discussions with officials there on his way back to the international trade conference at Geneva.

In London, it was said, the British government wanted to discuss aspects of the Anglo-American loan agreement, as stated in Thursdays' Post. The loan agreement provides that current British sterling transactions after July 15 be freely convertible into dollars, unless the deadline is postponed by mutual agreement.

The British are not asking for a postponement, but want to talk to Clayton about some of the consequences of their meeting the deadline as required. They are especially troubled by the clause in the agreement permitting them to cut down on their imports but only on a nondiscriminatory basis.

French Interested in Wheat

Slayton's visit to Paris, it was said, would be at the invitation of the French government, which wants to discuss the food situation in France, particularly the need to import wheat as a result of the failure of the French winter wheat crop.

The presence of a ranking State Department official like Clayton will, of course, give both the British and French a chance to ask questions about the meaning of Secretary Marshall's speech at Harvard last week, which called upon Europe to draw up reconstruction plans and programs.

But it was said emphatically that Clayton was not going on a mission from Secretary Marshall or President Truman to discuss the reconstruction program with European governments. It was also denied that the British Embassy here had been discussing the reconstruction program with the State Department.

Anti-Franco Fund Voted

Prague, Czechoslovakia, June 13 (AP).—The general council of the World Federation of Trade Unions approved today a proposal to raise funds to aid the resistance movement within Spain against the regime of Generalissimo Franco.

Without a dissenting vote, the council decided further to demand immediate action against Franco by the United Nations and to try to obtain other action from individual member governments. It left to its executive committee a decision whether specific union-imposed sanctions should be invoked such as refusal to load or unload ships to and from Spain.

The council withheld action on the report of its special commission on Korea, following objections by CIO Delegate James B. Carey that insufficient attention had been given to the labor situation in the Soviet zone of Korea.

Summer conversational groups in beginners and intermediate Spanish will begin Tuesday at Thomson Center, 12th and L sts. nw., the D. C. Recreation Department announced yesterday. The intermediate group will meet at 5:30 p. m. and the beginners' group at 7:30 p. m. each Tuesday.

Vandenberg Statement

Text of the statement of Senator Vandenberg on United States Rehabilitation of Foreign Countries:

"Current discussion, in and out of official life, is directed toward new foreign programs of large-scale postwar American rehabilitation—as distinguished from direct relief—to prevent social and economic collapse in many parts of the world. It is a good thing that these discussions are under way in the open, but they should not be misunderstood at home or abroad. At home, they should not invite anxieties that we shall rush into imprudent or inadequately seasoned plans. Abroad, they should not be taken as evidence that our foreign friends can depend upon us as a substitute for depending on themselves.

"But there is a tremendous problem which has not yet been answered. It involves the achievement of conditions for stabilized peace. It involves the indispensable attainment of self-supporting independence for peace-loving peoples. It involves the intelligent self-interest of the United States which cannot prosper in a broken world."

"I indorse the importance of facing this problem on an over-all basis instead of dealing with unanticipated crises, one by one. I recognize that intelligent American self-interest demands that we meet the situation with vision and courage. But equally I recognize that intelligent American self-interest immediately requires a sound, over-all inventory of our own resources to determine the latitudes within which we may consider these foreign needs. This comes first because if America ever sags, the world's hopes sag with her.

"In the final analysis all of these programs—though measured in dollars—involve, at base, a burden upon American production out of American resources. It is vitally necessary that our studies should mobilize our surest information and our best available advice respecting (1) the over-all latitudes within which America may safely and wisely plan these foreign cooperations; (2) the basis upon which they should be undertaken, including reciprocal considerations; and (3) the over-all necessities, in Asia as well as Europe, which are calculated to be involved. We need a total balance sheet.

"In my opinion this is the most important examination in many years. We can work closely with the economic commissions of the United Nations in Europe and Asia, and all of its other available instrumentalities. We shall have the benefit of newly organized State Department planning, and of other Federal agencies. But I suggest a further and a fundamental recourse.

"We have many distinguished American citizens with profound experience in these or related fields of action and we should also call upon their judgment. I think the situation invites the prompt creation of a special bipartisan advisory council at the highest attainable level as a center of coordination and as a further source of advice to both the Executive and the Congress. If it enlists our ablest and most experienced citizenship, it can produce facts and recommendations and judgments which will greatly help to clarify these difficult national decisions which we unescapably confront."

House Votes Bipartisan Supervision of 'Voice'

By The Associated Press

The House late yesterday decided to put the administration's foreign information and educational exchange program under outside, bipartisan supervision—if and when Congress approves it.

The action came by voice vote on an amendment by Representative Dirksen (R., Ill.) to the bill authorizing the program, including the "voice of America" broadcasts.

The amendment would set up an 11-member "advisory - control" board to watch over the proposed State Department division. Not more than six members could be from one political party. The board would be made up of "outstanding Americans" in the field of journalism, radio, labor, business, education, motion pictures and veterans affairs.

Then, after acting on some other amendments, the House recessed until next week without reaching a final vote.

It adopted a motion by Representative Keefe (R., Wis.) to bar the use of any funds for entertaining foreign officials or to set up "reception centers" for foreign students. The vote was 145 to 1, with Representative Mansfield (D., Mont.) opposed.

It tightened a provision authorizing a student-educator exchange program with other nations to require strict reciprocity in numbers. As originally drafted, the measure would have given the Secretary of State leeway in requiring reciprocity on the basis of "practicability."

But it refused to cut from the bill a provision to deny to State Department employes "representation allowances" which Representative Rees (R., Kans.) said are used to buy liquor for entertainment purposes.

Meanwhile Assistant Secretary of State William Benton appealed to a Senate Appropriations Subcommittee to provide the full 34 million dollars he seeks to run the program for the fiscal year starting July 1. The House had refused to provide any funds for it in passing the State Department's appropriation for the year on the ground the program never had been authorized; subsequently the House bill to authorize it was introduced by Representative Mundt (R., S. Dak.)

Senator Ball (R., Minn.) a former newspaperman, told Benton that America's best overseas broadcasting opportunity lay in distributing factual news accounts, not comentaries or editorial opinions.

Step Up Food For Germany, Official Urges

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

America must step up food shipments to Germany or communism will make inroads in the United States zone, Assistant Secretary of War Howard C. Petersen said yesterday.

The Army official told reporters on returning from a trip to Europe that the food situation in Germany is "deplorable."

For the past six weeks, Petersen said, United States officials have been unable to maintain the 1550 calory daily ration. It has dropped to 900 calories in some urban areas —about a quarter of the average American diet.

No Inroads Yet

"Communism has made no inroads in the United States zone in Germany," he declared, "but we cannot hope that this success will be continued unless the present food situation is greatly improved."

American officials constantly must contend with an active propaganda campaign "on the part of the Russian-controlled German press," Peterson said. He cited editorials deprecating the importance of the invasion of Normandy and daily attempts to arouse German hatred for the United States by statements that our destructive war-time bombing was militarily valueless.

The War Department official urged giving food shipments to Germany priority over those to many other countries. Nowhere in the world today, he added, are stock levels so low or the rations so slim as in the Reich.

Essential to Objectives

"Maintenance of the prescribed German ration is essential to the attainment of our political objectives in Germany," Peterson bluntly declared.

"Sooner or later," he told reporters, the American and British zones can be made self-supporting. But this cannot be done in three years, as planned when the two zones were merged last December.

Coffee Man's Will Gives Widow $240,000, Stock

John H. Wilkins, head of the coffee firm bearing his name, left $240,000 worth of personal property and stock of undisclosed value to his wife, Aida, it was revealed in his will admitted to probate in District Court yesterday. Mr. Wilkins died in Lincoln, Mass., on May 29.

The stock is to be held in trust for Mrs. Wilkins and upon her death the stock reverts to a son, John H. Wilkins, jr., of 9514 Stanhope rd., Rock Creek Hills, Md.

House Group Holds Up Shorter Barbers' Week

A proposed bill to set a 48-hour workweek for barbers in the District was sidetracked yesterday by a House District Subcommittee. Members disagreed on the plan, and Chairman A. L. Miller (R., Nebr.) said it would be tabled.

Second Start of Contempt of Congress Trial

Arabs Notify U. N. Its Probe Is Boycotted

Lake Success, June 13 (AP).—The Arab Higher Committee for Palestine formally notified Secretary-General Trygve Lie today that it would boycott the United Nations Holy Land inquiry. The inquiry commission is now in Palestine.

In a cable signed by Jamaal Husseini, the vice chairman, the Arab Higher Committee said it had decided to boycott the inquiry for these main reasons:

1. "United Nations refusal to adopt the natural course of inserting termination of the (British) mandate and declaration of independence in the agenda of the special United Nations session and in the terms of reference (to the commission)."

2. "Failure to detach Jewish world refugees from the Palestine problem.

3. "Replacing the interests of Palestine inhabitants by insertion of world religious interests although these are not subject of contention."

"Furthermore," the note said, "Palestine Arabs' natural rights are self-evident and cannot continue to be subject to investigation but deserve to be recognized on the basis of principles of the United Nations Charter."

Free Rule Demanded

Jerusalem, June 13 (U.P.).—Jamaal Husseini, spokesman for Palestine's 1,200,000 Arabs, demanded today that the United Nations establish a free government in the Holy Land similar to those in the United States and Britain.

He said the United Nations Commission on Palestine was "biased, unfair and filled with vague generalities which can never be accepted by Palestinian Arabs."

"We are being treated as underdogs," he said. "There is no need for another investigation of Palestine, particularly one which ignores the high principles of equality of all nations, which are the very foundation of the United Nations."

He accused the commission of being partial to the Jewish Agency, which favors partition into Arab and Jewish states.

Eisler Re-Trial Doubtful

Elsewhere in District Court:

1. Attorneys for Gerhart Eisler, German-born Communist who was found guilty of contempt of Congress, decided they were uncertain about asking District Court for a new trial. Attorney David Rein said the case might be appealed on the basis of refusal by Judge Alexander Holtzoff to disqualify himself for "bias and prejudice."

Several legal experts conceded they had a good chance of getting a new trial immediately. The Court of Appeals Wednesday disqualified Judge Holtzoff from trying the Anti-Fascist Refugee Committee because of his former connection with the FBI. However, an appeal through regular channels would postpone the decision until late fall.

Marzani Sentencing Postponed

2. Judge Keech postponed sentencing Carl Aldo Marzani, former State Department employe who was convicted for concealing his Communist affiliations, until an investigation can be completed by a probation officer. The investigation usually takes two weeks. It permits the sentencing judge to find out more about the defendant so that proper sentence can be given.

In denying the petition against the Refugee Committee, Judge Keech declared he would permit interrogation of each juryman to determine if they had read the story referred to by Rogge. Only one said he had, but declared it concerned only the Eisler trial. He did not recall having read anything about the Committee. He was excused from duty.

"The court is fairly cognizant of what goes on in Washington," said Judge Keech. "No great prejudice exists here to prevent a fair trial."

Anti-Reds Ask Court to Prevent Wallace's Use of Watergate

under the jurisdiction of the Interior Department.

Clark Represents Krug

Secretary Krug will be represented by Attorney General Tom Clark.

The House Committee on Un-American Activities has unanimously termed the Southern Conference for Human Welfare a Communist front group and is scheduled to release a report on its "Communist domination" Sunday.

The position of the Justice Department in regard to the Southern Conference for Human Welfare has not so far been made public.

Resignation Is Cited

Bitterly assailing Wallace, the Anti-Communist Association said in its motion:

"Henry Agard Wallace found it impossible to subordinate his political philosophies and beliefs to those of the Administration of President Truman, and it was, therefore, necessary for the President of the United States to summarily discharge him or request his resignation."

Wallace resigned as Secretary of Commerce in President Truman's Cabinet last fall after a violent disagreement over this Government's foreign policy. Wallace subsequently became editor of The New Republic.

Guest of Communists

The motion further stated, "The said Wallace was during the first few months of this year invited to Paris by the Communists, and, while there, was the guest of leading Communists in Paris, indicating a strong sympathy for Communists."

Speeches made by Wallace abroad were widely criticized by leaders of both Republican and Democratic parties here as attacking America's foreign policy under President Truman.

The motion claimed that Secretary Krug's action had shown "an outright and absolute disregard for the welfare of the people of the United States is granting a permit for the use of public property by a Communist group sponsoring a speaker whose methods incite human emotions toward riot and insurrection is a violation of the spirit and intent of the law of the United States and the said executive directive," (the President's loyalty order barring Communists from Government pobs).

The Watergate is actually operated by Government Services, Inc., an independent agency, although it is under the jurisdiction of the Interior Department.

The Anti-Communist Association asks that the permit issued to the Southern Conference for Human Welfare be declared void and that Krug be enjoined from permitting the use of Government property under his control by persons or organizations affiliated with the Communist Party.

The move puts President Truman's Administration in an embarrassing position.

Ever since he stepped out of the Cabinet Wallace has been bitterly attacking the Truman foreign policy. Last week he announced he did not believe that he would support Truman for President in the 1948 campaign.

Mostly Businessmen

Action of the Anti-Communist Association compels the Attorney General to defend President Truman's Secretary of the Interior and, indirectly, Wallace.

O'Konski said his association has between 40,000 and 50,000 members. Its principal chapters are in Los Angeles, Seattle and New York, he said, and its membership is made up mainly of businessmen, many of them connected with the insurance business.

Perkins told reporters on Capitol Hill yesterday that the vice president of the organization is Frank Strunk of Washington, general agent of the Columbia National Life Insurance Co.

Treasurer of the organization is J. E. McComb, a representative of the Berkshire (Mass.) Life Insurance Co. Another officer Perkins said, is George McDavitt, formerly chief investigator of the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

Lewittes, Adviser To Steelman, Resigns

John R. Steelman, assistant to President Truman, announced yesterday the resignation of his legal adviser, Aaron Lewittes, effective June 30.

Lewittes has served more than 10 years in the Government, including assignments as special assistant to the Attorney General and general counsel of the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion.

House Urged to Approve Bill Admiting 400,000 Refugees

By the United Press

Former Supreme Court Justice Owen J. Roberts and President William Green of the American Federation of Labor yesterday urged House approval of a bill to admit 400,000 European war refugees to the United States over a four-year period, without regard to immigration quotas.

Passage also was advocated by the Most Rev. William T. Mulloy, Bishop of Covington and president of the National Catholic Rural Life Conference who urged that the refugees be settled on farms.

"We have resisted repatriation of these people and consequently we have a moral obligation to help them," Roberts told a House judiciary subcommittee. "To fail in doing this would be to fail in our leadership in world affairs."

Would Waive Quotas

The subcommittee is holding hearings on an act sponsored by Representative William G. Stratton (R., Ill.), which would waive regular immigration quotas over the four-year period to permit the entry of 400,000 political and religious refugees.

Roberts said the refugees are suffering "because they refused to accept a totalitarian government." That fact alone, he said, was evidence that they would make good American citizens.

He hoped that if the United States took the lead in this problem other nations also would throw open their doors.

Representative Ed Gossett, (D., Tex.), said he understood that many of the refugees had "displaced themselves voluntarily."

"You can hardly call it voluntary," Roberts answered. "It was a choice of being displaced or being shot."

AFL Supports Bill

Green said the AFL supports the bill and that he did not believe the entry of 400,000 would disturb employment.

"On the contrary," he said, "there are agricultural workers, domestics, nurses, doctors and other skilled and unskilled workers among the displaced who will bring industrial and scientific skills to the United States."

He said the United States had done little to provide sanctuary for the victims of Nazi persecution.

"Are we to offer the same callous treatment to the refugees from Stalin's slave labor camps and to the few remaining survivors of Hitler's anti-Semitic scourge?" he asked.

CHARLES E. BABCOCK,

Charles E. Babcock, Vienna, Va., legislative representative for the Junior Order of United American Mechanics, protested that the refugees should be sent back to their own countries.

"More than 50 per cent are displaced persons because of their own action," he said. "The American people have not been told the truth about the Stratton bill. It is the groundwork for a program to bring the whole 850,000 displaced persons (of Europe) into the United States."

Day Care

Congress must move expeditiously if it is to perpetuate the child day-care center program favorably reported on Thursday by the Senate District Committee. Existing authorization for the program expires at the end of this month. Thus the Senate must act without delay in order to give the House a chance to consider the legislation. It is well known, of course, that the House does not devote its attention exclusively to District affairs. Between now and the month's end only a single day, the 23d, is reserved for discussion of this dependency's interesting problems. We hope heartily, therefore, that before that date the House District Committee will give the Senate bill such scrutiny as it deems necessary and afford the House a chance to enact it into law.

The day-care center program meets an urgent need of working mothers by providing places where their preschool-age children can play and learn during the hours when the mothers are necessarily absent from home. Without these centers, the mothers would be obliged to give up their jobs. The program, inaugurated during the war under Federal auspices, thoroughly deserves continuance, we think, as an appropriate and useful community service.

Holtzoff Case

In a precedent-shattering decision the United States Court of Appeals has barred Justice Holtzoff from presiding at a trial of the Joint Anti-Fascist Refugee Committee after hearings had begun. Justice Holtzoff had previously refused to disqualify himself after being charged with bias, and the Government's petition for a rehearing that would have enabled the justice to appear before the court to refute such charges has been denied.

Despite the unfortunate delays and complications resulting from the removal of Justice Holtzoff, we believe that the Court of Appeals decision was wise and far-seeing. For, as Chief Justice Groner said in handing down his opinion, in which his associates concurred: "The principal influence of the court depends on the confidence of the people. Unless the courts are supported by a practically universal feeling that they are absolutely fair and above criticism in motive, then our whole system of justice becomes a farce."

The court did not attempt to determine whether the allegations set forth in the affidavit of the defendants were true or false. It was sufficient that the charge was filed and backed by a certain amount of evidence. Incidentally, the fact that Justice Holtzoff was an adviser to the FBI at the time it was investigating the organization with which the protesting defendants are associated seems to us rather damaging, although he disavows any knowledge of the Anti-Fascist Committee while in the Department of Justice. Under the circumstances Justice Holtzoff should have recognized the impropriety of presiding at the mass conspiracy trial even if he had not been challenged.

It is a good deal more important to avoid any action that tends to impair the reputation of our Federal Courts for fair dealing and unprejudiced decisions than it is to obtain convictions of individual lawbreakers. However upright and honest a judge may be, he risks an impairment of public confidence in the courts if his past connections and activities afford reasonable ground for a suspicion of prejudice. In the light of such considerations, Justice Holtzoff's disqualification appears to be well warranted.

Consumer Credit

Since the end of the war the volume of consumer loans—that is, installment loans and single payment loans—has soared to record heights, although the amount is as yet not large compared with the size of the national income. Chairman Eccles of the Federal Reserve Board has made a last-minute, reiterated appeal to the House Banking and Currency Committee for legislative authority to enable the board to continue peacetime regulation of consumer credits. In a letter to Mr. Eccles, President Truman supports this request. If Congress fails to act, the President intends to remove all existing controls by vacating the executive order of 1941 on which they rest.

A strong argument that has received very little attention in favor of maintaining controls over installment credit was advanced by Mr. Eccles. He pointed out that when durable goods now in short supply become available in larger quantities, retention of reasonable restraints on consumer installment credit would tend to induce sellers to expand their sales by lowering prices instead of by liberalizing the terms of installment credit sales. Moreover, abandonment of controls over installment sales of certain articles still in short supply would add to the upward pressure on prices.

Apart from the immediate reasons for prolonging such credit controls, permanent consumer credit regulation would contribute to general economic stability, since controls could be used to restrain consumer buying in boom periods and to stimulate buying when recession threatens. If Congress remains deaf to the importunities of Mr. Eccles, as now seems likely, we predict the public will have good reason to regret the premature shuffling off of another wartime control that could serve a useful purpose not only now but in the future. This curb is vital in maintaining economic stability.

Sidewalk Politics

Back in January the name of Francis Biddle was submitted to the Senate for ratification as American representative on U. N.'s Economic and Social Council. It is being held up by the Republican command. To be sure, Mr. Biddle, as Attorney General under President Roosevelt, is in the opposition camp, and would, indeed, welcome the classification of New Dealer. But is that any reason for shelving a presidential nomination? Clearly not. A nomination by the President deserves, as we said yesterday, respectful attention because it comes from the President. In the case of Mr. Truman, he has merited fair treatment by his impartiality in making appointments. His naming of the Republican Dwight Griswold to head up the aid to Greece program is the latest case in point.

But, beyond these considerations, the Senate ought to remember our international responsibilities. Prompt action on the Biddle appointment is called for because a significant office in the United Nations is involved. Last March the Economic and Social Council met with no American representative, only an ad hoc delegation. The next meeting is to be held, it is understood, next month, and if there is still no designated American representative, then the world will wonder whether we are in heart as well as voice behind the United Nations in making its functional agencies work. The other nations will not appreciate the lengths to which we allow the pettiness of our partisanship to go.

We must not be understood as feeling that the Biddle appointment was ideal. Mr. Biddle has no contacts in the present Congress, yet he may have to appear before Congress from time to time in connection with the multifarious jobs on which the Economic and Social Council will have to embark. It is a pity that the President could not find a person who is better related to Congress. But nobody knows better than Congress the difficulty under which the President labors in filling appointments nowadays. He doubtless fell back on Mr. Biddle because of the unavailability of others more qualified and because Mr. Biddle deserves well not only of his party but of his country. In this latter connection we recall with gratitude Mr. Biddle's zeal in behalf of civil liberties during the war. His work as the American judge at Nuernberg likewise deserves recognition.

If the Republican command objects to Mr. Biddle on the grounds of fitness, let it say so to the President, so that he can enlist him in a post more suitable for his qualifications. We suspect, however, that all there is in Republican minds is party obstructionism, and this suspicion is fortified by the holdup of other nominations. We have already cited the case of the Solicitor General designate, and Mr. Frank Kent, surely a fair witness, says that since January not more than one of Mr. Truman's appointees to postmasterships (numbering more than 800) has been confirmed. Sidewalk politics, if you like.

Ballyhoo

Henry Wallace could scarcely have chosen a better press agent for the mass meeting he is to address Monday evening at the Watergate than Representative J. Parnell Thomas of the House Committee on Un-American Activities. The original sponsors of the mass meeting, the Southern Conference for Human Welfare, went about selling tickets for it in prosaic, conventional ways. But Mr. Thomas hit upon the brilliant idea of putting attendance on the basis of a dare. Disdaining conservative promotional techniques, Mr. Thomas announced that his committee would have "several observers" present at the meeting. We consider Mr. Wallace guilty of the grossest ingratitude in declaring that "the real purpose of the committee is obviously to scare Government workers so that they will not attend the meeting." Nonsense! Mr. Wallace does an injustice at once to Mr. Thomas and to the courage of Government workers. The response of the workers to the Thomas challenge, we imagine, will be to turn out for the mass meeting en masse.

As chairman of the Un-American Activities Committee, Mr. Thomas is perfectly well aware, no doubt, of the constitutional guarantees respecting freedom of speech and freedom of assembly. Thus it is inconceivable that he could entertain any question as to Mr. Wallace's right to say in public whatever may be on his mind concerning his country's foreign policy, or the right of his fellow citizens to come and listen to him if that is their idea of how most agreeably to spend next Monday evening. Mr. Thomas has already let it be known, of course, that his committee considers the Southern Conference a "Communist front"—presumably because it has some Communist members and believes, like the Communists and Abraham Lincoln, in emancipating Southern Negroes. But his reliance on this kind of logic hardly warrants the assumption that he would carry the doctrine of guilt by association so far as to pin a red label on everyone who may come to hear a former Vice President speak at a meeting under the organization's auspices.

Good Mayor

Just as a community which tacitly encourages a lynching deserves the full impact of public scorn, so officials who act sensibly to avert a lynching merit commendation. Hurtsburo, Ala., nearly had a lynching Tuesday. A mob had a rope all ready for a Negro youth accused of attempted attack on a white woman. The mayor, Hurt Vann, appeared in time to persuade the crowd to release the prisoner because, he said, "That is the best way—we ought to let the law take its course." This enlightened conception of basic justice implies no sympathy with the alleged crime. It does, however, indicate a growing sensitivity to government by law instead of by mob. That in itself is a step forward. The more public officials can be induced to see their duty as did Mayor Vann, the more their example will serve to put resort to primitive torture on the wane.

MAN AT THE PIANO

In his lonely and despairing hours
he often goes to his piano and builds him a shield of sound.
The voices he has longed for speak to him gently there;
the dreams he has sometime lost move again like light about him;
the laughter of brighter days comes drifting into his ears.
As a man heavy with summer's heat sinks his hands in the coolness of running water, so in the beauty of sound he cools his mind and finds it eased.

President And Congress: Crucial Test

A veto by President Truman of the labor bill would do more harm to international peace than to industrial peace. Two thirds of the Congress may override a veto, but how could the President expect future cooperation from Congress if he sets up his judgment against the carefully considered views of more than two thirds of the Senators and Representatives?

Congress knows far more than the President about the need for legislation and about the way the new law will meet that need. Congressmen have been holding hearings and arguing among themselves and with constituents over labor relations for many months. The President has been engrossed in a multiplicity of other problems. He won't be able personally to study the labor bill adequately. He must rely largely on advisers to analyze its merits and demerits. What advisers are as reliable as two thirds of the Congress?

In foreign affairs the President must constantly call upon the Congress to trust him, because his sources of information are so intimate and his responsibility is so great. But how could he expect the Congress to trust him if, when its members are much better informed, he showed no trust in them and refused to follow their good judgment?

Furthermore, the Congress knows, and thinks the President should know, that our international influence and our domestic strength have been seriously weakened by abuses of organized labor power—and particularly by the reckless industrial warfare of 1946. Is our memory so short that we forget the serious conditions that created the public demand for the intervention of law? Unless labor as well as management is legally required to fulfill its obligations to the general welfare, our country will steadily deteriorate and our Government become more and more impotent to protect our interests at home and abroad. The world will wonder who pulls the strings of our Government.

It is the primary duty of the Congress to legislate. The veto power of the President was never intended, and should never be used, to impose his will upon the American people contrary to the judgment of their chosen lawmakers. The veto power is only designed as a safeguard against legislation which, because of mistake or haste or the overlooking of important considerations, would not be approved by the Congress after being advised of its errors. An example of hasty legislation which thoroughly deserved the veto it got was the Case bill. Another piece of legislation equally deserving of a veto because of its overlooking of prospective world reconstruction needs is the lopsided tax reduction bill now on the White House desk.

But this Congress has given to the labor bill an extended and detailed consideration which cannot be duplicated by the President in 10 days or 10 weeks. This legislative judgment should weigh more heavily with the President than a million letters from persons selfishly affected, more heavily than a hundred memoranda from public officials personally concerned, more heavily than the well-intentioned but inexpert counsel of "intimate advisers," certainly more heavily than the intimidation of labor leaders who, after cold-shouldering all requests for cooperation in framing wise legislation to cope with crying needs, are now filling the woods with lamentations.

When two thirds of the Congress vote to pass a much-needed law against violent opposition, they have a right to expect cooperative approval from a President who cannot fulfill his high responsibilities except by giving cooperation in exchange for the cooperation he must obtain.

Grazing Lands

Current discussions of the woolgrowers' attempt to abort the International Trade Organization with the ergot of an increased tax on wool imports, seem to have omitted one factor that is of considerable importance to every American: the excessive numbers of animals on our grazing lands. Well informed observers report that probably 80 per cent of our Western range is overgrazed. Less than one seventh of this area, according to the Twentieth Century Fund's "America's Needs and Resources," is in satisfactory condition. "No less than 589 million acres are eroding—more or less seriously."

According to the same source, in 1935 these lands were carrying about 175 per cent as many animals as they should have been. In November, 1943, Senator O'Mahoney, in a press release, pointed out that the increase in livestock population — when livestock products were badly needed in connection with the war effort—had created "a serious situation in Western range States." In view of meat prices since the suppression of OPA, it does not seem likely that there has been any considerable reduction in the herds.

Further indication of an excessive cattle and sheep population is given by the efforts of the stockmen to gain private possession of public lands that, supposedly belong to all the people of the country. They are also trying to invade the .65 per cent of our Nation that has been dedicated to our National Park system.

That these raids would obliterate irreplacable natural beauty, destroy wildlife, increase erosion, wreck watersheds whose protection was one of the primary purposes of establishing National Forests, and as was brilliantly set forth by Bernard De Voto in the January Harper's, play havoc with the economy of the water-hungry West, seems to matter to the stockmen as little as does the recovery of world trade, and increased chances of averting another, perhaps final, world war. The flocks of sheep must be hungry, indeed!

Since we have so many sheep and cattle on our ranges that they are not only destroying vegetation (which may take years to recover) and causing the loss of topsoil (which may take decades or centuries to recover), a rational step would seem to lead toward cutting the number. If we can do this by buying wool from Australia, it would certainly appear to be in the national interest.

For years our Department of Agriculture has been spending—and spending well—millions of dollars on soil conservation. At the same time, by supporting meat and wool prices and, thus, making it possible to maintain excessive flocks and herds, it has been accelerating erosion on those 589 million acres. Let not thy right hand know what thy right hand doeth!

This might be a good time for the GOP to try some of the free enterprise to which it gives so much lip service.

Supporting Evidence

As an interested and consistent reader of The Post may I humbly suggest what might appear to be a journalistic responsibility of increasing import?

In connection with the recent charges of Dr. Tansill concerning Lincoln's guilt in "forcing" the Civil War upon the South—an article which drew much black ink and front page position—I looked in vain for supporting evidence of the charges. On the surface the headlines for such a charge would be sensational enough to draw considerable reader attention; the type usually alluded to as the "man-bites-dog" variety. But since democratic societies have their symbols, traditions and heroes, and moreover—must make constructive use of them if such societies are to progress—I deem it a gross disservice to the sanctity of our basic political and social ideals as a nation when, by harranguing or by unsupported statements, such ideals are permitted to be punctured.

My plea therefore is for at least some inclusion of supporting arguments, in a reported account—provided the speaker gave some, for the charges against Lincoln. Even if he gave none I feel the press is responsible to its reading public for saying "the speaker gave no evidence to support his charges" if the public cannot have access to the printed speech, and so make its own deductions.

It it's still true that what most people know "is only what they read in the newspapers," then we might give them some assistance in culling fact from fiction and buncombe. I feel that the future of our democratic ideals depends to a large extent upon how much opportunity is given the public to know the facts.

Military Training

We hear a great deal these days about universal military training as an insurance against war. That sound has been coming to us from all the governments of the world for longer than anyone now living can remember, interrupted every decade or so by the sound of gunfire laid down by some nation that practiced "preparedness." These have always had the same story, "universal military training for war in order to insure peace."

As a member in good standing of the hoi polloi, that group whose job it always is to do the actual fighting, I would like some answers. I want to know just when in the world's history, any government has kept the peace through universal military training. I can do very well without any glittering generalities, dogmatic declarations or mere expressions of opinion. I want names, dates and places. What nation? How long did it prepare? How long did it stay out of war after becoming prepared?

Another Theater

Let those vociferous persons who are clamoring for the rights of others act in behalf of those proclaimed principles. Instead of trying to infringe on the freedom and rights of others and to dictate to the National Theater, let them start a theater of their own for mixed audiences. Messrs. Robert Sherwood and Sherwood Anderson, for example, have made enough money out of the theater to allow them to put some back in. If the venture proves successful, it may influence the National Theater to change its position regarding mixed audiences.

"Religion In The Schools"

It is to be hoped that persons competent in several fields will reply to your editorial of June 8, "Religion in the Schools," to prompt a reexamination of the historical, legal, political and religious assumptions found therein. When the Constitution and the Bill of Rights were written, and for at least a third of our national history thereafter, it was taken for granted that there would be religious teaching in the public schools, though such teaching was then explicitly Protestant.

A religious establishment was prohibited by the first amendment, but this prohibition was never intended to exclude religion from public recognition. The presence of chaplains in the armed services and in both Houses of Congress, prayers offered at inaugurals and other public functions, tax exemptions for church property, and various similar practices attest to this fact, even today.

Why toleration of what you acknowledge to be a "singular" attitude on the part of Mrs. Vashti McCollum should be extended to deprive the majority of children in the community of instruction they or their parents desire is difficult to comprehend. Holding that "If freedom has any meaning at all, it must mean freedom from compulsion to conform," you include not only freedom from legal compulsion but also freedom from "the powerful social pressure which children may exert upon a nonconformist."

This application has amazing implications. Children of Jehovah's Witnesses, whose freedom from legal compulsion to salute the flag has been upheld by the Supreme Court of the United States, undoubtedly experience exceptional social pressure to conform—probably much more than Mrs. McCollum's son. Is their freedom therefore an "illusion?" It would be absurd to argue that in order to remove such social compulsion the flag salute should be abolished in the schools.

Still more amazing, however, is your major premise, set forth at the end of your editorial: "Religion is of the spirit; education deals with the mind. Neither can be advanced by intermingling. Each can flourish best in its own separate sphere." The distinction is far from clear, but it seems to be rooted in a notion that religion has no intellectual content. One may be permitted to wonder what kind of churches the editors have attended. Religion, no less than, say, mathematics, deals with truth, the ultimate truth, which is God.

Modern educators insist that any branch of knowledge must be related to other branches in order to be understood; how much more does this apply to the necessity of relating each and all branches with truth itself. Even Jefferson in his plan for the University of Virginia made provisions for religious houses of study on the boundary of the campus, which students interested in the various denominations might attend.

Religion and education are to some extent distinct fields of activity, but in the nature of the case they cannot properly be separated and meet the full demands of either religion or education. Education cannot possibly be complete without religion; religion has for one of its functions education.

C. J. NUESSE.

Your editorial disappointed me. Instead of commending the Jewish, Catholic and Protestants for getting together you said it was against sound policy in this instance. Instead of indicating that we all need more moral strength and goodness that can be derived through such a vehicle as religious training, you said that having it would be intolerant. Instead of commending comparable religious courses to public schools, you said that the voluntary nature of such classes becomes an illusion. Yes, I think you had an opportunity here for a really great editorial but completely missed your chance.

Foretaste Of Fear

By Malvina Lindsay

Federal Firings

TALK IN the Capital these days is like a phonograph record that has a vaguely depressing note of familiarity. Where have you heard it before? . . . Oh yes, back before the war, back in the 30's, back in the days when people used to worry about getting and holding jobs.

How far away those days seemed in wartime. Now they grow closer daily as thousands of Government workers prepare for the end-of-June exodus from jobs. The old tense atmosphere in offices, the jumpy nerves, the absent-mindedness, the vacant stares, the metallic laughter at forced jokes. Family men suddenly looking older, drabber, their shoulders sagging. Middle-aged women with tired lines around the eyes. Young girls, their freshness clouded by anxiety. Lads a little less buoyant.

It's only a drop in the job bucket of course, these 125,000 or more who are getting their dismissal notices in Federal offices throughout the Nation. After all, aren't 56 million people working, a high level of peacetime employment? What do these few tens of thousands amount to in statistics that deal in tens of millions? Yet—their anxiety, worry, fears, tears are giving the country a warning of what may happen on a larger scale to American self-confidence, optimism, courage, if employment begins to sink seriously.

MUCH IS MADE of the plight of the low-paid Government girl of wartime recruitment who finds herself stranded with a dismissal notice in Washington or some other city. The cost of living has consumed her paychecks. She has no savings, no unemployment compensation. Only if she has worked less than five years can she get back now what she paid in retirement benefits. Legislation to extend this to 10 years is pending in a busy Congress.

However, this girl is not the saddest victim of Federal hirings. She knew her job was temporary. And she is young, generally without family responsibilities, and has a lifetime of chances ahead. Worst hit among the terminated are the family men and women, and the middle-aged and older single women on their own who have been caught in economy waves in old-line agencies. Sudden cutting off of funds has caused some of these to be fired without notice, though the Administration policy is to give 30 days.

ON CIVIL SERVICE records they are merely names, numbers and letters. But they are also a middle-aged man going home to tell his wife his 20-year job in the Government has ended, and they'll have to do something about the house before the next payment is due, cancel the order for a car, and tell Junior he'll have to put off college. There are also a spinster returning to her solitary room to think and think . . . to wonder whether after 18 years she can beard employment offices again; to try to blot out the haunting picture of herself growing older, a dependent in the home of relatives.

They are women trying to educate children or take care of elderly relatives. They are men who have families at the expensive stage, and who are specialists in fields that offer little opportunity outside of Government. They are the long lines of Government workers before postoffice windows sending money home every payday to old parents or younger brothers and sisters in small towns and villages. They are the once young and hopeful people just out of college who went into Government because they thought it offered opportunity and security and because they heard so much about the country's need of enthusiastic, capable youth willing to make Government a career.

They are also, to a degree, of course, the loafers, the rut lovers, the political hangers-on that Congressmen complain about, the incompetents such as exist in the working force of every industry. But ordinarily they are average Americans to whom a job is one of the most satisfying and important things of life, whose economic fears of tomorrow remind us that life is getting back to normal.

Italian Colonies

In your issue of June 4, there appeared an excellent article on Italian colonies by Sumner Welles. Everyone familiar with the problem of overpopulation in Italy can only join Mr. Welles in his opinion that Cyrenaica and Tripolitania should be widely open for Italian colonization.

Unfortunately, there was an evident misprint in Mr. Welles' article. It was stated that "about 750,000 Italian emigrants had settled there (in Cyrenaica and Tripolitania) before 1939." As a matter of fact, according to the estimate of the Royal Institute of International Affairs (The Italian Colonial Empire; London, 1940, p. 23) the number of Italians in Libya (i. e. Cyrenaica and Tripolitania) was 99,000 among the total population of 888,000.

Taft On Prices

Senator Taft blames President Truman for the rise in the high cost of living and for the high prices prevailing, today, on practically every item under the sun, but, especially "foodstuffs," the very essentials of life itself. How often we were told over and over again that, if only controls were lifted, supply would catch up with demand, prices would level off and drop! We're still waiting for "foodstuffs" to drop, Senator Taft!

Today And Tomorrow

By Walter Lippmann

Marshall At Harvard

SECRETARY Marshall's speech at the Harvard Commencement last week had two pregnant statements—the one addressed to London and Paris and the other to Washington.

Lippmann

MR. MARSHALL said, first, that "it would be neither fitting nor efficacious for this Government to undertake to draw up unilaterally a program designed to place Europe on its feet economically. This is the business of the Europeans. The initiative, I think, must come from Europe."

This was public notice of what must in its details at this stage be carried on as a quiet discussion. It indicates that measures must be devised to meet the dollar deficit, which will be so acute by next winter that it will cause a collapse of a large part of American exports to Europe.

Mr. Marshall was saying publicly that the United States cannot go to Congress for funds until the European governments have made up their minds whether they want them and for what purpose, and that if they are going to need help on a large scale, they must not wait until the crisis has exploded but must prepare for it now while there is still a little time left. For while the American people can be persuaded both in their own interest and in that of civilization in general to make grants-in-aid towards European reconstruction, they cannot do this intelligently unless the leading countries of Europe—namely Britain and France, with Canada, which is also facing a dollar shortage, playing an important intermediary part—take the initiative in drawing up an intelligible plan.

THERE ARE, however, many obstacles and inhibitions to be overcome. Foremost among them is the weariness of overworked officials in Europe, and the overwhelming preoccupation of the people of Europe with the daily business of living under excessively hard conditions of life. The mental and spiritual climate of Europe, and to a marked though lesser degree here also, is not conducive to large and far-reaching designs, which call for lucidity, imagination, and firm decision. Yet in the light of Mr. Attlee's performance with India, there is no reason to feel that the will and the know-how of great and constructive statesmanship have been lost on the other side of the Atlantic.

THERE ARE also, of course, all the obstacles arising from the conflict with Russia, which divides so deeply almost all the continental nations and, more than appears on the surface, Great Britain as well. To assuage that conflict, and to transcend it, is the great task of statesmanship.

The problem is how to form a plan of European recovery—initiated in Western Europe—which, though it could be made to work without Eastern Europe and without Soviet collaboration, would work far better if Eastern Europe participated and the Soviet Union approved.

The basic principle of such a European plan would therefore be not to form a western bloc which excluded Eastern Europe and was defensively and offensively opposed to the Soviets,—but to form the nucleus of a European union which is meant to include them, and offers them superior advantages if they collaborate than if they do not.

A close examination of the discussions at Moscow indicates that the formulation of such a plan is not beyond the wit of man or outside the practical possibilities of the international situation.

THIS BRINGS us to Mr. Marshall's other statement—the one which was addressed not to Europe but to this country. The language he used here was veiled. Mr. Marshall said that "an essential part of any successful action on the part of the United States is an understanding on the part of the people of America of the character of the problem and the remedies to be applied. Political passion and prejudice should have no part."

These words cross no t's and dot no i's, and it would be unfair to translate these general remarks in such a way as to make the Secretary say more than he may have thought advisable to say, or indeed more than he may have meant.

But it is fair comment, I believe, to say that these remarks would not have been uttered were there not a growing body of informed and serious opinion, of very highly qualified opinion, which is aware that the so-called Truman Doctrine, not perhaps in its original intent, but as it is advertised and exploited and applied by amateurs, zealots and mere politicians, is self-defeating—that it is alienating not merely Communist Russia but the democratic, and soberly conservative elements in Europe on whom any general settlement and plan of reconstruction necessarily depends.

MR. MARSHALL'S veiled reference to "understanding" the "character" of the problem, and his appeal that we forego "political passion and prejudice" are not at this juncture the ordinary platitudes of a public speaker.

They are a delicate intimation that in high quarters and in many other quarters political passion and prejudice may be preventing an understanding of the character of the problem in Europe, and that—to put it indelicately—if, as some thought, Philip had to get drunk if Congress was to support the "Truman Doctrine," Philip had better begin to sober up before he acquires the habit of thinking that he is a combination of Moses, Julius Caesar, Santa Claus, and Mr. Fixit to all mankind.

Washington Calling

By Marquis Childs

Russia And The Atom

WITHIN 6 to 18 months our newspapers will blossom with large black headlines on this order:

Childs

"Soviets Say They Have Atom Bomb."

That is the growing belief of those whose duty it is to follow the course of atomic development here and abroad. This is the weight of information in confidential files. It is also confirmed by almost everything that happens before the public gaze.

Andrei Gromyko's latest statement on atomic control must be taken as a bit of evidence pointing in that direction. There is nothing new in what Gromyko said. He gives every evidence of desiring to filibuster in order to delay a final decision by the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission.

At one point in the year-long debate, Gromyko came close to approving the Acheson-Lilienthal-Baruch proposal for an international inspection authority with final control over atomic energy development. Then, six months later, he seemed to shut the door on the kind of international inspection essential in any real system of control.

HIS THIRD and latest position is roughly halfway between the other two. It seems to declare for inspection. But when the statement is closely examined, the inspection is seen to be so limited and circumscribed as to be more or less meaningless. The statement is full of loopholes big enough to drop an atom bomb through. Paragraph B of Section 7 says:

"Signatory states to the convention of the prohibition of atomic weapons must have a right to carry on unrestricted scientific research activities in the field of atomic energy directed toward discovery of methods of its use for peaceful purposes."

A fine declaration of noble intention which, in the present condition of the world, no nation would accept. The Gromyko statement clings to sovereignty over the atom. The Acheson-Lilienthal-Baruch proposal went a fairly long way toward surrendering national sovereignty in this connection. Many have said hopefully that it represented the beginning of a world state. Or, at any rate, the American plan was the first timber in the foundation of genuine world government.

The newest Gromyko tactic brings us nearer a fateful deadline. Members of the U. N. Atomic Energy Commission have talked about ending their discussion on September 1. That is not a fixed date, but the feeling is growing that the debate now serves no purpose except delay:

After September 1, there will be an effort to get agreement on a final report by the commission containing recommendations to be submitted to the U. N. Security Council. A majority and a minority report, with the split along the customary line, would seem to be a certainty.

THESE disagreements have become commonplace. They have come to be accepted as part of the scenery of the United Nations. But this disagreement cannot be ignored.

It will bring us up against the necessity of a decision here at home. The road will fork. In one direction we can get agreement merely for the sake of agreement more or less on Russia's terms.

There will be many to plead that some kind of agreement is better than no agreement. They will argue that the signpost on the other roads point to an atomic armaments race.

But an agreement that includes the escape clauses of sovereignty will be far worse than no agreement. It will give a wholly false sense of security. At least with disagreement we shall know the worst. We shall know that we must reshape our policy, and quickly.

Here in Washington there is a mounting impatience with the prolonged delays in the U. N. Atomic Commission. Senator Brien McMahon, author of the bill placing control over our own atomic development in a United States Atomic Energy Commission, has insisted from the start that filibustering tactics should not be permitted to delay a decision.

There are those who put Gromyko's latest move down to mere strategy, looking to indefinite postponement. These observers doubt that the Soviets have advanced so far toward controlled atomic fission that they are waiting for the day when they can proclaim that fact to the world. But sooner or later the day will come, no matter what happens around the debating table at Lake Success.

The U. N. Learns From Experience

THE U. N. INQUIRY into the Palestine problem, now about to get under way in the City of Jerusalem, is the second such task which the new world organization has undertaken.

NOVER

The trail-blazing Balkan Commission, which recently concluded its labors, had an extraordinarily difficult assignment.

It was plagued, as the Security Council which was responsible for its creation, as the United Nations generally is plagued, by irreconcilable political differences.

There were constant attempts made, inside and outside the commission, to hamper its work, force it into a blind alley or get it to do the exact opposite of what it had been directed to do, namely, look into the charges of armed Yugoslav, Bulgarian and Albanian intervention in Greek affairs.

Despite everything, and thanks in no small measure to the pertinacious efforts of the American member, Mark Ethridge, the commission did its work well. Its final report, now in the hands of the Security Council, was approved by a majority of the commission's membership.

THE SPECIAL COMMITTEE, which the General Assembly has authorized to look into the Palestine problem has an even more difficult job confronting it.

Its problem is, only incidentally, to ferret out the facts. Those facts were long ago brought to light by private investigators and by no fewer than eighteen previous commissions of inquiry.

The special committee's main task will be to find a reasonable solution for a problem that is emotion-laden in the extreme.

Composed exclusively of "small" powers—the Big Five having been deliberately excluded from its membership—it will not directly be troubled by the acute internal schism that complicated the task of the Balkan Commission.

This may prove only a relative gain. Actually, the viewpoints of the Big Five or, at least, the Big Three were not ignored in setting up the committee.

Two of the nations represented—Czechoslovakia and Poland—belong to the Russian bloc. Three others are Latin American nations and hence, presumably, may be inclined to reflect the viewpoint of the United States. There are two British dominions represented on the committee and two nations—India and Iran—with large Moslem populations.

IN ONE RESPECT the Palestine inquiry will have the benefit derived from the experience of the past.

Judging by its composition, the U. N. secretariat which has been assigned to the Palestine committee, has been far more carefully chosen with respect to impartiality than was the case of the secretariat provided the Balkan Commission.

Despite certain whitewashing statements by Secretary-General Trygve Lie and Victor Hoo, one of his principal deputies, there can be no doubt that some of the principal members of the Balkan Commission's secretariat regarded themselves not as servants of the U. N. but special pleaders for a particular point of view, and acted accordingly.

That was notoriously true of the No. 2 man in the secretariat, a Pole named Gustav Gottesman, who sought to divert the commission from its assigned task of looking into the charges which Greece had leveled against its northern, Communist-dominated neighbors into conducting a campaign against the Greek government. He was not alone in that.

It was a scandalous performance not only in itself but for what it suggested. If there is one agency which must be above and beyond reproach as the impartial servant of all the nations, it is the secretariat of the United Nations. Indeed, every individual who takes a job with the U. N. is required to take an oath to do just that.

There is no room in the U. N. secretariat for a Russian fifth column or any other kind of a fifth column and insofar as such fifth columns are allowed to flourish it means that Trygve Lie or somebody who has had the authority to act in his name has been remiss in his duties.

The composition of the secretariat assigned to the Palestine committee of inquiry shows that the storm which broke over Mr. Lie's head at the time of the Balkan Commission's labors did some good.

St. Lawrence Seaway Cost Up 219 Million

By The Associated Press

Army engineers yesterday boosted the estimated cost of the St. Lawrence seaway project from $455,086,000 to $674,707,000 but Secretary of Commerce Harriman indicated the waterway's traffic potential is high enough to pay for itself through tolls.

Lieut. Gen. R. A. Wheeler, chief of Army engineers submitted the new estimate to a Senate Foreign Relations Subcommittee studying legislation to authorize construction of the seaway and pay its cost from tolls.

Harriman, who termed the proposed development "a sort of national insurance," said that under conditions of full utilization the seaway could handle more than 40 million tons of traffic annually.

His estimate, largely based on the assumption that importation of foreign ores will become necessary because of exhaustion of domestic iron ore reserves, is roughly 15 million tons greater than the 25 million tons estimated by Army engineers in 1934. Harriman said toll revenues might eventually reach 30 million dollars annually.

He said the Department's studies indicate that even during its first years, toll revenue would come close to meeting annual interest and maintenance charges. He added:

"With the subsequent development of traffic the studies indicate that toll revenues will subsequently exceed all costs, including amortization, which would result in a great national asset eventually becoming available without cost to the taxpayer."

In a breakdown of his revised cost estimates, Wheeler said that the cost to the United States of the remaining work has advanced from $310,274,000 to $491,609,000. Canada's share, he said, would be $183,098,000.

Wheeler also said that New York State which would acquire title to the development's power phase, would have to spend 161 million dollars rather than the 98 million dollars originally estimated.

Despite the increased costs Wheeler said the project is "economically sound."

Million Tons of Steel Going To Arabia for Oil Pipeline

Long Beach, Calif., June 13 (AP).—More than a million tons of steel pipe will start leaving Long Beach harbor and other ports this summer for Saudi Arabia in what maritime authorities described as the greatest single commercial shipment in history.

It will be the first of a series of consignments of goods and material whose aggregate will be sufficient to create a new industrial kingdom in Arabia, said E. C. Austin, purchasing and traffic manager of the Arabian-American Oil Co., which holds the petroleum concession in King Ibn Saud's domain.

Announcement of the shipments, which will start within a few weeks, was made today by Port Manager E. J. Amar after a conference in San Francisco with officials of the Arabian-American Oil Co., operated by Standard of California and the Texas Co., and of the Ishmain Steamship Co., subsidiary of United States Steel, which has contracted to move the pipe.

The initial one million ton shipment will be sufficient to lay a 30 and 31-inch oil line from the Persian Gulf, where it will be unloaded, to the Mediterranean, said Edsel Newton, marine editor of the Long Beach Press-Telegram and leader in harbor affairs, who acted as contact man between the various American corporations connected with the project.

W. C. Fulton, district manager of the Isthmian line, said his company will have to add a number of Liberty vessels to the existing cargo fleet of 80 ships. Ships will leave the port every five or six days on the 120-day round trip of more than 25,000 miles.

The steel pipe will be rolled at the Consolidated Steel Corp. plant in near-by Maywood from plates processed at U. S. Steel's Geneva, Utah, mills. A new rail line will be laid between the Maywood plant and the harbor.

Austin said the cost of the pipe to Arabian-American will run "well over half a billion dollars," declining to set a more exact figure. Port Manager Amar reported that harbor fees alone will run more than $500,000.

From two and a half to three years will be required to complete the shipments, port authorities estimated.

Austin said that, in addition to the pipe, orders had been placed for all manner of other manufactured goods and materials in Arabian-American's great exploitation program.

"This is only a start," Austin said, "and there is no way of calculating the total amount which will be needed."

Oil Men Ask Halt To Export of Pipe

Dallas, Tex., June 13 (AP).—A special committee of the Independent Petroleum Association of America investigating the steel shortage as it affects the oil industry today asked Secretary of the Interior Krug to seek discontinuance of the present policy of exporting "materials badly needed by our petroleum industry until domestic requirements have been met.'

The committee in a telegram to Krug declared its survey "clearly indicates that the apparent shortage of oils is due to the lack of productive capacity and transportation facilities. This shortage, in turn, is due to the lack of necessary materials, such as tubular goods, line pipe and tank cars."

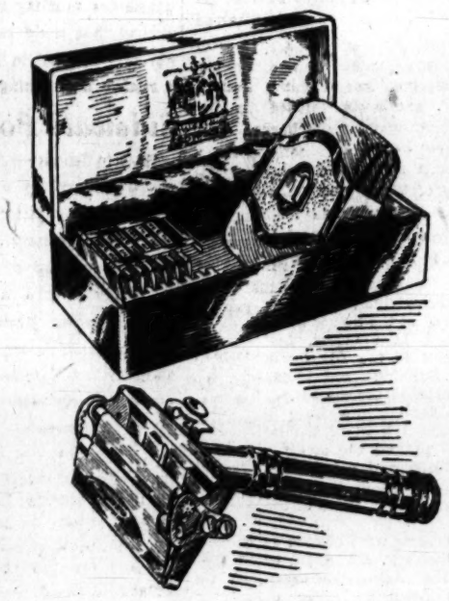
A FATHER'S DAY GIFT SUGGESTION



Wilkinson Sword Safety Razors

FROM LONDON, ENGLAND

Nobody knows steel better than the Wilkinson Sword Company of London . . . official sword makers for British kings since 1772. These fine safety razors have seven blades, each marked with a day of the week, hollow-ground like a barber's blade, hand-tested. Each blade works one day, rests six . . . just as barbers alternate razors to overcome "steel fatigue." A roller guard prevents scraping or cutting and the depth of shave is adjustable . . . Razor, seven blades, and leather strop in a handsome rhodium-finished metal case . . . an excellent Father's Day gift idea.

FHLB Loans At 250 Million In Five Months

By S. Oliver Goodman

Member institutions of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Winston-Salem, N. C., which includes 22 associations in Washington, have made 250 million dollars in home loans during the first five months this year.

LaRoque

This was reported yesterday by O K. LaRoque, FHLB president, at a luncheon meeting in the Statler Hotel attended by 11 FHLB directors and prominent local loan leaders.

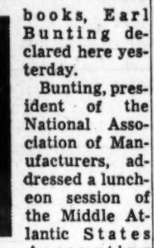
The loans, LaRoque added, were largely on new construction of individual homes in the eight States comprising the Fourth FHLB District. Total loans to finance homes for servicemen under the GI Act, he said, are approximately 275 million dollars up to this time.

John H. Fahey, Federal Home Loan Bank Administration commissioner, and Col. Harold Lee, governor of the FHLB System, spoke briefly. Fahey, declaring that storm signals indicate the need for caution, voiced the belief that "we're too busy to have a depression at this time."

Edward C. Baltz of Perpetual Building, as vice chairman of the Fourth District FHLB, presided at the session.

Accountants Hear NAM Head

Legislation to reduce confiscatory taxes and provide for "genuine collective bargaining" will do much to balance the Nation's books, Earl Bunting declared here yesterday.



Bunting

Bunting, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, addressed a luncheon session of the Middle Atlantic States Accounting Conference at the Mayflower Hotel.

He said that for the past 15 years the Government in effect has told the one group that can afford to take the heavy risks that economic expansion requires—"We don't need your services. If you risk your capital and lose it, OK. But if you succeed, from one half to three fourths of your rewards will be taxed away."

In another talk, Maurice E. Peloubet, treasurer of the American Institute of Accountants, urged a corps of budget officers to replace department and agency employes in preparing Federal budgets.

Loan Institute Honors 87

Eighty-seven students completing courses of Washington Chapter, American Savings and Loan Institute, were honored last night at exercises in the Mayflower Hotel.

Herman Schwertner, chapter head, presided at the dinner meeting. Edward L. McAleer, first vice president of the District of Columbia Building and Loan League, presented the awards.

Principal speaker was Marc S. Raichle, national head of the institute, who praised the students for their efforts and pointed out that many leaders in the home loan industry are graduates of the institute.

Chapter officers were elected as follows: Joseph P. Burke, jr., of Mutual Building Association, president; Miss Augusta Walter of Chevy Chase Building and Loan Association, first vice president; Richard Sinclair of American Building Association, second vice president; Miss Anne Fague of Perpetual Building Association, secretary, and T. W. Blumenauer of Columbia Federal Savings and Loan Association, treasurer.

Awards were won by Miss Walter, Raymond C. Williams and Mr. Burke, who received five-year diplomas, highest honor of the institute. A three-year diploma was given to Paul S. Boswell.

Store Sales Up 3% Here

Latest report of Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond shows sales of Washington department stores up 3 per cent for the week ended June 7.

Merchandise inventories of a select group of Washington stores on April 30 were 33 per cent heavier than on the same date last year, the Reserve Bank reported.

At the same time outstanding orders for new stock were 59 per cent lower.

Pepco Sales Spurt 9.6%

May sales of Potomac Electric Power Co. spurted 9.6 per cent over the same month last year.

Sales in the metropolitan area totaled 138,974,665 kilowatt hours last month, an increase of 12,176,648 over May, 1946.

Bank Raises Dividend

Suburban National Bank of Silver Spring, Md., yesterday cut a melon with stockholders. President Fred L. Lutes announced that directors had increased the regular dividend from 35 cents a share to 40 cents and declared an extra dividend of 10 cents a share. Both are payable June 30 to stock of record June 20.

Other actions taken by the board: Transferred $25,000 to surplus, making this account $350,000; authorized group hospitalization program for employers at bank's expense; voted to continue usual business hours on Saturdays throughout the year with exception of July 5.

Rep. Wolcott Opposes Credit Curb Renewal

By The Associated Press

Chairman Wolcott (R., Mich.) of the House Banking Committee told newsmen yesterday he is against peacetime Government credit controls urged by President Truman.

In view of Wolcott's position, his stand made it appear that an early end to the restrictions on installment buying is in sight.

Mr. Truman advised Congress Thursday that he thinks easy consumer credit may keep prices unduly high, but he said that unless Congress passes specific legislation providing controls, he will order them taken off.

The controls are in force now under a wartime act.

Wolcott said: "My own personal thinking is that the power should not be continued."

"It is my opinion," he added, "that such regulations are highly discriminatory, in that they exclude from the markets those who have not been able to put aside any savings."

The curbs apply on durable consumer goods, such as automobiles, refrigerators, radios and washing machines. Generally, on installment purchases, one-third down payment is required, with the balance to be paid off in 15 months.

The U. S. Chamber of Commerce meanwhile opposed any extension of consumer credit controls and urged sharp restrictions on powers of the RFC if it is permitted to stay in business after June 30.

The chamber declared in a statement filed with the Banking Committee that control of consumer credit "tends to interfere with marketing processes which must be allowed free play for attainment of full production, lower prices and a higher level of employment."

As for the Reconstruction Finance Corp., the chamber said "its powers have expanded so much as to form a menace, if continued unchecked, not only to private lending institutions but to the private enterprise system."

The Gallup Poll

Public Favors 25-Cent Jump In Minimum Pay by 3-1 Ratio

By George Gallup

Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J., June 13.—A bill was introduced in Congress early this week to raise the minimum wage of workers in industrial firms engaged in interstate commerce from the present 40 cents an hour to 75 cents within the next two years.

The general public has long been in favor of increasing the minimum wage—at least up to 65 cents an hour. In a Nation-wide public opinion poll completed just prior to the introduction of the bill, the institute found sentiment running about 3 to 1 in favor of a 65-cent minimum.

The actual vote was as follows:

"At the present time, the minimum wage that can be paid to workers in every State in most businesses and industries is 40 cents an hour. This means that all persons working in such businesses, in every State, including young people who have never worked before, cannot be paid less than 40 cents an hour. Would you approve or disapprove of raising this minimum to 65 cents an hour?"

Approve	71%
Disapprove	24
No opinion	5

The present congressional bill, cosponsored by 11 Senators and 2 Representatives, would increase the minimum wage for industries in interstate commerce to 65 cents an hour upon the enactment to 70 cents one year later, and to 75 cents an hour two years later.

One reason of course for the high majority in today's poll is that in the mass population there are many more wage earners, who would benefit by the increase, than employers, who would have to pay out the additional money. Some economists claim that raising the minimum will increase the cost of consumer goods, and that if consumers fully realized this they would be less in favor of a higher minimum wage.

There is a marked difference of attitude toward the measure according to occupational groups. The farmers of the country, many of whom are employers of farm labor, are least in favor of raising the minimum wage, with manual workers the most in favor.

	Approve	Disapprove	No opin.
Manual workers	85%	12%	3%
White collar	71	25	4
Prof. and bus.	60	35	5
Farmers	50	40	10

Sentiment for increasing the minimum has been found in many previous surveys by the Institute. Last October, just before the congressional election, the Nation's voters were polled on the question in this way:

"Should the Congress elected in November pass a law raising minimum wages throughout the country from 40 cents to 65 cents an hour—that is, no worker could receive less than 65 cents an hour?"

The vote was 66 per cent in favor, 26 per cent opposed and 8 per cent no opinion.

While today's poll results would suggest that opposition to raising the minimum is likely to follow occupational lines, there is no marked split along political party lines. Democrats are more in favor of the change than Republicans, but in both camps the majority of approval is large—77 per cent in the case of Democrats, and 61 per cent in the case of the Republican voters.

Antidiscrimination Bill Hit

By The Associated Press

Senator Ellender (D., La.) said yesterday that pending antidiscrimination legislation would break down segregation of Negroes from white persons in the South and eventually produce a "mongrel race."

Ellender is a member of a Senate Public Welfare Subcommittee considering legislation to establish a national commission against discrimination in employment.

Frank Goldman, president of the supreme lodge of B'nai B'rith, which he said has 300,000 Jewish members, testified in support of the bill.

Ellender told Goldman:

"You people are trying to impose on us (of the South) something that would do more harm than good. It is just the first of steps to break down segregation in the South which we think is necessary."

Ellender argued that social equality of Negroes with white persons "will lead to amalgamation of the races," and that this in turn would produce a "mongrel race" in America.

"You can't weed out prejudice by law or by force. Only education will do that," Ellender said.

The bill, sponsored by Senator Ives (R., N. Y.) and others, authorizes the proposed commission to enforce its decisions if conciliation efforts failed.

The American Jewish Committee also indorsed the bill. Ben Herzberg, chairman of the organization's civil affairs committee, told the Senate group that "at a time when we are straining to increase production, discriminatory employment practices—based on race, color, religion and national origin—artificially diminish the available manpower to do the job."

Herzberg told the subcommittee that an antidiscrimination law in New York—the pattern for the Ives bill—worked well.

Referring to the New York law, Ellender said "there is no reason for trouble now because there is employment for everybody," but "just wait" until unemployment increases.

Goldman testified "there is nothing revolutionary or of wild-eyed radicalism" about the bill.

He said in a statement prepared for the subcommittee that there is this two-fold economic and moral need for such a law:

1. "The practices complained of deprive our national economy of the productive value of the work of individuals who are denied an opportunity to make full use of their education, training and talents."

2. "We must make effective in everyday life at home the principles of democracy which we preach abroad."

yet consulted formally with the group.

The "Secret Seven" were selected early this year to help the President draft his views on labor legislation for inclusion in his State of the Union message last January. At that time he recommended a program of some changes, but not nearly as far-reaching as those contained in the pending bill.

It was also learned yesterday that high Interior Department officials, concerned with turning back the Nation's seized coal mines to their private owners on June 30, feel that the Taft-Hartley bill will be no help in the strike which might ensue with the transfer. Instead, it is liable to be a distinct hindrance, they have concluded.

Their argument is based on the belief that the bill will force the Government to take a series of steps which will either be impossible or futile. At best, they would postpone a strike until fall, that much nearer the winter heating season and therefore that much worse in timing than a strike this summer. And in any event, while the procedures prescribed by law are being followed, other steps more likely to have a successful result must be held in abeyance.

The proposed law would have the Attorney General obtain an injunction, which could run for 80 days, in the event of a critical stoppage such as that in the coal mines.

Nothing to Enjoin

But the question is, what would be enjoined? Miners' leader John L. Lewis runs his stoppages without formal orders, without picket lines, with strike benefit payments, without any of the tangible actions which can be enjoined.

Then, there is a question as to whether the law would outlaw a strike in the coal mines, provided Lewis declared it was simply a "safety" stoppage. For the bill contains a section stating that "the quitting of labor by an employe or employes in good faith because of abnormally dangerous conditions" shall not be deemed a strike.

These arguments against the bill were not believed to have been raised in detail at Thursday's meeting of the Presidents' labor advisors. Instead, it was reported that Schwellenbach and Herzog discussed other major provisions in the bill.

They argued that the cumulative effect was to shake the structure of collective bargaining and make operations by the NLBR procedurally unworkable. It would have the result of making unions rely on their own economic strength, they argued, rather than on provisions of the law.

In other words, the two men were said to have declared, unions would find the procedure of the law impossible to use. They would not apply to the NLRB in case of controversies, but would choose to "hit the bricks"—fight it out in a strike, as they were obliged to before there was a National Labor Relations Act.

Herzog was reported also to have argued that the bill would invest the NLRB and its virtually independent general counsel with entirely too much authority, creating a bureacracy with unchecked powers.

Both Schwellenbach and Herzog declared that there were several provisions in the bill to which they had no objection. They said they were willing to accept many of its changes beyond those originally recommended by President Truman.

But the benefit of these provisions, they continued, was far outweighed by other sections in the bill which tended to disrupt peaceful collective bargaining.

complaint to have gotten Colonel Blimp on a five-year contract in November, 1944. By June, 1945, FTC charged, some 6000 contracts were signed for its showing.

Besides United Artists, Miss Pickford and Chaplin, the FTC cited Edward C. Raferty, United Artists president, and David O. Selznick. The respondents have 20 days to answer the complaint. Then a hearing is due to be held. If the FTC should then find the complaint to be true it would issue a "cease and desist" order, the violation of which would be punishable by fines.

Raftery was quoted by the Associated Press as saying in New York that the commission's complaint is "ridiculous," adding that United Artists intended to resist the action.

"It's just another attempt by a governmental body to tell a producer whether he can cut a picture or not cut a picture," he said. "The film has been shown in both the long and short versions and the commission has the silly idea that when a film is cut you are short-changing the public."

ment by then, the unions would have "the support of the CIO."

Murray said that ship owners have shown "unwillingness" to bargain on a new contract while the Taft-Hartley labor bill is under consideration by President Truman.

Despite the gloomy picture by Murray, Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach appealed to the ship owners on the Atlantic and Gulf Coasts and to three CIO unions to continue present contracts while the Labor Department tries its hand at conciliating.

He said that a work stoppage "at this time would seriously damage the American merchant marine and would seriously embarrass our Government in the carrying out of its foreign commitments."

St. Louis Tied Up

St. Louis, June 13 (AP).—Public transportation in the metropolitan St. Louis area of more than one million persons was tied up today by a strike of the city's 3500 streetcar and bus operators and thousands experienced diffculty and delay in getting to and from work.

Five Foremen Attacked

Detroit, June 13 (AP).—Five nonstriking supervisory workers of the Ford Motor Co. were injured in two reported assaults today as fresh labor troubles hampered other auto factories.

After a brief calm in the industry, nearly 1000 men were made idle in a Chrysler strike and another 1200 were off the job in a renewed dispute at Continental Motors.

The total idle, however, had decreased to approximately 6000, compared with the 20,000 of the previous day. At the same time Ford said its two Rouge assembly lines, suspended since Wednesday, would resume operations Monday.

Dearborn police said three carloads of unidentified men beat four Ford foremen on their way to work after stopping their automobiles and dragging them out.

The Ford company reported that a fifth man, Lloyd Brady, 50, superintendent of inspection at the Rouge plant foundry, was struck over the head with a length of pipe and knocked unconscious.

Rains Increase Midwest Floods

St. Louis, June 13 (AP).—Torrential rains brought new floods to central Iowa and northwest Missouri today along with predictions of new record crests in the already ravaged five-State Midwestern watersheds of the rampaging Missouri and Mississippi Rivers.

Downpours measuring from 1½ to more than 5 inches overspread the area where week-long floods have inundated more than a million acres of rich farm land, left at least 24,000 homeless and caused property damage which Army engineers placed in excess of 28 million dollars.

The engineers reported precipitation in the last 24 hours in the area above Des Moines, Iowa, was heavier than that which produced the disastrous flood at Ottumwa, Iowa, last week and caused the Mississippi to overflow along a 100-mile stretch from Keokuk, Iowa, southward through Hannibal, Mo., and Quincy, Ill.

A flood summary from the corps of engineers' district office at St. Louis said 5.92 inches of rain had fallen since yesterday at Van Meter, Iowa, producing an all-time record stage on the Racoon River there, while 5.35 fell at Des Moines on the river of the same name.

"Rainfall on the Mississippi between Minneapolis and Keokuk also has been heavy," the summary stated, "with the greatest precipitation at Dubuque, Iowa, where 3.88 inches was recorded."

Synod Backs Birth Control

Frederick, Md., June 13 (AP).—The Potomac synod of the Evangelical and Reformed Church today adopted a resolution urging married couples to avail themselves of "appropriate medical aid in the wisest planning of their families."

The synod is spiritual governing body for approximately 25,000 members of 106 churches in Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and the District of Columbia.

The birth control resolution was advanced by its committee on Christian social action and was adopted at the closing session of the three-day annual meeting at Hood College.

The synod also adopted resolutions opposing universal military training.

Four Priests In D. C. Area Get New Posts

Bishop John M. McNamara, administrator of the Washington and Baltimore archdiocese, yesterday announced transfer of four Washington area priests. Fourteen other priests in the Baltimore section were assigned to new posts, it was announced in the Catholic Review.

Washington priests affected were the Revs. Martin J. Schmitt, Charles W. Endres, John F. Mendelis and Wilbur F. X. Wheeler.

Father Schmitt goes from the assistant pastorate of St. Mary's Church here to assistant at Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church, Middle River, Md. Father Endres, assistant at Our Lady of Victory, was assigned in the same capacity to St. Paul's, Baltimore. Father Mendelis, assistant at St. Augustine's, was transferred to St. Alphonsus Church, Baltimore. Father Wheeler, assistant at St. James Church, Mount Rainier, goes in same capacity to St. Margaret's Church, Seat Pleasant.

Newly-ordained priests who will come to Washington area pulpits as assistant pastors are the Rev. William J. Awalt to St. Matthew's Cathedral; the Rev. Robert J. Lewis, to St. Mary's; the Rev. Edward J. Herrman, to Our Lady of Victory Church; the Rev. John D. Benson, to St. Augustine's, and the Rev. Jerome A. Miller to the Shrine of the Blessed Sacrament, Chevy Chase.

The Rev. Joseph B. McAllister was appointed to the Catholic University faculty.

Appointments are effective June 27 at noon.

Harp Recital Set For Wednesday

Miss Ruth Linrud will give a harp concert Wednesday at 8 p. m. in the parish hall of the Episcopal Church of St. Stephen and the Incarnation, 16th and Newton sts. nw.

To demonstrate the progress of harp manufacturing, Miss Linrud will play on both a ninth century type of Irish harp and a modern instrument. A native of Norway, she came to America as a child, and has played for several years on the concert stage.

Calvary Church Gymnasium Proves Ideal Daily Community Center for Boys, Girls

"LINE-UP"—Caldwell McCormick, a sociological student at George Washington University is shown on steps of Calvary Methodist Church, 1459 Columbia rd. nw., with members of his Calvary A. C. baseball team, part of the recreational and social program which the Calvary Young Adults sponsor for boys of Mount Pleasant Community. McCormick is a part-time director of the program. In front row (from left) are Barry Holt, Paul (Bobo) Kessler, Harry Boyd, Jerry Luks, Sonny Farrar and Cliff Borden. Second row (from left) are Howard Rubin, Andrew Kennedy, McCormick and Wilson "Dutch" McCarthy. In back (left to right) are Steve Gratsias, Eugene Russell Lee and Conrad (Red) Wine

About three years ago teen-agers who had been frequenting Mount Pleasant street corners began knocking on the basement windows of Calvary Methodist Church, 1459 Columbia rd. nw.

They had discovered that the church had a gymnasium and the church discovered a dire need for community recreational and social programs.

Today the Calvary Young Adults sponsor a seven-day-a-week program for boys of the community, including encouragement of attendance at Sunday school and church.

Currently, the boys are rooting for their Calvary A. C. baseball team, an entry in the Georgetown Boys Club League. Captain of the Calvary A. C. is 17-year-old Andrew Kennedy, Central High School junior. The team plays at the Ellipse or Western High School Stadium, Saturday afternoons. Their opponent last Saturday was the Silver Spring Lions team.

Much credit for the success of Calvary's Young Adult program for community boys goes to a lanky former Navy Hospital Corpsman who was in the Okinawa invasion and other engagements. He is 26-year-old Caldwell McCormick, a sociology student at George Washington University, who plans a social-service career.

McCormick rounds up boys and girls several times weekly for their after-school and evening programs, including dancing in the gym. He teaches a Sunday school class of boys and girls at Calvary, too.

In the church basement are ping-pong tables, a piano, Victrola, basketball court and other facilities for the teen-agers.

McCormick thinks it significant that few of the boys in his group are actually members of Calvary Church. Eugene Russell Lee, 17, is of Chinese background.

Celeste Streiff is acting president of Calvary's Young Adults, and Edwin Schell, an employe of Capital Transit Co., is president-elect.

Two English Church Figures To Speak Here

Two English religious figures will be among the speakers before church groups tomorrow and next week.

Miss Lester

John Wycliffe Black of Leicester, England, will speak tomorrow at 10:50 a. m. at Columbia Heights Christian Church, 1435 Park rd. nw. He is a former member of the British Parliament and a leading layman in the Scotch and British Disciples of Christ churches. He is a fraternal delegate to the World Disciples' Convention, August 3-7, in Buffalo, N. Y.

Miss Muriel Lester, founder of Kingsley Hall Settlement House in London's East End, will speak Wednesday at 3 p. m. at International House, 1825 R st. nw. A social period will follow her address. She will autograph copies of her books. She is known as a friend and confidante of Gandhi.

Dr. Juraj Slavick, Czechoslovakian Ambassador to the United States, will speak tomorrow at 11 a. m. at Takoma Lutheran Church, 7th and Dahlia sts. nw. He will discuss the need for material and spiritual help for Europe.

Dr. Douglass Speaks

Dr. Paul F. Douglass, president of American University, will preach tomorrow at 11 a. m. at Foundry Methodist Church, 16th and P sts. nw., and the Rev. Ralph C. John, Foundry's assistant pastor, at 8 p. m. Dr. Frederick Brown Harris, pastor of Foundry Church, will be in Rochester, N. Y., this weekend, addressing a Knights Templar conclave.

Daily Vacation Bible Schools To Open Soon

Church-sponsored Daily Vacation Bible Schools soon will get under way here.

Most of the schools will be conducted through cooperation of the Federation of Churches' children's work department, of which Mrs. Josephine Kyles is director.

The Chevy Chase Community Vacation Bible School will begin June 23, with daily sessions from 9 a. m. to 12 p. m. The beginners and primaries will meet in All Saints' Episcopal Church and the juniors at Chevy Chase Baptist Church, Western ave. and Belt rd.

Cooperating congregations are Chevy Chase Baptist, Presbyterian and Methodist Churches; All Saints' Episcopal, Wesley Methodist and St. Paul's Lutheran Churches.

The Sunday Schools of Union Methodist, Concordia Evangelical Lutheran and Western Presbyterian Churches will sponsor a Daily Vacation Bible School June 23 to July 3 in the educational building of Western Church, 1906 H st. nw. Instruction in Bible stories, hymns, games and handicraft will be offered.

Mount Olivet Methodist Church, North Glebe rd. and 16th st., Arlington, will hold a Vacation Bible School June 16 to June 27, 9:30 a. m. to 12 p. m. weekdays. Children from 4 to 12 years of age are eligible. Mrs. J. L. Buckmaster is general superintendent.

Mount Vernon Program

Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church, 9th st. and Massachusetts ave. nw., will sponsor a "Doll Adoption" and Vacation Church School beginning June 19, 10 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. daily. Each child will be given a doll upon enrollment. There will be classes in Bible study and handicraft, and also recreational and social activities.

The Petworth Baptist Daily Vacation Bible School is set for June 23 to July 2, from 9 a. m. to 12 p. m. weekdays. Registration will be held June 21 at 10 a. m.

CE Delegates Told Atomic Bomb Is Moral Issue

Dr. William R. Barnhart, head of the department of religion and philosophy of Hood College, Frederick, Md., last night called for moral control of atomic power.

In an address opening the annual Maryland Christian Endeavor Convention at the college, Dr. Barnhart warned that "unless we can quickly control ourselves and the atomic power in accordance with moral principles, this atomic age may be brief and brutal and end in mass suicide."

"Our choice has become the Bible or the atomic bomb—Christianity or catastrophe," said Dr. Barnhart. He was formerly executive secretary of the Washington Federation of Churches.

Of Personal Interest

Two Clergymen Get Honorary Degrees

The Rev. John David Hayes, assistant pastor of the National (Covenant-First) Presbyterian Church, and for 25 years missionary to China, this week received an honorary degree of doctor of divinity from Wooster (Ohio) College.

Dr. Hayes was directing Student Christian Work and missionary activities in the Province of Shantung when both he and his father, also a missionary, were interned by the Japanese. His father died during the internment.

Since the fall of 1946, Dr. and Mrs. Hayes have been on the staff of the National Presbyterian Church, and plan to return to China next year. He was a Rhodes Scholar at Oxford, receiving his Master of Arts degree in 1928. He was a four-letter man there and captain of the crew. He was graduated from Princeton Theological Seminary in 1917. Dr. Hayes will speak tomorrow at 11 a. m. at the National Presbyterian Church, 18th and N sts. nw.

James H. Ellerbrook, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry K. Ellerbrook of 235 17th st. se., will be ordained to the Christian ministry tomorrow at 7:45 p. m. at Ninth Street Christian Church, 9th and D sts. ne., his boyhood church.

He is a graduate of Eastern High School, and holds an A. B. degree from Butler University and a B. D. degree from the Butler University School of Religion.

The Rev. A. Powell Davies, pastor of All Souls' Unitarian Church, 16th and Harvard sts. nw., this week received an honorary degree of doctor of divinity from Meadville Theological School of Chicago University.

75,000 Seats

WAA Sells 257 Chapels For Worship

Between 75,000 and 100,000 more seats are available in churches today because surplus wartime service chapels are rapidly becoming peacetime worship-places.

War Assets Administration announced yesterday that 257 chapels on surplus war installations were sold as of May 15. This was done in conformity with provisions of a presidential directive prescribing that chapels be disposed of exclusively as shrines or memorials or as denominational houses of worship.

Moreover, WAA said that 69 other chapels currently are being advertised for sale in far-flung sections of the United States. It is anticipated that in the next six months 300 more chapels will be disposed of to Protestant, Catholic and Jewish groups and to colleges, States and cities.

Choir to Broadcast

Dr. Henry W. Snyder, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, and his Intermediate Choir will broadcast tomorrow from 5:05 p. m. to 5:30 p. m. over WBCC. The Men's Club will hold a lawn fete and cold plate supper Thursday night.

Church Has Outing

Members of Takoma Lutheran Church will attend an outing tomorrow at 1:30 p. m. in Grove 11, Rock Creek Park. Picnickers are asked not to bring food; the church will provide it.

Film at Temple Baptist

CHURCH NEWS AND VIEWS

Religious Parleys in U.S. and Abroad Due To Draw Many Delegates From Washington

By Robert Tate Allan

Religious parleys in America and Europe will draw numbers of Capital church folk this summer.

Upward of 100 delegates and visitors from the Capital will attend the Thirty-ninth International Christian Endeavor Convention July 8-13 at San Francisco. They will include Mrs. Lester Case, nee Pauline Shoemaker, associate president of the World Endeavor Union; Mrs. L. C. Greene, superintendent of the D. C. High School Endeavor Union, and her husband; Mrs. Herman Smid, junior superintendent, and others.

Disciples of Christ clergymen and lay delegates will attend the World Disciples' Convention August 3-7 in Buffalo, N. Y.

Western Maryland College, Westminster, will again be the scene of summer church conferences, opening with the Methodist Young Adult Assembly June 20, 21 and 22.

Expecting to attend the Baptist World Alliance parley at Copenhagen, Denmark, July 29 to August 4 are Dr. Edward Hughes Pruden, pastor of First Baptist Church and president of the American Baptist Foreign Mission Society, and Dr. Joseph M. Dawson, chairman of public relations for the Northern and Southern Baptist Conventions, and Mrs. Dawson.

The Rev. Thomas Steen, director of the Federation of Churches' Christian Education department, will lead the delegation from the Washington Federation of Christian Youth attending the World Christian Youth Conference July 29 to August 7 at Oslo, Norway.

DR. BUSCHMEYER SAILING

Dr. Fred L. Buschmeyer, pastor of Mount Pleasant Congregational Church, will leave here tomorrow, en route to Europe to study problems of Congregational-Christian churches there. He preaches his last sermon for the summer tomorrow at 11 a. m.

He is executive chairman of the General Council of Congregational-Christian Churches, and one of eight clergymen of his denomination assigned to visit Europe. His group will coordinate its findings with those of the World Council of Churches in Geneva, Switzerland.

The Lutheran World Federation parley will be held June 30 to July 6 at Lund, Sweden. Washington folks attending the various meetings abroad plan to meet in Amsterdam July 4 or 5 and proceed with other clergy into Germany.

PRIEST IS DELEGATE

The Right Rev. Monsignor Francesco Lardone, director of ecclesiastical studies at Catholic University, has been appointed a member of the Papal Mission to the Marian Congress in Ottawa, Canada, June 18 to 22. It will be held under the patronage of the Most Rev. Alexandre Vachon, Archbishop of Ottawa. The Ottawa Congress will be a week of prayer for "a true and lasting peace through the intercession of the Blessed Virgin."

MEXICAN SEMINAR

The sixth annual seminar to Mexico, personally conducted by Dr. James A. Magner, procurator of Catholic University, will leave for that country August 1. Principal departure points will be Chicago and Washington, most of the group flying. Father Magner is author of "Men of Mexico" and other works dealing with Latin America.

Britain's Women Dislike Our Babe

By Robert Musel

GULLANE, SCOTLAND, JUNE 13 (U.P.).—No one could get Babe Didrikson Zaharias to admit it, but there was a growing impression today that the Babe was the loneliest woman who ever won the British Amateur Golf Championship.

Although the one-time Olympic star from Texas insisted that she was getting the friendliest possible treatment in Britain, it was plain that the colorful, uninhibited antics of the Babe did not make a hit in this austere golf community where women are supposed to be plain, prissy and tight-lipped.

Unbiased observers were quick to confirm that the Babe was misjudged. But that didn't prevent several of the snobbish women of Gullane from viewing her actions with shock and turning a cold shoulder to the indomitable American girl who will carry the big silver championship trophy across the Atlantic for the first time in history.

In the Babe's code of sportsmanship, losers don't complain, much less winners. So the powerfully built Texan just smiled and shook her head when asked about her treatment by British golfing circles.

"I'm going to stay here to play some charity matches shortly," she said. "I'd hardly do that if I were unhappy, would I?"

NEWSPAPERMEN WHO COVERED the tournament had an entirely different impression, however, and began to say in print what they had been thinking privately while Mrs. Zaharias was contending for the ti e.

Bluntest of the writers and the first to use the "loneliest woman" line, was John Grime of the Daily Express, who reported a locker room incident immediately after the Babe had won the championship.

Mrs. Zaharias, exuberant and happy over her victory, asked if anyone had a cigarette. "A voice from behind a screen said quietly, 'I've got some arsenic'," Grime stated.

The Babe whirled around and snapped, "Who said that?" Her only answer was an anonymous laugh.

Grime went on to say that on the eve of the first day's play someone piled furniture outside the American star's hotel room, and that "at first, the courtesy of finding woman partners for her to play in practice rounds was ignored, and she had to search out Bob Plain, a Gullane professional to show her around the course."

When she announced smilingly that she was going to win the championship, local women looked upon her remarks as bragging and in bad taste.

WHEN BABE, IN HER hearty fashion, complied with photographers' requests for a few steps of the Highland Fling on the first tee, there were cries of horror from the clanswomen.

And after she had trounced one opponent 7 and 6 and said sincerely, "I had to win by that kind of score," acidulous females in the gallery hissed, "she's rubbing it in, isn't she?"

Two Edinburg newspapers also scolded the gallery, stating that the Britons "had misunderstood a sincere and talented sportswoman."

One pointed out that the Babe had donned a Tartan skirt at its special request for a picture. The other said that British women players could profit by the American's invariable habit of going to bed early and getting up for 7 a. m. breakfast.

If it's any comfort to Mrs. Zaharias, the golf writers agreed that the snide gallery comments came from a small clique and that most of the men and women who watched her take away the title that England never before had given up, are now among her fans.

The admiring phrase, "she's a bonnie golfer," was heard repeatedly as she eliminated one opponent after another. From Scotsmen, there is no higher praise.

Didrikson Relaxes, Shoots 80 Over St. Andrews Course

St. Andrews, Scotland, June 13 (AP).—Babe Didrikson Zaharias, still flushed with the success that won her the British Women's amateur golf championship, ran smack into the Friday the Thirteenth jinx today and played the poorest game of golf of her visit to Britain.

The American and British champion obviously was tired and it took her 80—seven over men's par—to finish the first round she ever played over the famous old course where open championships have been played since the last century.

The Babe, who had forsaken her famous slacks, wore a blue skirt and yellow pullover.

A holiday crowd of 500 or so followed her on the round in which she played with W. W. Sharpe against Rear Admiral Frank Barry and Commander E. E. Thomson, two Royal and Ancient Golf Club members.

Par wasn't all that bothered the Babe. She had caddy trouble, too.

Eddy Blackman, who carried her clubs when she won the British championship at Gullane, faithfully had trailed along to St. Andrews, but one of the Babe's friends had also hired Peter Reid, a local boy, to caddy for her.

He refused to give up the clubs and Blackman followed around as a spectator.

She Gives Them a Show

Despite her troubles, Mrs. Zaharias was in a gay mood and she gave the spectators a show.

Part of her trouble came at the fourteenth where her second shot was trapped in the notorious "hell bunker."

There was some water in the trap and her ball lay at the edge of the pool.

"You have to go into the water and play it," a spectator counseled but the Babe would have none of it.

"My momma didn't raise no fool," she laughed as she picked the ball out of the water and dropped it on the sand.

"Isn't she wonderful," the crowd "oohed" and "aahed" as they applauded virtually every shot the Babe made.

Mrs. Zaharias announced at the end of the round that she was "delighted" with the old course but would have to play it again fully to appreciate its possibilities.

Strain Tires Her

The strain of her championship fight obviously robbed her of some of the enjoyment.

"I must get a couple of days rest," she confided as she strode toward the clubhouse. "It has been pretty hard—four days of competitive golf."

The Babe's scorecard showed she failed to beat the unofficial par at any hole.

As she walked away after signing a 10 shilling ($2) note for one autograph hunter and a pension book for an old age pensioner, the Babe took a parting shot:

"I want to deny the newspaper stories that I was cold shouldered at Gullane. I've had a dandy time and everybody has been very kind to me."

John Grime, writing in the London Daily Express, suggested that Mrs. Zaharias' triumph yesterday was not popular in all parts of Scotland and England.

He added that "the Babe denies she had anything but the best treatment but the fact is that she has been the loneliest woman in Gullane all week."

Clemson Wins, 1-0, Meets Virginia

Charlotte, N. C., June 13 (AP).—First Baseman Frank Gillespie doubled to score Center Fielder Dewey Quinn in the ninth inning today as Clemson broke a scoreless tie to edge out the University of Alabama, 1-0, in the Southeastern NCAA baseball playoffs here today.

The Clemson victory, following the University of Virginia's elimination of Auburn, 3-0, today, sent the Tigers into the championship round of the double elimination series. Clemson will meet the winner of the Alabama-Virginia game.

Hank Hits 9th; Braves Beat Pirates

Pittsburgh, June 13 (AP)—The Boston Braves' good humor man, Charles (Red) Barrett, took his pitching chores seriously again today and throttled the hapless Pittsburgh Pirates, 6-2, before 6341 fans.

Barrett, who pitched a one-hitter against the Chicago Cubs his last time out, limited the Pirates to six blows today and joined lustily in the Braves' 14-hit attack on Truett (Rip) Sewell and Art Herring by punching out two doubles and scoring twice.

The Braves broke up a tight ball game in the ninth and kayoed Sewell by pounding over three runs.

Sibby Sisti homered for Boston in the fourth. Hank Greenberg's ninth homer with none on in the sixth gave Pittsburgh a temporary 2-2 tie.

Cubs Win, 4-3, For 8th Straight Over Phils

Chicago, June 13 (AP).—The Chicabo Cubs beat their Philadelphia "cousins" again today, 4 to 3, for the eighth straight time this season and the seventh time by one run. The Cubs moved within a half game of the league-leading New York Giants, who were idle.

It was the fourth straight victory for the Cubs.

Hank Borowy edged Charley Schanz in a slab duel for his seventh victory. Borowy allowed eight hits, fanned six and walked three, while the big Philly right-hander yielded nine hits, fanned five and walked five. An unearned run in the sixth eventually proved decisive.

Giants Swap Voiselle for Mort Cooper

New York, June 13 (AP).—The New York Giants today sent Pitcher Bill Voiselle and cash to the Boston Braves for Pitcher Mort Cooper, one-time star hurler of the St. Louis Cardinals who rejoins his brother Catcher Walker Cooper with the Giants.

Cooper will join the Giants, currently leading the tight National League race, in Cincinnati tomorrow while Voiselle will pick up his new mates at Pittsburgh.

The sum which the Giants sent to Boston to reunite the Cooper brothers, a battery combination that helped bring the Cardinals National League pennants in 1942, 1943 and 1944, was not divulged.

Walker Cooper was purchased from the Cardinals on January 5, 1946, for $175,000—one of the highest straight cash deals in major league history.

Mort Cooper, now in his tenth major league season, has won 127 games and lost 70. His record this year is two triumphs and five defeats.

Voiselle spent parts of the 1942 and 1943 seasons with New York and the remainder of those two years with various minor league clubs. In 1944, however, he was the sensation of the National League, winning 21 games and losing 16. His 1947 record is one victory and four defeats, having spent most of the campaign in Manager Mel Ott's doghouse.

Much of the difficulty between the big righthander and his manager stems from mid-summer of 1945 when the Giants with Voiselle on the mound lost a game to the St. Louis Cardinals on what Ott regarded as a poor pitch. It was blasted for htome run. The pitcher was fined $500. The fine later was rescinded.

Mort Cooper, voted the National League's most valuable player in 1942, underwent an arm operation after the 1945 season and in 1946 won only 13 games for the Braves while losing 11. He came to the Boston Club in May of 1945 in exchange for Pitcher Charles Barrett and cash.

This spring Cooper reported his pitching arm back in No. 1 condition but he failed to get away to a winning start.

Pellone Ends Fusari's Run Of Wins at 48

New York, June 13 (AP).—Young Tony Pellone, a toughie from downtown New York who wasn't given a chance, ended Charley Fusari's gaudy all-winning streak at 48 straight tonight by roughing and mauling his way to a 10-round decision in Madison Square Garden. Both weighed 145¾.

Pellone came from far back after Fusari piled up a towering edge through the first eight rounds to catch the eye of one judge and Referee Arthur Donovan, although the other judge balloted for Fusari.

The Associated Press score card voted for Fusari, six rounds to three, with one even, giving the swift swatter from Irvington, N. J., six of the first eight rounds.

Pellone complained that he'd been hit a low blow in the fifth, but Referee Donovan ruled no low blow had been struck and told Tony to go back to punching again. Near the end of the heat, Fusari tossed a right uppercut that snapped Pellone's head back and was easily the best punch of the fight.

Pellone was bleeding badly in the sixth, but came on near the end of the round to take the play. Midway of the round, he let go a roundhouse right that caught Fusari under the eye. Before the heat ended, it was half closed and the swelling grew larger as the fight progressed, so that through the last three rounds, Charley was barely able to see out of the eye.

Tony started off the seventh in a hurry, then faded near the finish. In the eighth, Charley gave him all the rest of the body punishment he hadn't dished out earlier.

Thieves Put Dent In McPhail's "Spirits"

Bel Air, Md., June 13 (AP). An estimated $7,000 worth of bottles of champagne, have been stolen from the wine cellar of the farm home of Leland S. (Harry) McPhail, Yankees.

State Trooper Paul Long reported yesterday that the theft was discovered during the latter part of May. The house is being remodelled.

Macks Bump Feller But Indians Win

Philadelphia, June 13 (AP).—Two home runs by Joe Gordon and one by Ken Keltner carried Bob Feller to his eighth victory tonight as the Cleveland Indians defeated the Philadelphia Athletics, 5-4, before 28,628.

Feller, who fanned 12 to bring his season's strikeout total to 87, was relieved in the eighth by Ed Klieman.

Gordon and Keltner slammed successive circuit drives off Phil Marchildon in the fifth and the Indians' veteran second baseman got his second of the night with Les Fleming on base in the eighth. The second of Gordon's two homers broke a 3-3 deadlock and made relief pitcher Russ Christopher the loser.

When the A's rallied in the eighth to score a run on Chapman's long fly, Klieman was called in to relieve Feller.

Easter Bonnie Loses Charles Town Feature on Rough Ride

Bennings

Dear Folks:

There's a race track character around here who was turned down by his draft board during the war. He is particularly proud of the reason and will tell you at the drop of a hat that his trouble was "emotional instability." When I informed him that it meant he was half nuts he said he wouldn't talk about it any more. Ray Bates has had a fine offer for the contract of Apprentice Bobby Shirey from William Rosen who came down from New York to see the lad in action. Rosen would take him to the big time but Bates hasn't made up his mind. There is no denying that Shirey is an excellent prospect but weight may stop him. Jimmy Baird has stepped in front of local riders with 11 winners. Frank Depew arrived from Wheeling with his one-horse stable consisting of War O'Graph, a 7-year-old. Mrs. Herndon Jenkins has purchased the plater George Woody who will start in her name on the Saturday program. This is a good show to be featured by the John Bowling Purse, a test of about 6 furlongs with Sincon and Fall Guy expected to draw the bulk of the play. There's a rumor that the pump will install an air-cooling system. See you on the rail.

Johnson School Diplomas Will Be Given Out Today

By tonight, every graduate of the Walter Johnson Memorial Baseball School should have received his diploma.

During this week, most of the 5000 diplomas were handed out at the public and private schools that the youngsters regularly attend.

Those boys who did not receive their diplomas this week may pick them up this morning at 10 a. m. at the Recreation Department locations where they attended the Johnson School sessions.

The one exception is for the youngsters who attended the Central class. They may get their diplomas at the Columbia-Powell Recreation Center at 3200 16th st. nw.

The booklet, "How to Play Better Baseball," inside tips by the Nats as told to Shirley Povich, are available at no charge at all the Johnson School locations.

Weber Given Five-Day Suspension

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Charles Town, W. Va., June 13. Friday the thirteenth brought ill luck to backers of C. F. Hovis' Easter Bonnie in the featured Alexandria Purse today.

The 5-year-old mare led Mrs. Arthur White's Saikik Glow into the wire by a half length, but she was disqualified and placed second. O. Wagner's North Sea was third and stayed third.

Easter Bonnie, ridden by Jockey Wayne Weber, carried Saikik Glow wide into the stretch. The stewards listened to a foul claim registered by Jockey Ray Arduini of Washington and then ordered the revamp of the finish. Weber was suspended for 5-days because of rough riding.

Saikik Glow returned a $7.80 mutuel to her backers and the running time for the race was 1:26 4/5 over a track that dried out somewhat from a downpour last night and then was sprinkled by mild rain during the program.

Easter Bonnie took command early from the No. 1 post position and was soon joined by Saikik Glow. The two ran head and head thereafter. Approaching the stretch, Easter Bonnie got out of Weber's control momentarily and carried Saikik Glow to the center of the track. In the final drive, Easter Bonnie outgamed her rival.

Baird Sets Pace

Jimmy Baird, crack apprentice who is setting the pace for riders here, was the day's saddle big shot. Among his accomplishments were a victory with Miss Virginia McKenny's Equinow at $6.60 in the first; a triumph with McCutchen and Cox's Mauve at $8.20 in the third and a score with M. G. Heron's Tex Grenock at $18 in the fourth.

Baird topped off his big saddle day with a victory aboard A. J. Pinsett's Key Miss, at $48 in the eighth race. The youngster took the maiden to the front at the break and stayed there.

Those who coupled Equinow with A. Sailer's Sir Kiev at $14.20 in the second race, received a pay-off of $69 on the 7 and 3 combination in the daily double.

Daze Winner At Upperville

Upperville, Va., June 13.—Daze, owned by the Langolan Farm of Upperville, won the $250 Hunter Stake as the two-day Upperville Colt and Horse Show opened today at the Granfton Farm.

Second place went to Icecapades, owned by Mrs. Page Jennings of Charlottesville. Icecapades also took first place in the Working Hunter Class. Model Class honors went to Bill Starr, owned by James McKennon of Almira, N. Y.

Home Rule, owned by E. L. Redmond of Middleburg, Va., finished first in the Half-Bred Class for 3-year-olds. Second went to Sherwood, owned by Herbert Bryant of the Marbert Farms in Alexandria. Mrs. Henry R. Wellen's Major Silas Way, bred near Silver Spring, Md., took third place.

Hamp Pool Added To Rocket Staff

Chicago, June 13 (AP).—Hampton Pool, Miami Beach, Fla., one of professional football's outstanding ends, today was added to the coaching staff of the Chicago Rockets of the All-America Conference.

Pool, 31, was assistant coach of the Miami Seahawks last season.

Pool was top-ranking end at Stanford University in 1938 and 1939 and played end with the Chicago Bears through 1940-1943. He learned the rudiments of the T-formation at Stanford under Coach Clark Shaughnessy and will aid Jimmy Crowley, head coach of the Rockets, in installing the system this season.

Midget Racing Star Elliot Killed in Crash

Freeport, N. Y., June 13 (AP).—"Duke" Elliot, West Hempstead, N. Y., midget auto racer, was killed tonight when his vehicle turned over twice, and dragged him along the track at the Freeport Municipal Stadium before a crowd of 15,000.

The accident occurred within 15 feet of the spot where Alvin Duffy of Mineola, N. Y., another midget auto racer, was fatally hurt Tuesday night.

300 Kids Run In Police Boys' Track Today

Today is the little guy's day at Central High School's Stadium, where 300 kids ranging in age from 7 to 18 and weighing from 50 pounds up will gather for the annual track and field meet under the auspices of the Metropolitan Police Boys' Club.

For weeks the youngsters from Clubs No. 4, 5, 10, 11 and 12 have been working like mad for the big day, with their eyes on gold, silver and bronze medals (which go to the individual winners), gold medals (to first teams in the relay races) and gold track shoes (to the top point scorers in the junior and senior classes).

John A. Remon, president of the Metropolitan Police Boys' Club, and a number of members of his board, will be on hand to watch the future college and Olympic stars do their stuff in 31 events—17 of the track and 14 of the field variety.

A lot of well known sports figures will assist the kids. Among them will be Harry Childs, Police Boys' Club program supervisor; Kip Edwards, Charlie Reynolds, Yank Robbins, Frank Marino, Bill Heck, Joe Aronoff and Jim McNamara, all of whom will serve as officials.

Competition will commence at 10 a. m., with a grand parade of the contestants around the field to be led by the crack Police Boys' Club band under the direction of Maj. Leon Brusiloff.

A. A. U. track and field meet rules will prevail.

Events follow:

80-pound class—50-yard dash, standing broad jump, baseball throw, 300-yard relay race. 95-pound class—60-yard dash, standing hop, step and jump, baseball throw, 400-yard relay.

Senior class—100-yard dash, 400-yard run, 880-yard run, running broad jump, running high jump, 12-pound shot-put, 880-yard relay.

High school division—100-yard dash, 220-yard dash, 440-yard run, running broad jump, 12-pound shot-put.

Junior inter-class inter-club—360-yard relay (one boy from each club in the 80-pound 50-yard dash, 95-pound 60-yard dash, 115-pound 70-yard dash and junior unlimited 80-yard dash).

2 Horse Shows Nearby Sunday

Two nearby horse shows are on tomorrow's program with the Bridle Trails Association show at Rock Creek Park, and the Hyattsville Lions Club show at Lewisdale, Chillum, Md.

The Bridle Trails show is a junior affair, with five of the nine classes for ponies, and a lead line class for youngsters under 6.

At the Hyattsville show, a full card of 16 classes for jumpers, hunters, hacks, juniors, and gaited horses, with championships to be awarded in the hunter, jumper and gaited divisions. Proceeds of the show will go to the Lions Club program for sight conservation and aid to the blind.

Graziano's Daughter Ill, Rocky Halts Training

New York, June 13 (AP).—Irving Cohen, manager of Rocky Graziano, said tonight the middleweight contender had suspended training at Chicago for his July 18 title fight with Tony Zale to rush to the bedside of his daughter, who underwent an operation here today. Graziano was scheduled to fight Jerry Fiorello in Toledo Monday.

Phalanx Has Big Test in Dwyer Today

By Sid Feder

New York, June 13 (AP).—The Phalanx cheering and chowder society, which finally got something to holler about when their stretch-sizzler won the Belmont, will find out in the Dwyer tomorrow whether he can make it stick on the other three-year-olds, or whether he's just a one-day dandy.

As a matter of fact, the way the Dwyer lined up at the entry box in the secretary's office at Aqueduct today, this mile-and-a-quarter figures to be made to order for the gentleman from Virginia, just as if his tailor cut it to measure for him.

Neither Jet Pilot, his conqueror in the Kentucky Derby, nor Faultless, who ran away from him in the Preakness, will be on hand to throw a pitch at the $40,800 Dwyer paycheck. Then, Aqueduct's quarter-mile long stretch figures to be just the right size to give Phalanx room to turn loose his closing lightning.

Carries Top Weight

On top of that, the size of the field—nine—isn't big enough to get him into trouble. And there just doesn't appear to be any other gee-gee in it who has indicated up to now that he can carry Phalanx's shoes, in spite of the 126-pound top-weight the Virginian will be toting.

Steering him will be Chilean Ruperto Donoso, who replaced Eddie Arcaro aboard the colt in the Belmont and piloted him home on top all by himself. As a result, the Dwyer slice, along with his $190,835 bankroll as of right now, figures to put Phalanx well over the $200,000 mark.

Best-liked of the others is another Virginian, Brabancon, who wearied at the king-size mile-and-a-half of the Belmont, but who turned in the sharpest Dwyer workout of them all this week to indicate he has his running shoes all oiled up.

A threat, too, is the Greentree Stable duet of Tailspin, who whipped Phalanx in the Peter Pan three weeks ago, was third in the Belmont but is carrying only 116 tomorrow; and Blue Border, the 2-year-old glamour boy of last season, now on the road back after a slow start this spring.

Mrs. Mason Wins Calvert Tourney

Mrs. J. L. Mason shot an 88, 91—179 to win the low gross prize in the two-day golf tournament at the Washington Golf and Country Club. The tournament was sponsored by Mrs. Walton Calvert.

Mrs. H. Pratt and Mrs. R. D. Young tied for low net, but Mrs. Pratt was awarded the prize after a drawing. Mrs. Pratt shot 97, 100—197 with a 40 handicap for a 157, while Mrs. Young had 96, 101—197 minus 40 for her 157.

The low putt prize went to Mrs. H. Willey, who took 59 putts.

Lions Readmitted Into American Hockey League

The Washington Lions have moved up a notch in hockey circles and have been readmitted into the American Hockey League for the 1947 season after playing the 1946 season in the lower Eastern League.

Maurice Podoloff, president of the American League made the announcement yesterday at the conclusion of the annual meeting at Hershey, Pa., attended by club owners and officials.

Mike Uline, owner of the Lions stated that Jack Riley, veteran Eastern Hockey League star, would coach the Lions and that he had already started to sign players.

The Lions were forced out of the league at the end of the 1942-43 season because of wartime shortages, and since that time have operated in the Eastern Amateur Hockey League.

Metz, Harbert Tied for Lead

hibition on the carpets, Jimmy Demaret took only 23 putts in posting a second-round 69. This might have established a record for the open.

The title course played much tougher today. Jimmy's 69 was the only score under 70, whereas yesterday there were 67's and the like all over the place. Even with the two 139's on the board, there was nothing like a certainty that Ralph Guldahl's decade-old record total of 281 would be beaten tomorrow night.

As the wind rose today the Country's Club's short but tightly-trapped layout looked tougher by the minute. It at least was proving far from the shooting gallery that its sparse yardage has indicated it might be.

The day's biggest disappointment possibly was Ben Hogan. As on the first day, the Mighty Mite from Texas commanded the second-largest gallery, next to that of Locke. His putter went completely sour as he took 75 strokes and wound up at 145, along with six others.

This group was two shots behind Ed Oliver of Wilmington, Del., and Alfred L. Smith of Danville, Va., at 143. Oliver had rounds of 73-70, Smith 70-73.

Snead, who took Locke's dust most of the way through an exhibition tour of South America last winter, provided a popular comeback with his 70 today.

A total of 75 players qualified for tomorrow's final 36 holes, representing the low 60 scorers and ties. All who shot 151 for the first 36 holes scratched through.

How Mid-Atlantic Area Golfers Scored

Lew Worsham, of Washington, leads the Mid-Atlantic area golfers at the end of 36 holes in the National Open with 70-70-140. Three strokes behind is Alfred L. Smith of Danville, Va., who came in with 70-73-143. Otto Greiner of Baltimore, yesterday's Mid-Atlantic leader, has 69-77-146 and George Payton, of Hampton, Va. has 71-75-146. John J. O'Donnell, of Norfolk scored a 74-74-148; Chandler Harper, of Portsmouth, Va., stands 71-80-151; Walter Romans, Baltimore, has 73-83-156; Buck Worsham, of Bethesda, Md., shot 81-81-162; and Charles Bassler, of Chevy Chase finished with 85-79-164.

Perlman Tells Senate Committee Its Questioning Is Unfair; Charges Perjury

By Fred Zusy
Associated Press Reporter

Philip B. Perlman, Baltimore, Md., attorney nominated to be Solicitor-General, said yesterday his cross-examination by a Senate subcommittee was "unfair" and there was an "aggressively antagonistic attitude toward me."

Perlman, 57, Democrat, told the Senate Judiciary Subcommittee headed by Senator Ferguson (R., Mich.) that "I have not been allowed to make a full and complete statement in answer to statements I know are untrue and constitute really perjury."

He spoke after Ferguson told him he had "not complied" with Maryland law in appearing for the Baltimore Transit Co. before a State legislative committee without registering as a legislative counsel for the utility.

Brings Income-Tax Returns

Senator Donnell (R., Mo.) was the other member of the committee cross-examining Perlman yesterday. Senator McGrath (D., R. I.), former Solicitor General until he resigned before his election last fall, is the only Democrat on the subcommittee. He was not present yesterday.

Hearings on Perlman's nomination in January by the President started a month ago. An open hearing yesterday afternoon was preceded in the morning by an executive session.

Perlman said he had "been asked yesterday to bring over all my income tax returns" for the closed meeting and said he had done so and was willing "to do anything you want."

His statement concerning the conduct of the hearings came after Ferguson had referred to a letter by the chief judge of the Maryland Court of Appeals "to at least one member of this subcommittee protesting the committee's cross-examination" of Perlman and several Maryland judges who appeared before the committee indorsing the nomination.

"Do you agree with that letter?" Ferguson asked.

Perlman replied "Yes, sir."

After pointing out that none of the judges had presented prepared statements to the committee as required under congressional reorganization laws, Ferguson asked "Do you believe your cross-examination has been unfair?"

"I know it has," Perlman said.

"And if you were Solicitor General you wouldn't conduct such examination?" Donnell asked.

"That is exactly true," Perlman said. "I don't know what the subcommittee has attempted to do."

Donnell said "I perceived no discourtesy extended to you, Mr. Perlman. There can be no objection to any question pertaining to the qualifications of a nominee."

Perlman replied: "Senator, I'm glad to answer any questions on any subject relevant to my qualifications. I do want to say that from the beginning of my hearings I have felt, and I'm sorry to have to say it, an aggressively antagonistic attitude toward me.

"Questions were asked of witnesses who came here to criticize my nomination—leading questions which would not be permitted in a court of law—questions most unfair, I felt as a lawyer . . .

"Interruptions made it impossible for me to get facts properly before the committee. I'm under oath and that's the way I feel about it."

Ferguson replied:

"The chair disagrees with you. Our job is to find the facts and they are difficult to get at . . . you're not going to change this committee one iota. We would not be performing our duty if we didn't inquire into all circumstances concerning a nominee to one of the highest offices in the land."

After Perlman asked for an opportunity to make "a full statement" to the subcommittee, Ferguson said he would be permitted to do so at another hearing today (9:30 a. m. EDT).

Earlier, Ferguson questioned Perlman about retainer fees of $6000 a year he received from 1938 to 1943 from the Automatic Voting Machine Co., which Perlman said installed voting machines in Baltimore City. He said the company was located at Jamestown, N. Y.

Perlman said he had been paid fees for consultation on legal matters "in connection with the operation and installation" of the machines.

Ferguson asked Perlman why he had not registered as counsel for the Baltimore Transit Co., which he represented last March before legislative committee meetings. Perlman testified at a previous hearing the utility paid him $15,000 annually as a retainer fee. He said yesterday that as of June 1, he still received payments from the company.

Perlman replied that he received a written opinion Thursday from Hall Hammond, Maryland attorney general, informing him he was not required to register. He said he had requested the opinion from Hammond Wednesday.

Letter "Unusual"—Ferguson

Hammond's letter, introduced as an exhibit, said, "It is my opinion that the act no more applies to your appearing before the General Assembly in 1947 than it applies to the president or other officer of a corporation who might decide to appear before a legislative committee."

Ferguson said Perlman had "registered as a lobbyist" for the other companies at the 1927 Legislature and asked, "You have no objection, do you, to the use of the term, lobbyist?".

Perlman answered, "That term is not recognized by our law. I have a lot of objections to the way the term has been used in these hearings concerning me."

Ferguson termed Hammond's letter "an unusual thing for an attorney general to give an opinion to an individual on whether he's committed a crime."

Restaurants Here Absorb Beef, Lamb Price Rises

Operators Count On Early Drop In Meat Costs, Spot Check Finds

Restaurateurs in the greater Washington area said last night they are absorbing the latest increases in meat prices in the belief the rises are temporary.

They declared, however, that unless the prices they must pay for beef and lamb drop within the next 10 days to two weeks they will be forced to increase menu prices on meat dishes.

Beef and lamb prices jumped early this week an additional 4 to 10 cent sa pound on the retail market. Although Agriculture Department analysts termed it "mysterious," the price rise has been widely blamed on meat speculators gambling that export controls will be removed July 1.

A spot check of restaurants last night disclosed only one had found it necessary to change prices this week.

Owners of Cedar Knoll Inn, Mount Vernon Memorial Highway, Alexandria, said the establishment's regular $2.50 T-bone steak dinner was raised to $3 on Tuesday because or rising meat costs. The restaurant absorbed cost increases on all other meat dishes.

Evans Coffee Shop at 4770 Lee Highway, Arlington, reported no change this week in menu costs or portions served to customers. However, menu prices were recently revised upward to take care of rising costs before this week's new increase, its owners said.

A spokesman for Government Services, Inc., operators of 53 cafeterias for Federal workers here, said the organization was using meat substitutes "wherever meat prices are too costly." Menu prices, he said, are not being changed.

At Cannon's Steak House, 1270 5th st. ne., the manager reported the establishment was "taking a beating with these new prices."

"We can't raise our prices or the customrs won't come, and we can't give smaller portions or they won't come back," he declared. "I don't know how long we can keep this up."

Brook Farm Restaurant, 6501 Brookville rd., Chevy Chase, Md., was in the same position, its manager reported. He said that should the prices continue high the restaurant would consider revising their prices to customers "in a week or ten days."

Other restaurants in Prince Georges and Montgomery counties, Md., the District, and in Alexandria, Arlington County and Fairfax County, Va., reported the same troubles and the same reluctance to raise prices or cut down on portions.

All agreed the public preferred higher menu prices to smaller servings of meat. Virtually all said the high prices would not long continue.

Haven Reports 814 Girls Cared For in 5 Years

The Florence Crittenton Home, haven for unmarried mothers, has given care to 814 girls during the five-year administration of Mrs. Frederick M. Kerby, she announced yesterday on her retirement as president.

Mrs. Kerby's final report, given before the annual meeting, disclosed that 169 girls have been admitted and 158 children born between June of last year and June 1 this year.

The war period, she said, brought an increasing number of applications and more applicants were handled because the girls stayed at the home for shorter periods than before.

Elected to succeed Mrs. Kerby is Mrs. F. N. Stricklin. Others elected for the coming year: Mrs. R. H. Pledger, first vice president; Mrs. R. E. Freer, second vice president; Mrs. Gilbert Rude, recording secretary; Mrs. P. H. Groggins, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Lambert O'Donnell, treasurer; Mrs. E. H. Rietzke, assistant treasurer.

Board members named for three-year terms were: Mrs. Archie France, Mrs. Harry Osgood, Mrs. F. M. Kerby and Mrs. F. G. Mitchell.

Bandit Suspect, Detective Shot

drove up to the intersection as they had been doing constantly at intervals for the past few days. This time three men approached the car.

Two of the men, Thomas said, approached from Jefferson's side, the other on the driver's side, where Hunt was. Both detectives, Thomas said, grabbed for the men. The alleged bandits began shooting.

Both detectives fired back and their bullets may have wounded the men, the acting superintendent said. Hospitals in the area were alerted to watch for anyone applying for treatment of suspicious wounds.

All three bandits were armed at the time of the shooting at 11 p. m., Jefferson said.

Jefferson, who lives at 1300 Webster st. ne., was appointed to the police force July 1, 1938.

ALOOF RUSSIAN HOUNDS—Col. Frederick W. A. Jones-Davis, administrator of the Honeywell School Foundation, 7107 Bradley blvd., Bethesda, Md., greets Alexie and Dushka upon their return last night. The pedigreed Russian wolf hounds left home Sunday. "We had a garden party of about 40 people," explained Colonel Jones-Davis, "and Alexie and Dushka hate people." Whenever there's a party at the school, the dogs run away, but usually return the next day. This time, however, they got too far into Washington and Pound Master Frank Marks' men picked them up. Alexie and Dushka are not brother and sister, Colonel Jones-Davis said. "They are very much gentleman and fiancee," he emphasized in the accent they use in his home, Maidstone, Kent, England

District Youth, 16, Attacked In Chicago

A 16-year-old District youth, formerly an exercise boy at the Laurel, Md., race track, is in a Chicago hospital after being kidnaped, beaten and robbed, according to the account he gave police of that city.

The youth, Arthur Collier of 413 A st. se., who was found in a dazed condition on a streetcar Thursday, has been in Chicago about six weeks, The Post was told by his mother, Mrs. Evelyn Boutchyard.

Mrs. Boutchyard and young Collier's stepfather, Rudolph Boutchyard, left for Chicago yesterday to take care of the boy, who has been working at the Lincoln Fields track near Chicago. His mother was told he has a possible skull fracture and other serious injuries.

Police said he told them he was on his way to the Arlington race track to get a job as exercise boy when he was kidnaped in an automobile by four men, beaten and robbed of $14 and then hurled from the car.

Though police quoted him as saying he had "run away from home," Mrs. Boutchyard, who is a photostat operator for the Veterans Administration, said she and her husband knew he was going to Chicago. They had told him they didn't want him to go, she added, but he told them he was going anyway. He has not written his family since he left, she said.

Collier worked about two months for J. E. Crider, race horse owner, at the Laurel track, Boutchyard said. He had attended Lenox elementary school here for two years before that, said Mrs. Boutchyard, but she obtained a work permit for him when he couldn't get along with his teachers, she said.

His father is employed at the Dahlgren Proving Ground, Dahlgren, Va. Boutchyard is a guard at the main postoffice here.

Murray and Taft Views to Be Aired

CIO President Philip Murray and Senator Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio) will give opposing views on the Taft-Hartley labor bill in two broadcasts this weekend on WINX and WINX—FM.

Murray's talk will be a rebroadcast at 10:05 tonight of an address he made before a CIO rally in New York last Tuesday. Taft's speech will be a rebroadcast at 8:15 p. m. tomorrow of a talk he made last Wednesday over WQXR in New York City.

Has Dizzy Spell

Man in River Rescued by Motorist

A 56-year-old man who apparently suffered a dizzy spell and toppled into the Anacostia River was pulled from the water yesterday by a motorist who just happened by.

The man, Raymond Gibson, 220 9th st. ne., was taken to Casualty Hospital where last night he was reported in an undetermined condition.

According to police, Gibson was fishing from the seawall near the 11th st. se. bridge about 1.05 p. m., when he fell into the water.

Morris Singer, 34, of 508 Nicholson st. nw., a drug and cosmetic salesman, saw Gibson thrashing about as he drove by.

Singer was reported to have told police that Gibson drifted 25 feet to a break in the seawall and that he just reached over and dragged him out.

Fire Rescue Squad No. 1 was summoned, applied artificial respiration and took him to the hospital.

D. C. Counsel's Slap at Friede Is Disclosed

Former Fire Alarm Superintendent Herbert A. Friede appeared to show "a lack of judgment in delegating to the Gamewell Co. the complete drafting of the specifications for District fire alarm boxes.

This was an opinion voiced by Corporation Counsel Vernon E. West in a January 6 report to the Commissioners, made public for the first time yesterday.

"But in the absence of an answer to the technical engineering problem here presented, I am unable to advise as to the action, if any, to be taken against Mr. Friede," West reported.

West made the report after studying Gamewell Co. correspondence, now in Justice Department files, which alleges that Friede aided the company in landing a fire-alarm equipment contract here.

The Gamewell Co. is now awaiting trial in Boston on charges of monopolistic practices which led to high and unreasonable prices for fire-alarm boxes sold to the District and other cities.

"There is no indication in the file that Mr. Friede benefited personally by his actions," West told the Commissioners.

Two Washington Youths Take Oath as Midshipmen Today

Two District youths will be sworn in as midshipmen at the States Naval Academy at Annapolis today at 11 a. m.

The potential plebes are Donald A. Richitt, 19, son of Lieut. Anthony Richitt of the Third Precinct Police and Mrs. Richitt, and John T. Berrier, 19, son of Theodore Berrier, assistant vice president of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co.

The boys, both nominated by the District Commissioners, took physical examinations earlier this week and already sport regulation haircuts.

Berrier, who lives at 2540 Massachusetts ave. nw., is a graduate of the Fishburne School in Waynesboro, Va., and Bullis Prep School at Silver Spring. He played fullback on the Bullis football team and guard on the basketball team.

Richitt

Berrier

Richitt, who lives at 512 Somerset pl. nw., is a graduate of St. John's High School and the Bullis Prep School. He played on the Bullis football team and won several medals for swimming. During the past four summers he has been a lifeguard at the Takoma Park pool.

U. S. Payment To Arlington Is Favored

Arlington's County Board unanimously favors action to reimburse the county for tax losses due to Federal land holdings there.

Informally checked yesterday, all five members said they favored a board resolution urging Congress to act on county losses.

While admitting the need for immediate action, some board members disagreed on a suitable method of determining payment.

Harry Cuppett favored a lump-sum payment, similar to the eight million dollars the District of Columbia received for the 1947 fiscal year.

Daniel A. Dugan preferred "specific payments of taxes in stipulated amounts for each $100 of assessed valuation, rather than lump sum appropriations which can become political footballs in Congress."

Members Leo Lloyd, F. Freeland Chew, and board chairman Basil DeLashmutt felt the method of payment should be determined by further study.

The tax loss ball was kicked off this week by Harry K. Green, Arlington commissioner of revenue, who warned that the county loses nearly four million dollars in taxes annually from all Federal property there.

He estimated at that time that the real estate now held by the Federal Government in Arlington "is in the value of $302,504,240."

Three Virginia members of Congress, Senator A. Willis Robertson, Senator Harry Byrd and Representative Howard W. Smith all have learned that "something should be done about nontaxable property in Arlington."

Pepco Electric Bill Refunds Boost Hospital Building Fund

Refunds of electric bills paid months ago began boosting the building fund for a new Children's Hospital yesterday.

Still short of its $1,300,000 goal by at least $80,000 despite a prolonged campaign, the drive took on new life with the electric rate refunds.

Indorsed by John A. Reilly, president of the Washington Board of Trade, and Everett J. Boothby, president of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association, the plan was quickly accepted by the public.

At least 50 coupon authorizations for refund donations to the hospital were received yesterday—first day the plan was in operation.

Private consumers are due a total of $690,616 in refunds, representing 10 cents per month over a three-year period.

Under the plan, Potomac Electric Power Co. consumers who are entitled to refunds up to $3.60 have been asked to donate the money to the hospital fund.

A coupon of authorization for the donation appears in today's Post. Properly filled in, the coupons may be sent to the electric company or to Room 200 of The Post.

Under the refund procedure to consumers, there is no cash transaction—the money merely will be deducted from bills consumers receive in July and August.

With the donation plan, conceived by Frank Lyon, 79-year-old attorney and builder, the company will turn refunds over to hospital authorities and mail cards acknowledging receipt.

Realization of the goal will see construction of a new, fireproof building to replace the 75-year-old structure on W st. between 12th and 13th sts. nw.

Potomac Electric Power Company
929 E Street, N. W.
Washington 4, D. C.

The undersigned customer requests the Potomac Electric Power Company to pay to The Children's Hospital, Washington, D. C., the amount of refunds to which he may be entitled for the period from March 1, 1944, through February 28, 1947, as a result of orders issued by the Public Utilities Commission of the District of Columbia with respect to charges for electric service for that period.

Rep. O'Hara Says He Had No Hearing

Author of D. C. Income Tax Plan Lodges Protest With Committee

Representative Joseph P. O'Hara (R., Minn.) yesterday protested failure of the Senate District Committee to give him a hearing on his plan to keep the District from collecting income taxes from Federal employes with a legal domicile in a State.

Senate Fiscal Affairs Chairman Harry P. Cain (R., Wash.) conferred with O'Hara on the Senate floor. He explained he had received no word that O'Hara wanted to be heard before the Senate committee approved the new Washington revenue bill Thursday.

The committee dropped O'Hara's formula from the revenue bill. The House had written O'Hara's plan into the measure.

Senator Cain is slated early next week to ask Senate approval of the bill, minus O'Hara's plan.

Cain's revenue bill would not exempt Federal employes from the local income tax. It would make all who live in the District seven months or more in the year file income tax returns here. Those who paid no income or intangible property tax to a State would pay the District income tax.

Amounts which had to be paid to a State would be deducted from the local income tax.

O'Hara said it was likely a move might be made in the Senate to put his formula back in the bill. If such a move fails, the dispute would be sent to a conference after Senate passage of the revenue bill.

Dead Naval Hero Stirs Up New Battle

John Paul Jones, who's been dead some 150 years now, kicked up another battle yesterday.

The naval hero won the spotlight at a meeting in the Board of Trade rooms, called to draft plans for "America's Cavalcade of Freedom." It's due here July 4 at the Monument Grounds.

A minor verbal fracas occurred when C. Melvin Sharpe, chairman of the "fireworks' committee" for the celebration, challenged the choice of Jones as one of the heroes of the forthcoming fiesta.

Among other things, he mentioned Jones' affiliation with the Russian navy, in which he served as an admiral.

That was in 1788.

Navy Comdr. R. H. McIlwaine immediately sprang to Jones' defense. He informed Sharpe that this same Russian admiral was one of America's "greatest heroes."

Jones, it turns out, was loaned to the Imperial Russian government on advice of Thomas Jefferson, to teach the Russians what he knew about seamanship and navigation. Impressed, Catherine the Great made him an admiral.

Incidents from J. P. J.'s life will be dramatized at the celebration, which falls two days before the 200th anniversary of his birth.

'Thin Man' on Program

Final showings of the season's series of film classics will be held at 8:15 p. m. today and tomorrow at Community Education, Inc., 935 G st. nw. The film is the original version of "The Thin Man," with William Powell and Myrna Loy.

Friday the 13th Spells Injury To Mother, Luck to Daughter

THEIR LUCKY DAY—Mrs. Neva Butts, 23, of 1336 Harvard st. nw., and her daughter, Janice, 4, both of whom escaped possible death or serious injury, sit in police car which sped them to Emergency Hospital after they were struck by auto yesterday

Friday the Thirteenth it was—and some Washingtonians, even if they weren't superstitious, probably will be hereafter.

There was, for example, pretty Mrs. Neva Butts, 23, of 1336 Harvard st. nw., crossing at 7th and E sts. nw. with her 4-year-old daughter, Janice.

An automobile, driven by Jerry B. Hanson, 34, of Roxbury, Mass., turning left into E st., struck the mother, dragging her several feet, bruising her right shoulder.

The car passed completely over the daughter who suffered nary a scratch. The daughter fell directly between the auto wheels.

The mother was treated at Emergency Hospital.

And there was William Correll, 30, of 1009 23d st. nw., riding his motorcycle ice-cream cart at 14th st. and Constitution ave. nw.

Bang went a tire—and Correll landed on the pavement smack on top of his head. He was treated at Emergency Hospital for scalp lacerations.

Most unlucky, however, was 4-year-old Robert Stea, 330 Ridge rd. se., skipping rope about 10 a. m. in front of 329 C st. se., where his mother, Mrs. Margaret Stea, was visiting.

He was struck by a car, and at Providence Hospital he was found suffering from possible skull fracture and cerebral concussion in addition to abrasions and lacerations on the face and arms.

Police said the car was driven by David W. Locklin, 37, of 3511 South Four-Mile Run drive, Arlington. Locklin was charged at Fifth Precinct Station with operating a car in unsafe mechanical condition and released under a $500 bond.

Friday the Thirteenth good-luck hope, however, soared at 11:30 a. m. when a report spread that a white horse was grazing on the Wardman Park Hotel lawn. Hopes exploded, however, when the animal turned out to be brown.

It was a horse owned by Edgewater Riding Academy, 2514 G st. nw.

Francis Hannon, one of the owners of the academy, said the rider hobbled back to the stables on foot. The rider, Hannon said, insisted he had tied the horse to a bush while he, the rider, relaxed. The horse wandered off.

It was even Friday the Thirteenth for lampposts and windows. One lamppole 49 feet south of the intersection of Kentucky ave. and E. Capitol st. se. was knocked down by a backing truck. Witnesses said the driver drove off—and fast—before police arrived.

Another truck, turning into an alley, smashed a first-floor warehouse window at 1741 Johnson ave. nw. The truck, police said, was being driven by John T. Washington, 57, of 1902 16th st. nw.

Another unlucky Friday the Thirteenth victim was James Harris, 53, of Kensington, Md.

Police said Harris, a pedestrian, walked into the side of a car, being driven by Luther R. Walker, 39, of 2012 14th st. nw., at 7th st. and Florida ave. nw. Harris was treated at Freedmen's Hospital, then arrested on a jaywalking charge.

Woman Legal Aide Retires After 35 Years

A woman international lawyer, who came to the State Department on a 30-day temporary basis and stayed 35 years, retired yesterday.

Miss O'Neill

She is Anna O'Neill, of 1326 New Hampshire ave. nw., who worked her way up from clerk to assistant to the legal advisor of the State Department.

A native of Washington and graduate of the Washington College of Law, Miss O'Neill holds the distinction of being the first woman appointed to a professional position in the Government service.

She climbed from clerk to law clerk to assistant solicitor to assistant to the Undersecretary of State to her present position as assistant to the legal advisor.

What does she think about her success? She says: "I'm just an old maid of 57 who's going to live a plain, ordinary life as a housekeeper and to the movies once in a while."

Falls Church Council Backs Plan for Park

The Falls Church Town Council last night gave its backing to proposals for a Falls Church town park.

The Falls Church Park and Planning Committee has proposed the purchase of a 14-acre tract on Tripps Run near the center of town for the park.

The council, at a special meeting at the Town Hall, voted to institute condemnation proceedings against the tract if, after the Park and Planning Commission raises sufficient money for the purchase, the land cannot be bought at a fair price.

The council also voted the Park and Planning Committee $300 for promotional purposes.

Georgetown Policeman Fined; Two Others Granted Delays

One Georgetown precinct policeman was fined $100 and restored to full duty by the Police Trial Board yesterday for admittedly drinking while on duty.

Trial Board hearings against two other patrolmen of the same precinct were postponed until July 18. Charges against the two stemmed from complaints of a Georgetown University student that he was arrested and beaten without cause.

Fined was Pvt. Loyd E. Gatlin of 507 Timber la., Falls Church, Va. Inspector Lloyd Kelly testified he found Gatlin "in an intoxicated condition" last Saturday when he questioned him on court censure of the policeman's arrest of another Georgetown University student.

The questioning followed rebuke of Gatlin by Municipal Court Judge Walter J. Casey for the policeman's failure to arrest "the principal offender" in a Georgetown taproom fracas.

Continuance of the Trial Board hearings of multiple charges against Pvts. James A. Stewart, jr., 35, and Warren L. Garrett, 32, was ordered after their attorney asked more time to prepare their cases. The two were suspended after initial investigation of charges made by Daniel J. Fitzpatrick, 22, a junior at the university's foreign service school.

Fitzpatrick claims that Private Stewart arrested him and blackjacked him without provocation on June 4 while Private Garrett looked on. He also claimed he had been falsely arrested by Stewart several days previously.

The student has since been exonerated in police court of drunkenness and fined $5 for disorderly conduct on the first arrest, and was exonerated of any misconduct in the second. Imposition of the fine was suspended pending the student's appeal.

DrunkDriver Fined $500; Sentenced to Six Months

Judge Neilson Says Ralph Davie 'Got Off Too Easy' Three Other Times

A motorist, with a record of three previous convictions for drunken driving, yesterday was handed a maximum sentence of $500 fine and six months imprisonment, by Municipal Court Judge George D. Neilson. Imposition of a maximum sentence had been urged by Prosecutor Richard Barton.

In sentencing the motorist, Ralph W. Davie, 55, of 1217 M st. ne., Judge Neilson criticized the fact that sentences for Davie's past three offenses had grown progressively lighter.

"You have been convicted of one of the most serious—most reprehensible crimes," the jurist declared. "This type of charge should carry the maximum sentence. You have gotten off easy in the past." Neilson also sentenced Davie to $500 or 360 days for driving with a revoked permit.

Court records show that in 1942, drunken driving charges against Davie had been dismissed by Judge Walter J. Casey for lack of prosecution.

In 1943 Judge Armond Scott sentenced him to $100 or 60 days for drunken driving; in 1944 Judge Ellen K. Raedy sentenced him to $75 or 60 days for the same offense and last year Judge Aubrey Fennell passed sentence of $50 or 60 days.

Davie was arrested on April 14 at 17th and M sts. ne., after a policeman had paced him at 42 miles an hour. The officer said that Davie almost fell when he left the car.

Judge Criticized For Rebuke to Jury

Senator William Langer (R., N. Dak.), yesterday criticized Judge Neilson's blast at a jury for acquitting a motorist on a negligent homicide charge Thursday.

After inserting The Washington Post story of the court action into the Congressional Record, Langer said: "I know this judge personally. He is a very fine man, but apparently is coming to the general view that seems to be coming into acceptance all over the country that a judge can tell a jury how to decide a case. If this persists, sooner or later Congress will have to take action to prevent it.

Flag Tributes Scheduled in Area Today

Today hundreds of American flags—and a sprinkling of the United Nations honor flag—will fly throughout the Greater Washington area as the 171st anniversary of the adoption of Old Glory is commemorated.

In addition, several groups will hold patriotic services.

The main observance will be at the Sylvan Theater on the Washington Monument grounds at 7:30 p. m. under sponsorship of Washington Lodge No. 15 of the Elks. Representative Bertrand W. Gearhart (R., Calif.), past exalted ruler of the Fresno (Calif.) Elks Lodge, will speak.

Officials of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard have been invited to attend, in addition to the four Western High School students who left an assembly program which they considered pro-Russian. They are Virginia Lanham, Virginia Maracle, Ruth Piggott and Richard Smith.

A parade of veterans, civic and service groups will precede the program, starting at Constitution ave. and 7th st. nw., at 7 p. m. and marching along Constitution ave. to the Monument.

The United Nations flag, symbolizing the unity of democracies, republics and monarchies on the four freedoms, will be raised at a ceremony at Griffith Stadium at 2:45 p. m., just before the baseball game.

Brooks Harding, who designed the flag in 1942, said it would continue to be displayed with the Stars and Stripes throughout the baseball season. Many public and commercial buildings will show the flag in the downtown district, as well, he said.

The Women's Relief Corps, auxiliary to the Grand Army of the Republic, will hold its fifty-fourth annual Flag Day exercises on the east steps of the Capitol at 7 p. m. Col. Burton Andrus of the Military District of Washington will speak after an introduction by Ludwig E. Manoly, commander of the Sons of Union Veterans.

Silver Spring's second annual Flag Day ceremonies will be conducted by the Silver Spring Elks Lodge at 2:30 p. m. on the grounds in the rear of the Silver Spring Armory, Pershing dr. and Fenton st.

Speakers will include Brig. Gen. E. H. Alexander, chief of training of the Army Air Forces; Representative J. Glenn Beall (R., Md.) and Admiral Adolphus Staton, USN, retired. Donald Staley and Andrew Kessinger, past exalted rulers, will introduce the speakers.

A parade will be held from the B. & O. Railroad Station, along Georgia ave., Colesville rd. and Fenton st., starting at 1:30 p. m.

Court Holds Hot Coffee In Pot Deadly Weapon

Hot coffee can be a deadly weapon—especially when it is not removed from the pot and the whole works thrown at somebody, Judge Aubrey Fennell ruled in the District Municipal Court yesterday.

Judge Fennell held Alban F. Henderson, Wilmington, Del., in $500 bond for the grand jury on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon after it was testified the latter had hurled a pot of coffee at a fellow waiter aboard the SS Mount Vernon last Sunday.

Police said Henderson hurled it all at Leon E. Daniels, also of Wilmington, when the latter refused to put molasses on the table for breakfast.

Whisky Thief Sought

District police and railroad detectives are looking for "One-Shot Harry," a man who likes his whisky in miniature bottles. The culprit is wanted for periodic raids on dining car liquor supplies from standing trains in the Eckington pl. ne. freight yards. He's also been known to take cigars and cigarettes.

Hotel Auditor Retires

Emile Oeschger, auditor of the Willard Hotel, retired yesterday after 25 years' service with the hotel. He was presented with a pigskin traveling case by Manager Douglas A. Stalker at a cocktail party given by members of the executive department of the hotel.

Oeschger, a Mason and member of the Board of Trade, will leave next week with his wife to his native Switzerland for three months' vacation. In the fall, they will return to America and make their home in California. He has been living at 5616 1st st. nw.

Man's Arm Fractured

An 18-year-old received a compound fracture of his left arm yesterday when he was caught in the mechanism of a power shovel on a construction job in Cheverly, Md.

The man, Charles A. Ellis, 436 10th st. ne., employe of Nickles Bros., Hyattsville construction firm, was oiling the shovel on a sewer laying job at 64th and Kilmer sts., when the accident occurred.

It Was Dad's Car All Right

Mrs. Cecilia Ostrow, 23, of 5611 14th st. nw., didn't scream when she saw a strange man driving her father's car early yesterday morning. But she certainly felt like it later when her dad, Theodore Phillips, custard shop proprietor, said he hadn't loaned it to anybody.

Mrs. Ostrow was in her own car, driving friends home from a late bridge party, when she spotted the familiar automobile as it was driven west on Madison st., nearby.

To Join White House Staff

First Lieut. Mary Marguerite Weiler of St. Ann's Village, St. Louis County, Mo., will join the White House staff soon after her discharge from the Army tomorrow. A veteran of 4½ years of service here and overseas, she has been secretary to Lieut. Gen. Ira C. Eaker, deputy commander of the Army Air Forces, most of that time. At the White House, she will be a secretary in the office of Clark M. Clifford, special counsel to President Truman.

Tokens Void Tomorrow

The last of the Capital Transit Co tokens, those sold on Maryland buses, will go out of use tomorrow. Paper tickets on strips of three for 25 cents will be substituted.

Passengers may get refunds, the company announced yesterday, by using special prepaid envelopes obtained from bus drivers.

Brownies Visit Jail

Eighteen small girls averaging about 10 years of age were admitted to the jail in the Hyattsville County Service Building yesterday afternoon.

The girls, members of Brownie Troop No. 31, of Hyattsville, were visiting under the direction of their leader, Mrs. Celia Robb, as a part of their study of the county administration. They toured the jail and court room under the supervision of Sergt. Roscoe C. Sines and were shown the fingerprint files by Officer Emmett F. G. Gray.

Conscience at Ease

James Wilson of 1440 W st. nw., a caretaker at St. Alban's School for Boys, said he sleeps with an easy conscience.

On Thursday, he found and promptly returned the handbag of Mrs. Ruth Bloeser of 224 Devens Hall, McLean Gardens, with cash and contents valued at $398. Mrs. Bloeser had reported her loss to police less than an hour before the finder called her. She said the pocketbook slipped out when she opened her car door while awaiting a traffic light change at Woodley rd. and Wisconsin ave.

Man Saved From Cave-in

A District laborer, buried to his neck in a ditch cave-in yesterday noon, fought against pain for an hour as rescuers worked to dig him out.

Jack Byrd, 33, of 41 M st. nw., employe of the Intercounty Construction Corp., Hyattsville, Md., was later admitted to Freedmen's Hospital with a possible hip fracture. He was working at the bottom of a 20-foot, half-shored sewer ditch when the unshored side caved in, at Garland and Central aves., Takoma Park, Md.

Woman Juror Fined $100

A woman juror in a District Court civil suit was fined $100 for contempt of court yesterday after she had been seen conversing with the plaintiff's attorney on the street.

Associate Justice Jennings Bailey in pronouncing sentence censured the woman, Mrs. Lucy R. Dickerson, 920 N st. nw., for "interfering with justice" and causing a mistrial in the case May 14. Mrs. Dickerson said she had only asked the attorney, Edmund Hill, for his calling card. She said she wanted his services in a pending case.

2 Held in Rabbit Theft

Alexandria police are holding two men for investigation in the theft of a king-size rabbit from K. B. Williams' back yard at 114 N. Payne st.

When Williams reported the theft of his 15-pound White Flemish Giant rabbit, detectives got right to work and picked up two men with rabbit hairs on their clothes. The rabbit was still missing at last report.

Police Sue Godwin, ABC

Earl Godwin, radio commentator, and the American Broadcasting Co., 724 14th st. nw., yesterday were named as defendants in a damage suit asking $100,000 for "slander and libel."

The suit, filed by Attorney Milton Kaplan for two Metropolitan policemen, took exception to remarks alleged to have been made in a broadcast by Godwin concerning the acquittal of the policemen by a Police Trial Board last April.

The policemen, George E. Chappelle, 1236 Raum st. ne., and William D. DeGrott, of 5900 2d pl. nw., had been cleared of charges of brutality against Howard Maxwell, postal employe, arrested for drunkenness and disorderly conduct.

3 Escapees Recaptured

Three convicts who escaped from a road gang in Fairfax County yesterday were recaptured within three hours in nearby Arlington, police reported. They made their escape, police said, by running toward a group of children to prevent armed guards from firing at them.

80 Pupils Start Vacation

Eighty pupils of the Cynthia Warner School at 1500 Carroll ave., Takoma Park, Md., yesterday held closing day ceremonies at the school. Mrs. Warner congratulated the nursery-to-sixth grade pupils on their good work during the past year.

Gun Toters Get 6 Months

Two Fairfax County men were given six months' prison sentences yesterday by Fairfax County Police Court Judge Harry Carrico for carrying concealed weapons. They were Earnest D. Washington, 34, and Gaddis M. Harris, 19.

Carrico said that this was the severest sentence that he could impose under the law and that he intends to impose it in every such case coming before his court.

Quantico Land Suit

A suit for possession of land plus $50,000 in damages was filed in the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Virginia yesterday against Marine Gen. Clifton B. Cates, commandant of the Marine base at Quantico, Va.

Plaintiff in the suit was H. B. Gilliam, receiver of the Quantico Co., who charged that the Government is still using land in Quantico owned by the company although the lease expired last year.

Barcroft Permits Given

Building permits were issued yesterday for four new apartment buildings in Arlington's Barcroft development.

The four two-story units will cost an estimated $1,700,000 and offer a total of 207 new family dwelling units. Three of the structures will be located in the 1200 block of S. Taylor st., the fourth in the 1200 block S. George Mason dr.

Police Attacker Fined

William Appel, 23, of 4417 River rd. nw., was fined $52.50 for disorderly conduct and given a one year suspended sentence in Bethesda Police Court yesterday for assaulting a police officer.

Police said Appel was arrested on June 12 in the bus terminal at Wisconsin and Western avenues for being disorderly. Taken to the police station, they said, he struck Pvt. John Duvall.

Would Extend Suit Rights

The right to sue a person after his death would be written into District law under a Senate bill introduced yesterday by Senator Spessard L. Holland (D., Fla.).

Senate District Committee Counsel James R. Kirkland explained suits against an individual now die with him except suits for personal injuries. He said the bill would extent the right to sue in contract cases and others.

Lions Show Tomorrow

Would you like a new 1947 Ford? They're giving one away at third annual horse show of the Hyattsville Lions Club tomorrow at Lewisdale subdivision, Riggs and Ager rds., at 11 a. m. Proceeds of the show are to be used to further the Lions' program of sight conservation and aid to the blind.

Death Held Natural

Dr. John A. Sims, Alexandria coroner, yesterday issued a certificate of natural causes in the death of Benjamin E. Matthews, 59, who was found dead at his home, 2005 Mount Vernon ave. on Thursday. Matthews was found dead in his bedroom when his son went to call him to dinner.

Nurse Asks Court to Confirm Title to $1000 That She Found

Richitt

Who can keep the money?

Pretty Nurse Ellen Ronman is going to quote the ancient "finders keepers" law in Municipal Court June 19 and try to make it stick.

Miss Ronman found $1000 at Emergency Hospital the night of December 1, 1946—or at least she was a co-finder.

The court is going to be asked to determine can Miss Ronman have the $1000 or does the police property clerk turn it over the the collector of taxes.

Lieut. Anthony Richitt, of the Third Precinct, dropped in the hospital on the fateful night and was helping Miss Ronman look for a filing card. They both spied a manila envelope and pounced on it at the same time. Richitt won.

Examination disclosed it contained 45 $20 bills and one $100 bill. Miss Ronman wanted immediate possession to find the owner. Richitt said the money would be safer, until claimed, with the police property clerk. He won again.

The law says the property clerk should keep such things six months if found by a policeman, and unclaimed, the money must be turned over to the collector of taxes. Two detectives assigned to the case questioned hospital employes and patients, past and present, to no avail.

Miss Ronman tired of waiting. Through an attorney, she filed claim for the money June 3. The case comes to court June 19.

4-H Workers On Fulltime Basis Urged

A full-time 4-H Club worker in every county in the United States.

That goal was set yesterday by America's new No. 1 4-H Club leader.

Hoefer

He is Albert Hoefer, a 56-year-old Upstate New Yorker, who has made 4-H clubbing a life vocation.

He was picked yesterday at the seventeenth annual 4-H Club National Encampment at Arlington Farms as new chairman of the Land Grant College Association's subcommittee on 4-H Club work.

He and the eight other subcommitee members will shape the policies and make recommendations which guide 4-H Club work in all 48 States and outlying territories during the coming year.

"The work," he told a Post reporter following his election, "is fundamental to the future of our agriculture. It affords untold possibilities."

Yet, he declared, in many counties in many States, 4-H Club work is directed by agricultural agents or home demonstration agents in their spare time or at odd times during the week.

"The work really is a specialized type of education, supplementing the school," he said. "It should be treated as such."

On-Job Training Urged

Besides full-time 4-H Club directors, the quiet-speaking New Yorker urged the directors be specialists and that those already employed be given on-the-job training to keep them up-to-date.

He has had 30 years of active 4-H Club leadership, the past four as New York State 4-H Club leader. He is with the Cornell University Agricultural Extension Service. He succeeds W. A. Sutton of Athens, Ga., the Georgia State 4-H Club leader.

The 184 boys and girls and 83 State leaders attending the annual encampment toured the Capitol Building yesterday, sitting in on sessions of the Senate and House Agricultural Committees. They also visited the Supreme Court Building.

The leaders' election was held during a conference yesterday afternoon. Miss Florence Howard of Morgantown, W. Va., the West Virginia State Girls' Club agent, was elected to the subcommittee as Eastern States' representative, and C. G. Staver of Fort Collins, Colo., Colorado club director, was elected as Western States' representative.

Others on Committee

Others making up the subcommittee are: W. A. Sutton, the retiring chairman; A. E. Bowman, Wyoming State director of extension; Elmina White, Washington State assistant director of extension; Alice Carlson, Oklahoma assistant State club leader; A. G. Kettunen, Michigan State club leader; Fern Shipley, assistant Utah State club leader, and R. A. Turner of the United States Department of Agriculture Extension Service.

The youths attending the encampment will discuss international affairs at today's conference sessions with sightseeing scheduled for the afternoon. Tomorrow they will attend historic Christ Church in Alexandria, and they will place a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier during the afternoon.

Ceremony Honors Dead Veterans of War With Spain

Men who did "Remember the Maine" were remembered last night at a joint memorial service of the United Spanish War Veterans and Auxiliaries, District Department.

About 200 persons gathered in the Department of Commerce to pay tribute to members who died during the past year. The ceremony marked the thirty-fifth annual convention.

Representative Chester H. Gross (R., Pa.) paid tribute to the dead of all wars. Mrs. Beulah M. Cope, department auxiliary commander, and Charles H. Appich, department commander, also spoke.

A business session will begin at 2 p. m. today at the Northeast Masonic Temple, 8th and F sts. ne.

Mrs. Seibold Rites Slated For Monday

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Monday at Hines funeral home, 2901 14th st. nw., for Mrs. Grace Darling Seibold, 78, organizer and first national president of the American Gold Star Mothers.

Mrs. Seibold, wife of George G. Seibold, died at 3 p. m. Thursday at her home, 756 Rock Creek Church rd. nw., following an illness of more than two years. Burial will take place in Rock Creek Cemetery.

Mrs. Seibold requested, a short time before her death, that money her friends might spend on flowers be contributed to the American Cancer Society.

Father Was General

Her father, Gen. Edward Washburn Whitaker, was chief of staff to Gen. George A. Custer during the Civil War. General Whitaker is said to have arranged the conferences between Gen. Robert E. Lee and Gen. U. S. Grant which resulted in the Southern surrender.

She organized the Gold Star Mothers after World War I. Her son, First Lieut. George V. Seibold, an aviator, was killed in France. The Washington chapter, of the Gold Star Mothers is named in her honor.

She was a member of Calvary Baptist Church, 8th and H sts. nw.; of the North Star Union, Women's Christian Temperance Union, the American Legion Auxiliary, the Daughters of the American Revolution, and the Ladies Auxiliary of the International Typographical Union.

Native of Hartford

Her husband was secretary of the Columbia Typographical Union here between 1904 and 1926. A native of Hartford, Conn., she was brought to Washington by her family at the age of 2.

Besides her husband, she leaves a daughter, Mrs. William G. Nelson, jr., of Roanoke; a son, Louis Edward Seibold of Washington; a sister, Mrs. Charles T. Chapline of Washington, and two granddaughters.

Colonel Mapes Funeral Rites Slated Today

Funeral services for Lieut. Col. Douglas S. Mapes, 46, Army headquarters commandant at the Pentagon, who died aboard his cabin cruiser near Rainswood, Va., Thursday, will be held at 10:30 a. m. today at Fort Myer Chapel. Burial will be in Arlington Cemetery.

At the time of his death, Colonel Mapes was on vacation with his family.

A member of the Army Reserve Corps since 1923, Colonel Mapes had been called to active duty in 1940. He served 44 months in the southwest Pacific and Japan during World War II, participating in the East Indies, Papuan, New Guinea, south Philippines, and Luzon campaigns.

He was decorated with the Legion of Merit, Bronze Star, Army Commendation Ribbon, and the Presidential Unit Citation.

He advanced through the commissioned ranks to the grade of lieutenant colonel in 1943. In 1946 he was assigned as executive officer to Army headquarters commandant at the Pentagon, taking over as commandant in February of this year.

He was on active duty from 1933 until 1938, then was employed by the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Co.

Born in New York City, Colonel Mapes attended New York schools and the Peddie Institute in New Jersey. He has lived in the Washington area since 1946, with residence at 3573 Martha Custis dr., Alexandria.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Cathleen Mapes; two daughters, Rosemary, 11, and Heather, 7; and a brother, John Mapes, of San Francisco.

Fairlington Flier Dies in Plane Crash

A 28-year-old Fairlington, Va., airplane pilot was reported killed yesterday when a small plane he was ferrying crashed in the mountainous Horse Creek area, 35 miles northwest of Cheyenne, Wyo.

Roberts

The victim was identified by Civil Aeronautics Administration officials in Cheyenne as Robert H. Roberts of 3460-A S. Utah st., Fairlington. Son of a well-known Alexandria, Va., family, he was a major in the Army Air Forces during the war.

Roberts was reported ferrying the plane from Wichita, Kans., to Vancouver, Wash., for the American Flyaway Service of Dayton, Ohio, when he crashed. He was separated from Army service about a year ago.

He leaves his wife, Shirli, and two small sons, Bruce, 4½, and Edmund, 3, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Hunt Roberts, of Wilton Woods, Alexandria. The family said his wife is expecting a third child in September.

A native of Alexandria, Roberts entered the Army in 1942 and served as operations officer at Waycross, Ga., before going overseas. He flew on missions over the New Guinea and New Zealand area and was credited with dropping supplies to the "Shangri-La" haven of survivors of an Army transport crash, in Hidden Valley, New Guinea, in May, 1945.

Wac Corporal Margaret Hastings, one of the five survivors of the transport's 24 passengers and crew, wrote "Shangri-La Diary" out of her experiences.

Edmund Roberts, brother of yesterday's crash victim, was shot down and killed in military service of Wotje Island in December, 1943.

Plans Ready To Attack Jap Beetles

Greater Washington officials are making intensive preparations to make life miserable for the annual arrival of Japanese beetles.

In Montgomery County, the county, State and Federal governments have chipped in $2500 each to finance the spraying of every right of way in the county starting Monday. Tree foliage and shrubbery along the route will be doused with a one quarter of 1 per cent DDT solution.

Plans in Fairfax

County Agent O. W. Anderson said this should leave the suburban areas "virtually free" of mosquitoes, flies and ticks, as well as the beetles. He said the spray had a high penetration quality, reaching a depth of 100 to 300 feet from the roads, depending on wind conditions.

In Fairfax County, a commercial firm from Washington, will begin spraying operations on both ends of the county next week, working toward the center area, Joseph Beard, county agent, said yesterday. In addition, O. V. Carper of McLean will put his spray outfit into action there.

Plans for beetle warfare are incomplete in Prince Georges County, but P. E. Clark, agent, said high school boys will begin placing beetle traps at points of infestation within the next two weeks.

Similar action will be taken in Loudoun County, J. R. Lintner, agent, said yesterday.

Arlington Forest Hires Firm

In Arlington County, no official action has been taken, but individuals and community groups have already taken precautionary measures. Arlington Forest, after raising sufficient funds, hired a commercial firm to spread the "milky disease," which kills infant beetles, throughout the area.

He'd Like 'Em Better Than Costly Gift

Give Father 'Four Freedoms' of Home

By Peggy Preston

THIS is a list of Father's Day suggestions. Maybe you won't like it—if you're a mother, son or daughter. But Dad's bound to give it the big O. K. Not an item on it will cost him one red cent. And that, children, is what makes Father's day go-round!

If you asked Pa what he'd tomorrow, he'd very likely tell you he didn't want anything—but to keep it cheap.

"I'll have to foot the bill in the long run anyhow," the Head of the Household would be wont to mutter resignedly, turning back to the daily news-sheet, there to bury his nose and his dark brown thoughts in the sports section.

So, how about giving the Old Man a break. Call off that last minute dash to town for the latest in zany ties, perfumed shaving lotion, tricky pipe-racks, hard-toed bedroom slippers or the wrong kind of fishing tackle. Instead, gather in family conference and declare a Life for Father's Day.

HEREBY solemnly resolve the following:

1. That there be a 12-hour observance of LISTENING to Father. (Make it a straight union sanctioned eight hours, if you think 12 too tough.) Allow him to expound on his pet theories at whatever length he wishes. And permit him (but graciously, mind you) to have the last word all day long and right on into the evening.

2. That he be given first chance at the morning newspaper. Any member of the family who picks up the carelessly tossed paper after Dad has half-finished with it should be obliged to return it to its original folds, pages following in correct order; the whole paper to be placed neatly where Father has a fair chance of finding it again when he wants it. Such a procedure will go far in lowering his blood pressure and insuring him a longer time on this planet.

. . . And let Father's best sports shirt alone

3. That members of the family (and this goes for the dog and cat) refrain from using Father's favorite easy chair. Do this even if it is the only comfortable piece of furniture in the house. After all, he paid for it, so he ought to be entitled to use it for one day without being made to feel like a heel.

4. That teen-age daughters desist from wearing Father's best sports shirt. No matter how big the date is for Sunday afternoon, Miss Teen should break down and wear her own shirt, or raid brother's closet. What if his aren't as bad a fit as Father's? You can afford to look badly dressed for one day out of the year.

5. That Pop be given the keys to his car and permitted the full use of said vehicle for—well, say, four hours. Two, anyhow. Let him take it to the ball game if he wants to. You have to remember that you want to be real BIG about all this.

6. That Father be allowed to have the same thing for Sunday dinner that he had the preceding seven innings. Forgo springing on him that new, dainty, tempting dish you read about in last week's newspaper. Just steak and potatoes. Promise?

7. That no one be allowed to ask Father for money, however small the sum. This will just about do the trick. Dear ole Dad will become balmy at this point and in his bliss promise never to growl, swear, chew or wear suspenders again.

Then, come Monday, everybody can forget this foolishness and settle back to normal family life once more.

Ask Anne

Your Questions On Homemaking

My baby recently managed to stain my big all-wool blanket with a combination of milk formula and egg, leaving a small area yellow. How can I remove this stain at home? Can I successfully store a folding carriage of leatherette and chromium plated iron work on our back porch for an indefinite time? We expect to cover it with a waterproof sheeting, but is there any special way of treating the carriage itself? A. A. B.

Sponge your blanket well with cold water. If the cold water doesn't remove it, sprinkle pepsin powder over the spot. Work well into the blanket and let stand for one-half hour. Rinse well. If this doesn't completely remove it, let dry well and sponge with carbon tetrachloride.

Because of the Washington humidity it would be better to store the carriage inside where it would not be exposed to the air. If this isn't possible, prepare the carriage for storage in this way: If there are scratches or broken places on the chromium, coat these spots with paraffin to prevent rusting. If the chromium is not scratched so that the iron under it is exposed, it should be all right stored as you suggest.

Before storing be sure that the leatherette is clean by washing with a cloth or sponge wrung out of mild, lukewarm water. Dry thoroughly. When dry, apply a product made of emulsified vegetable oil which softens and preserves the leather.

I have several chests of drawers and end tables that need refinishing and I should like to do them in dark colors with that dull sheen that the new "Chinese-lacquer" furniture has. Is there a special kind of paint with which I can get the colored-lacquer effect? Our neighborhood paint store offers nothing but high-gloss and semigloss enamel. Could I get the effect I want by using high-gloss enamel, rubbing it down well, and perhaps applying clear lacquer over it? My pieces include some that are now white enameled and some that are natural birch over which clear shellac was applied many years ago. Would a good sanding be sufficient to prepare the present surfaces for refinishing? And finally, can you suggest at what sort of shops I might find attractive metal or wooden drawer pulls to replace the uninteresting ones now on the chests? Those I see at hardware stores do not appeal to me at all. S. E.

First of all, lacquer is not recommended as a furniture finishing material for amateurs because it should be sprayed on since it dries too fast for brush work. There is a method for refinishing furniture by removing all the finish, sanding, then applying a water stain in color desired, using shellac and and sanding three times. Finish with coat of shellac or varnish, rubbing down with rottenstone and pumice and linseed oil. Unless they are heirloom pieces, I would suggest you use the semi-gloss enamel in one of the many lovely colors available and do not plan to rub it down or cover it with any other finish. If you use enamel, sanding will be all that is necessary to prepare your furniture for painting.

You might find what you would like in drawer pulls at some antique dealer shop on Pennsylvania ave.

Please advise me how I can remove nail remover and cuticle remover that has been spilled on the inside of my manicure set lining. The lining is navy rayon crepe material. M. C. C.

I'm afraid that the material is damaged beyond repair. The only way to restore your manicure kit would be to reline it.

UMT Experiment a Success, General Tells Clubwomen

By Genevieve Reynolds

BRIG. GEN. JOHN M. DEVINE, Commanding General of Headquarters Experimental Unit in Fort Knox, Ky., yesterday pronounced the Army's experiment in Universal Military Training a success.

Guest speaker at the Congressional Club's tea, he told the solons' wives that he believed the project could be repeated on a national scale. "But to succeed on a national basis," he explained, "UMT will have to have the complete support of communities equal to the splendid cooperation given by the citizens of Louisville."

No beer is sold in the post exchange he said and the Kentucky State law prevents selling of alcoholic beverages to those under 21 years of age.

Too Much Money

Referring to the $75 paid to trainees attending the experimental UMT unit, General Devine commented, "Seventy-five dollars per month is too much free spending money."

When asked if the boys couldn't be persuaded to save most of the sum, he said that all possible inducements were offered them to do so, but few do.

Aim of the three-fold program is to develop the 18-year-old trainees into good citizens as well as soldiers. Emphasis is placed on physical, mental and moral training.

A poll revealed that about one-third of the boys in the experimental unit had never done any active sports. "To encourage active participation," he explained, "written examinations are given, because the more boys know about sports, the more interested they will become."

"It is difficult to interest many of the boys because about 50 per cent of them don't believe they can do things. That's why we have to stimulate their interests."

Rigorous Program

At first there was tremendous enthusiasm for the military education program but interest dwindled when the young trainees discovered how difficult it is to study at night after working a full eight-hour day. However, about 15 per cent are continuing correspondence courses and another 15 per cent taking vocational subjects.

General Devine expressed great optimism in the Army's spiritual guidance project. He told how the 90 boys who had never been to church now have become members; how others, who had dropped out, now attend regularly; how the chaplains had broken down the hitherto existing barriers between them and soldiers.

The speaker explained how the trainees run their own discipline system by the demerit court-martial. "The demerit system for minor infractions of the rule has banished the old vocal (cussing) punishment," he said. More serious offenses are tried by court-martial, whereby the boys learn elementary law and citizenship responsibility.

"That the boys are taking this work seriously," he continued "is evidenced by the fact that less than 10 per cent of the 75 tried have been acquitted."

Fashion Group's Final Brunch Slated Wednesday

"Fashions in Summer Tables," featuring cool barbecue, baronial, brunch and buffet settings, will highlight the Fashion Group's final meeting of the summer season, Wednesday, on the Hotel Washington roof.

Mrs. D. D. Gearhart will be the speaker, and prominent Washington hostesses have been invited to be guests of honor. They include: Senora de Belt, wife of the Cuban Ambassador; Mrs. Fred Vinson, wife of the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court; Mrs. Claude Pepper, wife of the Senator from Florida; Mrs. Brien McMahon, wife of the Senator from Connecticut, and Mrs. Morris Cafritz. Mrs. John Carradine, wife of the star of "Bill of Divorcement" at the Olney Theater, has also been invited to attend.

The table settings will be arranged by Mrs. Gearhart and the fashion and food editors of the four local newspapers. Miss Gertrude Prisley, regional director of the Washington Group, will preside. The group's activities will be resumed in the fall.

Mrs. Dwight F. Davis Fetes Granddaughter

ONE of the gayest parties for June debutantes was the dance last evening given by Mrs. Dwight F. Davis for her granddaughter, Miss Sherley Smith, at Valley View Farm, her home on Foxhall rd.

Miss Smith, daughter of Mrs. Deering Howe of New York, was graduated early in June from the Maderia School. She will go to college in the fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Howe were here for the event, and of the 300 or more invited to the dance, a large number were young out-of-town friends of the debutante. Mrs. Davis had also included a small group of her intimate friends.

Earlier the debutante had been entertained at a dinner at the 1925 F Street Club given by her grandmother.

Miss Aileen Patterson, daughter of the Secretary of War and Mrs. Robert Patterson, was in the company, and others included Miss Tilda de Kauffman, daughter of the Danish Minister and Mme. de Kauffmann; Miss Lily Lodge, daughter of Representative and Mrs. John Davis Lodge; Miss Alberta Legare, Miss Carolyn Bradley, Miss Pamela Cushing and Miss Dora Shaw of New York; Miss Cynthia Schwartz, Miss Joan Healy, Mlle. Maria Martins, Miss Edith Moffat, Miss Edith Powell of New York, Miss Sheila Macauley, Miss Cornelia Davis and Miss Sue Alexander.

Dinner Precedes

Also in the gathering were James Cross, James Russell Lowell, Willmott Lewis, jr., Allen McLean, William Grayson, Gordon Grayson, Chauncey Parker, jr., Richard Farrelly, Duer McClanahan, William Blair, Peter Forrestal, Robert Hooker, Aubrey Golmond, Cadet Duncan Joy and Cadet Robert MacCandlish.

Mr. and Mrs. James Pomeroy Hendrick entertained at dinner before the dance for Miss Kristin Curtis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Curtis. Miss Alice Hendrick, daughter of the hosts, who recently graduated from Foxcroft and who'll be a debutante next winter, was also in the company.

Others there were Miss Fanny Parsons, Miss Katherine Wadsworth, Miss Joan Exnicios, Hugh Auchincloss, jr., Clifford Brokaw of New York, Richard Hyde, Joseph Clark 3d, Gates Davison, W. Alliston Flagg, jr., Norton Goodwin, James Donaldson and Arthur Hendrick, sons of the host.

Meet Later at Farm

As dinner parties broke up and guests came together again at Valley View Farm they were greeted by Mrs. Davis in a pale gray chiffon gown, carrying an ostrich feather fan, and Miss Smith, standing beside her, wearing a typical debutante's gown of frothy white tulle with bouffant skirt woven with a delicate pattern in silver. Her flowers of pastel shades were arranged in a round old-fashioned bouquet.

Lester Lanin and his orchestra, a favorite with teen-agers in New York, had been imported for the occasion to play.

Mrs. DeLattre-Seguy Supper Hostess

MRS. JEAN DELATTRE-SEGUY entertained at a buffet supper last evening in celebration of Mr. DeLattre-Seguy's birthday. Here for the fete and the weekend are Mr. DeLattre-Seguy's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Pierre LaBour, of Scarsdale, N. Y., and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Carey Bartlett, son-in-law and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. DeLattre-Seguy. Mrs. Bartlett is the former Miss Yvette DeLattre-Seguy.

Miss Claire DeLattre-Seguy, younger daughter of the family, has been added to the group of next season's debutantes. Her parents will present her to society at a tea at home on December 20. Miss DeLattre-Seguy was graduated from the Bishop Strachan School in Toronto on Thursday. Her parents will entertain at a buffet supper Monday evening before the debut dance of Miss Carolyn Bradley at the Chevy Chase Club.

Friends Say Farewell to Oldhams

JOHN OLDHAM, Counselor of the Australian Embassy, and Mrs. Oldham are saying goodby to their friends at a round of parties planned in their honor before they leave in early July.

Among those who have already entertained at farewell fetes are C. V. Kellway, Australian Consul General in New York; Maj. Gen. T. Greene, head of the Australian Military Mission, and Mrs. John Chapman; the Naval Attache of the Australian Embassy and Mrs. S. H. K. Spurgeon and Group Capt. M. O. Watson, Air Attache of the Australian Embassy, and Mrs. Watson.

Dinner Dance to Honor Miss Manfuso, Fiance

MISS Zelma Joan Manfuso, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Agnus Manfuso, who will be married June 24 to James Brown Morrison, jr., will share honors with her fiance at a dinner dance this evening to be given by Mr. and Mrs. Barnum Colton at the Chevy Chase Club.

Tomorrow Miss Patricia Morrison will entertain at cocktails for Miss Manfuso and Mr. Morrison. Other parties planned for the bride-elect are a shower on Monday to be given by Miss Louise Sanderson; a luncheon on Wednesday to be given by Miss Carter Prescott and Miss Patricia Jones at the Columbia Country Club.

Miss Joanne Tucker will be hostess at a cocktail party for the engaged couple on Thursday and Mrs. Thomas Perry will give a luncheon and shower at the Columbia Country Club for Miss Manfuso on Friday. That afternoon Mr. and Mrs. James Brown Morrison, parents of the prospective bridegroom, will entertain at a cocktail party at the Columbia Country Club.

Eakers Honored At Cocktail Party

LIEUT. GEN. IRA C. EAKER, retiring deputy commander in chief of the Army Air Forces, and Mrs. Eaker were honor guests last evening at a cocktail party and buffet supper given by Gen. and Mrs. Carl Spaatz at their quarters at Fort Myer. Guests, numbering about 40, were restricted to friends on the post.

Miss Kitchin, Fiance To Be Honored

MRS. ENGLISH GORDON and Mrs. Newbold Noyes will entertain at luncheon today at the 1925 F Street Club for Miss Sara Jane Kitchin and Frederick Finkenstaedt, whose marriage will take place this afternoon in St. Alban's Church.

Guests will include the parents of the bride and bridegroom and members of the bridal party.

McClintocks to Fete Eugene Swigarts

TO ENTERTAIN Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Swigart, who are leaving Monday for North Port Point, Mich., Mr. and Mrs. John McClintock will give a dinner this evening for about 20 guests. As many more have been invited to drop in later in the evening to bid the popular couple farewell.

At the dinner will be Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Perrin, Dr. and Mrs. Phillip Owen, Mrs. Janet Strater, Mrs. James Reynolds, Mr. and Mrs. Robert McClintock, Miss Gertrude Good, Theodore Weintal, Col. and Mrs. J. Hunter Drum, Mr. and Mrs. F. Moran McConihe, Ralph Block and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Porter.

Town Talk—

By Eva Hinton

FRIENDS these days are referring to the gentle and charming Zinsser sisters as the "Soong sisters" (the three Soongs married three of China's most successful men—Sun Yat Sen, Chiang-Kai-shek, and Dr. Kung). The two Zinssers are also married to men whose abilities have always been of the "job seeks man" variety.

One Zinsser is married to Lewis W. Douglas who is currently adding to his string of successful jobs that of United States Ambassador to the Court of St. James's. The other Zinsser sister is the wife of John J. McCloy, formerly Assistant Secretary of War and now head of the World Bank.

And Washington homemakers, when they hear that Mrs. McCloy has done her moving to Washington during this heat-wave (the McCloys have taken the house of Gen. "Jakie" Devers in Georgetown) will agree that she deserves as much credit as does her sister who is charming London.

The other evening, at a Washington dinner in honor of Mr. McCloy, a poem was read in praise of the Zinsser sisters. The erudite poet says:

John J. Cravath-de-Gersdorf-
Milbank-Hope-Tweed McCloy
In Wall Street firms has served more terms
Than a wandering office boy.

He studied first at old Am-HERST.
Never dreaming he'd weekend at Windsor,
But in time he knew that the thing to do
Was to go and get him a Zinsser.

Meanwhile in the West where the sun sinks to rest
And men are quick on the draw,
Full many a verst from old Am-HERST,
Lived his future brother-in-law.

Forehanded as fate, this man took to mate
A girl with the Zinsser brand
Before McCloy, after some deploy,
Had asked for her sister's hand.

With two such wives to shape their lives
Their success was assured—who shall grudge it?
And claimants in mobs went out for the jobs
That were forced on these brethren two.

The tale has this moral, both written and oral:
To quaff life's best brew with the suds on,
A Zinsser procure from that hamlet obscure
Namely, Hastings-on-the-Hudson.

CONSPICUOUSLY absent from the parade at the Kansas City reunion of the 35th Division (Mr. Truman's World War I Division) was the President's Military Aide, Gen. Harry Vaughan. Newsmen covering the event didn't let him hear the end of it, kept asking if he were feeble or just lazy!

"Why," exclaimed one journalist, pointing to a colleague who spent four war years as a self-termed "amateur colonel," "HE would have marched in the parade and he is only every-OTHER-inch-a-soldier!

WHETHER they were "every inch" or just "every other inch" soldiers in the war, some of the reporters covering the White House don't like the high-altitude flying they must do to keep up with the President's plane!

One of them who particularly hates winged travel settled himself cosily into a Pullman seat on the President's recent train trip to Ottawa and challenged, "Now let's see them get THIS up to 17,000 feet!"

Perrins Give 'Continental' Party As Farewell to Eugene Swigarts

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Perrin weren't counting on the skies weeping yesterday at their Auf Weidersehn party for Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Swigart, soon to leave Washington.

The Perrins' black bordered invitations for 6 o'clock instructed guests to "bring your own handkerchiefs." And the hosts would supply the "beer to cry into in the Perrins' Teargarten." Everybody came—some early, others late, for the party went on well into the evening. They brought handkerchiefs—and umbrellas, and they crowded into the house until the heavens had dried her eyes. Later in the eveing duo pianists provided entertainment and harmonica players kept things going at a lively pace.

This merry party designed to speed the popular Swigarts on their way was continental in flavor. The hosts wore Tyrolean costumes; their daughter, Gail, was in a charming Dutch dress, and the two boys of the house, Jim and Mark, looked as though they were straight from the Tyrol Mountains. Ruth Swigart was modern to her fingertips in a pale green suit with a purple orchid pinned to her shoulder.

Gen. and Mrs. Wade Haislip came in and Col. and Mrs. Robert Guggenheim, Mr. and Mrs. John McClintock, who'll entertain at a farewell dinner for Gene and Ruth Swigart tonight.

Westwood Byrd, suntanned from country life in Virginia, was there and others were Col. and Mrs. Philip Strong, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Dove, Mrs. Richardson Spencer, up from Berryville, Va., and Col. and Mrs. Drumm.

Still others were Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Richard Cutts, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Hurja, the First Secretary of the Belgian Embassy and Mme. von Bellinghen. Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Hunt, Dr. and Mrs. Philip Owen and Mrs. Deborah Glassford.

Mr. and Mrs. Swigart, who came here during the war, are leaving next Thursday for northern Michigan to spend the summer. After that they'll go to Cincinnati to live.

Rep. Lusk Entertains For Visitors

Representative Georgia Lusk of New Mexico entertained at luncheon yesterday in the House of Representatives dining room for Miss Louise Coe and Mrs. Mariamne Geyer, director of secondary education in New Mexico, who are visitors in town.

Wives of the New Mexico delegation in Congress were among the guests and others included the feminine members of Congress, and Mrs. E. H. Hedrick, wife of the Representative of West Virginia, an old friend of the hostess.

Mrs. Kibbey Hostess

Friends of Mrs. Edward W. Kibbey this morning heard J. C. Lewis broadcast the horse show which is being held at Lewisdale, Md., while Mrs. Kibbey served them breakfast.

Mrs. Watson to Fete Symphony Group At Charlottesville

Members of the board of directors of the National Symphony are among the guests invited to the buffet being given Sunday at Kenwood, Charlottesville home of Mrs. Edwin Martin Watson. Mrs. Watson is well known in the music world as Frances Nash, pianist. Her buffet party will precede the final concert of the annual Virginia Music Festival, being held at the University of Virginia's Scott Stadium. On Sunday Dr. Hans Kindler will conduct the National Symphony Orchestra.

Guests invited to Mrs. Watson's buffet include Mr. and Mrs. Robert Woods Bliss, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Burling, jr., Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Davies, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Finkenstaedt, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Glover, jr., Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bruce Howe, Admiral and Mrs. Emory Scott Land, Mr. and Mrs. Merritt K. Ruddock, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Woodward, Mrs. Truxton Beale, Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Stettinius, jr., and many others.

Miss Martin Returns to Capital

Miss Eleanor Martin, well-known portrait painter, is back in town at the Fairfax Hotel. At the end of July she expects to make a trip to Guatemala.

Among Washingtonians who have sat for their pictures are the Countess Lasocka, Mrs. Kent Legare, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Richberg, Joseph Casey and James M. Barnes.

At Statler

Mr. and Mrs. Max Cohan of New York, are spending a few weeks in Washington and are stopping at the Statler.

In Orange Blossom Parade

Russell—Mackintosh

In St. Albans Episcopal Church yesterday, Miss Doris Mae Mackintosh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Middleton Mackintosh of Washington, exchanged marriage vows with Lieut. (j. g.) Robert Foster Russell, Medical Corps USNR, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Russell, Beverly, Mass. Canon William Curtiss Draper, jr., officiated.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a gown of white organdy with bouffant skirt and pleated ruffles edging the off-shoulder neckline and short sleeves. Her long mitts were of matching organdy, her finger-tip veil was caught with clusters of orange blossoms and she carried a white orchid and stephanotis.

Mrs. Robert H. Featherstone, jr., matron of honor, was costumed in aqua marquisette with hood caught with red roses that matched her bouquet. Other attendants were Mrs. Charles McDonnell, Miss Carlotta Johnston, Miss Betty Zane Morrison, Miss Belle Oliver Hart, Miss Norma Weiler and Miss Evelyn Day. All were gowned like the matron of honor but carried spring flowers.

Norman Russell served his brother as best man and ushers were Earl M. Mackintosh, jr., Paul L. Raymond, Richard A. Roundy, jr., Lieut. (j.g.) Arthur Tacke, USNR, John E. Williams, jr., and Dr. William Baker. A reception followed at Hotel 2400.

After a trip to the Poconos, the newlyweds will make their home at the submarine base at New London, Conn.

The bride is a graduate of National Cathedral School for Girls and Briarcliff Junior College in New York. Lieutenant Russell, a graduate of Bowdoin College and Boston University School of Medicine, interned at the Naval Medical Center.

Martin—Chamberlin

Miss Luellen Chamberlin, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John M. Chamberlin, formerly of Mineral Wells, Tex., was married yesterday afternoon to Paul Martin of this city.

The bride wore a brown shantung suit with white accessories and a white orchid corsage. The ceremony was performed in the presence of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Chamberlin, jr., of Hyattsville, Md., and Mr. and Mrs. William F. Chamberlin of Fort Worth, Tex., brothers and sisters-in-law of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Enders.

Following their wedding trip to New York, Mr. and Mrs. Martin will be at home in Fairlington, Va. Mrs. Martin, a graduate of Texas State College for Women, served during the war as Wave lieutenant. Her husband was graduated from Temple University and is a veteran of five years service with the Army.

Lineburg—Fincham

Foundry Methodist Church was the scene of the wedding yesterday evening of Miss Elsie Louise Fincham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayman E. Fincham of Silver Spring, Md., and Horace Wesley Lineburg, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Garrison, also of Silver Spring. The Rev. Frederick Brown Harris officiated.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore white marquisette trimmed with Spanish lace, her tulle veil falling from a coronet of white roses and lilies of the valley. She carried orchids on her prayerbook. Matron of honor, Mrs. Anne Snow, wore pale aqua and carried spring flowers. Mrs. Marcelene Gouldman, gowned in pink, and Miss Charlotte M. Keating, in yellow, were bridesmaids. Eldon Long was best man and ushers were Stanley Levy, Weldon Fincham, Edwin D. Fincham and Charles Fincham. A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents.

After their wedding trip to Florida and Cuba Mr. and Mrs. Lineburg will make their home in Silver Spring.

Fensterwald—Vosbury

Miss Elizabeth Irene Vosbury, daughter of Comdr. B. Poindexter Vosbury, USN, and Mrs. William Joseph Allanson, and Bernard Fensterwald, jr., were married June 4 at St. Clement Episcopal Church, Alexandria. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fensterwald, Nashville Tenn.

The Rev. Darby Wood Belts officiated at the ceremony and a reception followed at the Statler Hotel. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore white organdy with eyelet bodice. Her headdress was an organdy coronet with shoulder length illusion veil and she carried a bouquet of white daisies and roses. Mrs. Hugh M. Hayden, matron of honor, wore yellow eyelet organdy and carried white daisies. George Fox served as best man.

Following the reception the couple left for a motor trip through the Southern States. In the fall they will reside in Boston, where the bridegroom will attend Harvard Law School. Before entering the Navy during the war he attended Duncan Preparatory School and Harvard University.

The bride attended Shanghai American school in China and was graduated from Skidmore College.

Hitchcock—Singley

Miss Barbara Jean Singley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Singley, Pelham, N. Y., became the bride yesterday of Lawrence Sill Hitchcock of Washington and Santa Fe, N. Mex., son of the late Rev. and Mrs. Charles E. Hitchcock. The ceremony took place in the Naval Communications Annex Chapel, with Chaplain John Shilling officiating.

The bride wore white marquisette fashioned on princess lines and short veil attached to a Juliet cap of seed pearls. She carried white gladioli and yellow and white iris. Mrs. William B. Shattuck, matron of honor, was costumed in periwinkle blue taffeta with lace mitts and carried blue delphinium and yellow roses. William H. Crawford, jr., served as best man. Following the ceremony, a reception was given at the Shoreham Hotel by the bride's aunt, Mrs. Albert E. Caldwell of New York.

A graduate of Barnard, the bride was commissioned in the Naval Reserve in October, 1943, and is serving as a lieutenant, junior grade in Washington. Mr. Hitchcock, formerly headmaster of the Los Alamos Ranch School at Los Alamos, N. Mex., was a colonel during the war and served as secretary general of the Inter-American Defense Board. He is a graduate of Yale. The couple will reside in Washington.

O'Connell—Hodge

Married in Immaculate Conception Church on June 7 were Miss Nancy Catherine Hodge, daughter of Mrs. Lillie C. Hodge of Washington, and Charles F. O'Connell, jr., whose parents also reside here. The Rev. Joseph Geden officiated.

Given in marriage by her brother, Dudley Hodge, the bride wore white marquisette over satin and carried a white orchid with her prayer book. Mrs. Donald J. McAuvic, matron of honor, wore aqua net and carried Johanna Hill roses. Best man was Robert McHale and Morgan Hodge and Walter F. Allen served as ushers. A reception followed.

Miss Stiles, Capt. Walter, Married

Word has been received here of the marriage of Miss Ruth Hayward Stiles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Stiles of Scarsdale, N. Y., and Capt. Henry Walter of New Orleans, at Stuttgart, Germany. The bride was stationed in Washington during the war as a lieutenant in the Waves.

The ceremony, which took place May 21 in the post chapel, was followed by a small reception. The bride, a member of the State Department staff at Stuttgart, had as maid of honor Miss Lillian Waller of the American Consulate. She was given in marriage by her cousin, Lieut. Col. David J. Witmer of Los Angeles, who is stationed at Frankfurt.

Captain and Mrs. Walter are making their home at Ludwigsburg where the bridegroom is with the American Military Government.

Mrs. Walter is a graduate of Smith College.

DARK GROUND PRINTS

Of Mint-Cool Bemberg Rayon*

12.95

You'll bless the day you discovered the coolness of Bemberg* rayon . . . you'll bless the day you picked either one of these printed Bembergs* in city-wise dark backgrounds. Ingeniously styled with slit-peplums that look like tunics, and pleated peplums that look like tiers to give the wand-slim silhouettes so important this season.

One-piece printed Bemberg* rayon with double tiered pleated skirt in front and surplice neckline. White rose print on black or brown in sizes 14 to 20 . . . . . 12.95

One-piece printed Bemberg* rayon with all-around peplum that's slit in front, twin-buttoned neckline and cap sleeves. White print on navy, brown or black in sizes 14 to 20 . . . . 12.95

That Fat Boy and His Straight Man Are Back In the Same Old O. D.

By Richard L. Coe

WRITING ABOUT AN Abbott and Costello picture is one of the occupational vacuums of movie-reviewing.

Should, say, Lynn Fontaine and Alfred Lunt go in for Wagnerian opera, one might be able to remark that Miss Fontaine's Isolde is a more chic creation than Miss Traubel's or that the Lunt Siegfried reveals touches of humor that Lauritz Melchior has never projected in the role.

Janet Dayton

But, alas, such is never the case with an Abbott-Costello venture. The boys having discovered a good thing, stick to it. Eighteen pictures ago they were, as the trade papers express it, sensational in "Buck Privates." They have now returned to the Capitol in "Buck Privates Come Home," of which a goodly portion still is devoted to fat Lou's difficulties in mastering things military.

That they finally tie themselves up with such fashionable film material as trying to get a French orphan into this country, running up against the housing problem and the predicament of veterans getting rehabilitated in the midget auto racing field, is sheer persiflage.

Their real adventures, as always, are concerned with avoiding the law in the persons of Nat Pendleton and Donald McBride, with bedding down for the night on a healthy clothesline or being trapped in a Murphy bed.

This is, to be sure, quite as it should be, but it does restrict one's ability to write about them. The task of detailing their adventures is too forbidding for us.

What is Their Par?

One might go further, to be sure, and say that their latest effort is either below or above Abbott-Costello par. Logically one should be able to come right out and state that A. and C. are slipping or still sensational. That would be quite in the accepted pattern of the reviewing art.

But even on this delicate point one hesitates, for what is their par? Certainly the boys have seemed fresher and funnier in the past. But in the comfortable cool of the Capitol all standards shift. Say, then, that the more stifling the air outside, the pleasanter it is to sit in the Capitol and watch Bud and Lou. Should the cool spell hold, their value somewhat diminishes.

Their associates don't much matter nor do any words one might write about them. All one can say is that Abbott and Costello are cavorting on the Capitol screen in something called "Buck Privates Come Home."

Sylvia Froos Headlines

The Capitol stage show is greatly aided by Sylvia Froos, a knowing songstress who's a help to any vaudeville bill.

For some obscure reason we had been laboring under the notion that Miss Froos had passed away. We'd even rather hazily set down the point of her decease as sometime during the Administration of Rutherford B. Hayes.

But Miss Froos is very much alive and looks nicely fit and blithe. She is an expert seller of songs, offering "More Than You Know" and some original lyrics about that lady who never shows up, "Chloe." She capably earns her way as the bill's headliner.

Humor is handled by one Milton Douglas, if humor is what you want to call it. Simplifying the Palestine problem into a single applause-getting sentence is not our idea of entertainment or easy truth and a remark about our democratic Allies might dazzle the Chicago Tribune, but to us it seems tasteless junk. Like the Broadway halfwits, Douglas seems confused as to his place in the cosmic sun.

Marie Louise and Charles offer smooth trapeze work and the Richards-Adair dancers close the bill. Ted Lawrie's on hand with Sam Jack Kaufman's orchestra and Milt Slosser's console rolls out its lush, happy tones.

"BUCK PRIVATES COME HOME." Universal-International release produced by Robert Arthur. Directed by Charles Barton. Screenplay by John Grant, Frederic I. Rinaldo, and Robert Lees, from a story by Richard Macaulay and Bradford Ropes. At the Capitol Theater.

THE WEEK'S END: "Candida," with Janet Dayton as Shaw's heroine, winds up this weekend at the Jarvis Repertory Theater in Bethesda; there's a matinee this afternoon at 2:30 . . . Suns of the Prairie take over the "in person" part of the bill tomorrow, Monday and Tuesday on the Atlas stage. "Carnival in Costa Rica" and "13 Rue Madeleine" are the screen features . . . And have you seen Roy Rogers in color? If you've a mind to, his first color picture is at the auto-drive-in down Alexandria way tonight. "Apache Rose" . . . Community Education winds up its revival program for the season tonight and tomorrow night, 935 G pl. The closing bill is the first "Thin Man." . . . Charles Laughton, Gertrude Lawrence and Elsa Lanchester return today in "Rembrandt" at the Hippodrome.

Shirley Falls Again for Agar But This Time on Celluloid

Hollywood.—Shirley Temple and her husband, John Agar, will make their first picture appearance together in "War Party," John Ford and Merian Cooper's next. Agar has been studying dramatics at Selznick's studio for more than a year. He'll play a West Point graduate who falls for the colonel's daughter. Naturally she's Shirley, and naturally she marries Jack in the picture. Hank Fonda and John Wayne also will have top roles in the film, which will be largely shot in Ford's favorite location spot, Monument Valley, Ariz. . . . The president of Bowdoin College was upset because I broke the story that John Ford would receive an honorary degree from that institution seven days before the yarn was supposed to be released. Sorry, but news is like fish—it won't keep . . . Jeffrey Lynn finally gets a good role. He plays the part of Lance Hardeen in "Adventures of Black Bart," with Yvonne de Carlo and Dan Duryea at Universal-International. It's about time that Jeffrey got a break . . . Dick Haymes, who hasn't worked at Twentieth Century for ages, is trying to get his release from that studio.

Henry Fonda

The Straight of It

David Niven called to say he had received a letter from Vivien Leigh. She and Larry Olivier had just returned from Paris. Somebody stole all of Vivien's clothes while she was en route home. Vivien wrote that she was feeling perfectly well and already had started work in "Anna Karenina." . . . Pat O'Brien knows nothing about his playing in "The Life of Mayor Bill O'Dwyer," as reported elsewhere. And the star doesn't think O'Dwyer would sell his story to the screen without first consulting him; but he'll know the facts when he arrives for a visit with the mayor in a few days. Pat told me that some years back, when O'Dwyer as district attorney was handling the case against Murder, Inc., Darryl Zanuck had a story written about him: and Pat was to star it it. However, the script came out with Murder, Inc., as the hero, rather than the district attorney. So both Pat and Zanuck decided to scrap it.

Chicks That Click

Paul Hesse has discovered another beauty in New York. She's a Conover model, named Jeana, who will be the Rhinegold girl. Paul says she undoubtedly will be snapped up for pictures. Hesse's photography helped Gene Tierney, Jinx Falkenburg, Margaret O'Brien, and Cathy O'Donnell to get their picture contracts . . . Ross Shattuck, Maggie Ettinger's husband, sent me an enchanting painting he did of a scene near Coulterville, one of the '49 gold rush sites in the mother lode country. The town now has 250 inhabitants. Ross will spend two months painting scenes of historical spots in California for an exhibit at our centennial celebration in 1919.

He Had Wrong Policy But Needed Insurance

New York—ROMANCE: Pauline Betz, the tennis champ, was courted by George Ross, the insurance man, during her stay in New York. One day Ross phoned for a date, and Miss Betz told him that another man would be her escort for the evening . . . "Warn him that he'll have to tangle with me," said Ross . . . "Warn him yourself," replied Miss Betz, giving the receiver to her escort, Jack Dempsey.

ADVERTISEMENT: Nunnally Johnson, now in New York supervising the scenes for his production, "The Senator Was Indiscreet," has adopted a slogan which he hopes will become a trade-mark for all his movies. Johnson says that he's working for Universal-International's film division producing "Leave-the-Dishes-in-the-Sink-Mother-There's-a-Nunnally-Johnson-Picture-in-Town" pictures.

WEALTH: Albert Lasker was impressed by the Texas chapter in John Gunther's "Inside U. S. A.," and asked one of his cousins who lives in Texas: "Is it true that there are so many rich men in Texas?" . . . Mr. Laskers' cousin told him of a friend who was asked: "How much are you worth?" and who replied: "I'm not good at figgers. I'd say 200 millions, give or take 20 million."

CHATTER: Armand Deutsch has bought out the interest of Hal Horne in Story Productions, and now has sole control of the film adaptation of "This Side of Innocence." . . . Rosa Covarrubias signed a contract with George Macy for the publication of her International cook book . . . Benny Goodman, who is playing the Old Professor in the new Danny Kaye picture, refused to wear a beard. A compromise was effected—side-burns . . . Sherman Billingsley has installed a large numbers wheel in the kitchen of his Stork Club. Every day he gives each member of his crew a number, spins the wheel, and the winner gets $10.

ACCURACY: Margaret French Crisson, author of "Journey Into Fame," the forthcoming book about her father, sculptor Daniel French, tells of the afternoon she accompanied her father to Cambridge for the dedication of his statue of John Harvard. President Eliot introduced the sculptor to a Boston doctor, who complained: "Mr. French, you've given John Harvard the legs of a consumptive" . . . "I'm glad you noticed that," replied French. "He died of consumption when he was 31."

SHOWCASE: A birthday party was given for Barney Balaban, president of Paramount, at his Westchester home last week. Among the guests were the most powerful men in show-business today—Nicholas Schenck of MGM, Adolph Zukor of Paramount, John Cohn of Columbia, Maj. Albert Warner of Warner Bros. They could have had the top performers in America as entertainers, for this was a setting all actors dream about . . . But they permitted only one person to perform—Judith Balaban, Barney's 14-year-old daughter, who although she sings and dances expertly, is disinterested in a career as a professional entertainer.

ENTERPRISE: A Washington public relations man, whose client has been on the front pages for many months, is a former newspaperman. He once wangled the perfect assignment, from Hearst. He was assigned to find Judge Crater, and made a search, timed to the seasons—winter in Nassau and Palm Beach, spring in Paris, summer at the Lido and Lake Louise.

Bids Opened On Repairs at Western High

When the kids go back to Western High School next fall, they may scarcely know the old place.

Bids for more than $90,000 worth of repairs and alterations for the school have been opened, Chief Engineer Clerk P. M. Lumpkins revealed yesterday.

Lower of two bidders was Lee T. Turner, 3616 14th st. nw., who offered the following estimates: For installing additional shower and locker room facilities at boys' and girls' gymnasiums, $66,515; for "converting" classrooms into a new print shop, a cafeteria, a new teachers' dining room, and a school infirmary, $20,406; for building a new roof deck over the main portico, $5310.

Municipal Architect Merrill A. Coe said work was expected to begin "very shortly," provided a contract was approved and awarded. He said he couldn't estimate how much of the project would be completed by September.

Open House Planned

Camp Fire Girls, a Community Chest agency, will hold open house at Camp Mawayi, Triangle, Va., on Father's Day, from 2 to 5 p. m.

Child Home Acquires New Play Facilities

Youngsters at the D. C. Receiving Home for Children have a lot of extra fun in store for them.

A two-room child care play unit—complete with teeter boards, toys, gymnastic devices, tables, chairs, cots and other furnishings—has been bought for the home from the War Assets Administration.

This was revealed yesterday by District Purchasing Officer Roland M. Brennan, who said the District paid $60.43 for the $3271 unit.

Surplus property regulations make it possible for institutions like the Receiving Home to buy certain surplus items at five per cent of current market value, spokesman for the Richmond WAA Regional Office revealed.

The District also paid transportation charges for shipping the unit from Newport News, Va., where WAA had purchased it for use in a war housing development day nursery, Brennan said.

Welfare — Department officials said the unit would be kept in storage until alteration work and reorganization of the Receiving Home is completed.

Some Transit Riders Never Get Off

No, we don't mean the character, who, anchored to the best seat in the vehicle, apparently never gets off. He does get off, eventually—at the end of the line.

All day every day, all night every night, the riders we mean, travel back and forth aboard Washington street cars and buses. They don't get off—at either end of the line. They ride without sitting in a seat or hanging on to a strap. These riders are the Transitads (car cards) that appear in Washington transit vehicles.

Because Transitad-vertisers want their messages before Washington's largest audience, Transitads never get off the vehicles. Individual Transitads (car cards) do "get off" from time to time. Advertisers change, too. New products, new services offered by new firms appear. But, as a group, Transitads never get off the street car or bus.

Today or tomorrow, whenever you next board a street car or bus, give the Transitads a glance. These marathon riders' main job is to keep you informed of the products and services available in Washington. Don't get off the transit vehicle without noticing the riders that never get off—Transitads.

Famed British Woman Quits Labor Party

London, June 13 (U.P.)—Miss Naomi Jacob, novelist, teacher, actress and pioneer Socialist, said today that she was quitting the Labor Party after 25 years to fight the Labor government—as a Conservative.

"Nobody who loves England can do otherwise," Miss Jacob said at Harrogate. "The Attlee government is approaching fascism in its snooping refusal to give equal pay to women and its insults to housewives.

"What Britain is seeing now is a travesty on socialism. As an old member of the party I have lived through the great days of the Socialists. Men like George Lansbury, Philip Snowden and Ramsay MacDonald made mistakes—but they made mistakes in a noble way. Today our leaders are merely inefficient and shortsighted. They are not even ashamed of their failures."

Miss Jacob said she would fight the Labor government outside of Parliament instead of running for Commons.

Miss Jacob's Who's Who says she was born July 1, 1889, "writes two novels a year, articles on cookery and keeps a pekingese dog, and is a Catholic."

Chiefs Named For Reserve Engineers

Commanding officers have been assigned to head the Civil Engineer Corps Reserve in the Potomac River Naval Command, it was announced yesterday.

The local reserve organization will be set up as a regiment consisting of four battalions, Comdr. Paul C. Gillette, assistant district director of Naval Reserve for the Potomac River Naval Command, said.

Assigned as commanding officer of the Reserve Regiment is Capt. Daniel Ventres, 3407 34th pl. nw. Executive officer is Comdr. John J. White, jr., 520 26th rd. South, Arlington, Va.

Battalion heads are:

First Battalion—Comdr. George A. Nelson, 6609 Exfair rd., Bethesda, Md., commanding officer; Lieut. Comdr. Wilbur R. Garrett, RFD No. 2, Rockville, Md., executive officer.

Second Battalion—Comdr. David H. Gottwals, 2780 Porter st. nw., commanding officer. Lieut. Comdr. James T. Redd, 34 North Granada st., Arlington, executive officer.

Third Battalion—Comdr. Merrel A. Coe, 614 Tewkesbury pl. nw., commanding officer; Lieut. Comdr. Leonard G. Haeger, 3500 39th st. nw., executive officer.

Fourth Battalion—Comdr. J. E. Larson, 1618 Mount Eagle dr., Alexandria, Va., commanding officer; Lieut. Comdr. John P. Mutchler, 26 Cleveland st., Kensington, Md., executive officer.

Police Oppose Use Of Montgomery Swimming Holes

Montgomery County parents should supervise the swimming activities of their children this summer, police cautioned yesterday.

Police Chief Charles M. Orme warned that there were numerous swimming holes, unsupervised and some distance from a telephone or means of summoning aid.

Corpl. Eugene E. Brown, juvenile police officer, also disclosed he had warned more than a dozen families against permitting their children to swim in the polluted and dangerous water of the Rossdhu Castle swimming hole in Chevy Chase.

Besides being stagnant and unhealthful, he said, the water is deep and a haven for snakes.

Denial of Freeway Rezoning Petition Is Recommended

A second rezoning application for property in the path of the proposed Northwest Freeway in Montgomery County has been recommended for denial by the Maryland National Capital Parks and Planning Commission.

The commission said yesterday it had recommended denial of an application for rezoning a tract at the intersection of River rd. and Goldsboro rd., Bethesda.

Earlier the commission recommended against a requested rezoning by Colonial Village, Inc., for a tract in the same general area on the same grounds.

New Corporation Bill Presented by D. C. Bar Officials

Local bar officials yesterday presented a proposed new District corporation law to a Senate District Judiciary Subcommittee.

Roger Whiteford of the District Bar Association submitted the bill as a substitute for the corporation bill introduced earlier by Senator Pat McCarran (D., Nev.). Appearing with Whiteford was George E. McNeil.

Committee Counsel James R. Kirkland explained the bill would give the District a modern legal code for corporations that wanted to operate under it, without taking off the books the laws under which present corporations operate. He pointed out one section would set up a District Commissioner of Corporations.

Senator Spessard L. Holland (D., Fla.) conducted the meeting.

India Congress Charges States Are Arming

New Delhi, India, June 13 (U.P.)—The committee of the All-India State People's Congress charged today that certain Indian states were smuggling in arms and ammunition and increasing the size of their armies, apparently in preparation for a rebellion.

The committee warned the government to "prepare for all contingencies." It said some states were "harboring designs" which they hope to carry out against even the will of their own people.

It was recalled, however, that the committee yesterday denounced the intention of some princely states to remain independent when Britain withdraws from the Indian government.

The working (executive) committee of the National Congress Party today finished drafting a resolution approving Britain's withdrawal and the division of India, and expressing hope for future unity of the subcontinent.

Mohandas K. Gandhi appealed to the princely states tonight to come into the Constituent Assembly. He denounced at a prayer meeting the decision of some of these states to remain independent when India is divided.

"If the princes do not change, they will cease to be," he said.

The ruler of Hyderabad, India's largest princely state with 16 million subjects, had announced that he would remain outside the two dominions—Moslem and Arab—that will be set up. He said there was no dispute in Hyderabad between Moslems and Hindus.

Travancore State, the third largest in India, with rich deposits of uranium and thorium, also has announced it will not join either of the new dominions.

Montgomery Farm Fete

Secretary of Agriculture Anderson will attend the 75th anniversary celebration of the Montgomery County Farmers Club in Brighton Hall, Brighton, Md., on June 21 at 7 p. m.

Also scheduled to attend is Dr. Harry J. Patterson, longtime director of the Experimental Station at the University of Maryland.

Willows Beach Colony

Careful buyers—those who have checked, and compared—are selecting summer homesites a this restricted development now. Willows Colony is next to Breezy Point, on Chesapeake Bay, and is 42 miles from the White House (35 miles from D. C. Line). There is nearly a mile of wide, white sand beach, affording safe bathing for children. Willows is one of the best fishing grounds on the bay. All sites at Willows are large, many wooded, with fine views of the bay. Prices start at $500. Many bay-view sites at $1,200 and less; wooded waterfront sites from $1,800. Generous long-term payments arranged; 30 % cash required. We can build your home at Willows now. Builders and materials are available. Inquire at sales office for terms and building plans. Building plans at Willows must be approved; application to purchase are fully investigated. There is nothing on Chesapeake Bay to compare with what we have to offer. Representatives always on the property. To reach: Drive to Marlboro, then follow Routes 4, 416 and 260 to Chesapeake Beach; turn right there on Bay Shore rd., 3 miles south to entrance sign, or phone HO. 6235 for map.

An Appeal to All Who Once Were Children

So you're going to get a couple of bucks refund from Pepco, eh? Congratulations! It's always nice to get an unexpected windfall.

It's like putting your hand in the pocket of a suit you haven't worn in months, and finding a ten dollar bill.

It doesn't suddenly make you rich—but it feels so nice.

But there's another way to get that feeling that all's right with the world—and you'll find it described in detail elsewhere in this issue of The Post.

We're printing a coupon, and asking you to fill it in and mail it to Pepco. The coupon authorizes the utility to give your refund money to Children's Hospital.

The doctor in the picture above is Dr. Joseph Wall, for many long years chief of the medical staff at Children's.

Dr. Wall has been looking forward to the day when his kids would have a modern hospital, and this is our chance to see that they get one.

PROMISE FULFILLED

Today marks the beginning of the fifteenth year of The Post's ownership by Eugene Meyer.

It's interesting to look back on the statement made by Mr. Meyer on June 13, 1933, as he published his first edition of The Post. He said:

"It will be my aim and purpose steadily to improve The Post and to make it an even better paper than it has been in the past. It will be conducted as an independent paper devoted to the best interests of the people of Washington and vicinity, and hopes to have their interest and support.

"I think I should, in this connection, make it clear that, in purchasing The Post, I acted entirely on my own behalf, without suggestion from or discussion with any person, group or organization."

DIRTY STORY

I went into a downtown restaurant for dinner yesterday, after a tough afternoon at the office.

My hands were filthy, so I went back to the men's room to wash them before eating. But there was no liquid soap in the dispenser.

The manager explained that a shipment had been delayed—they were temporarily out. So I asked:

"How about borrowing a cake of soap from the kitchen?"

He said okay, and sent a waitress after some soap. But the waitress came back empty-handed, and explained there wasn't a bit of soap in the kitchen, either.

So I sat down to order, unwashed—when suddenly I had a horrible thought:

"If there's no soap in the kitchen, how do they keep clean back there. Are their hands as dirty as mine?"

I ate elsewhere.

Falls Church (Va.) children are tired of waiting for their elders to supply them with adequate recreational facilities.

The kids have organized "The Falls Church Teen Theater," and they plan to put on shows which will raise funds for the construction of a recreation center.

Their first offering will be a minstrel show at Madison School auditorium, this upcoming Monday and Wednesday nights. (Adults 60 cents; children 30 cents.)

The show will be written, arranged, directed and performed by the children themselves—and city editors who fail to send reporters and photographers will be passing up a good bet.

I'M ME—HONEST!

Several letters have arrived asking "what happened to W. E. G.?" And one District Liner even wrote in and said:

"You're awful. W. E. G. wrote a much better column."

For the sake of the record, the "W" stands for William and the "E" is my own darn business—but it all refers to the same guy.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

The Bridge Deck

By Florence Osborn

You are declarer of today's four-heart contract, and West opens the king and ace of diamonds, then shifts to the club jack. Study only the North-South cards, then plan your play.

Declarer wins his game by end-playing West. He takes the club jack with the club ace, and sees that his best chance of avoiding two spade losers is to strip the hand and hope to find an opponent with the queen or king doubleton. He can then throw this adversary in the lead, and on the return trump in the closed hand and discard a spade from the board.

Declarer draws trumps in two leads, cashes the club king and trumps a club, stripping clubs from the North and South hands. Next he plays the ace, deuce of spades, throwing West in with the queen. Now West must return a diamond or a club, and declarer discards dummy's last spade and trumps in his hand. This leaves the board high, and declarer wins his four-heart contract, losing two diamonds and a spade.

If West attempts to avoid the end play by throwing his spade queen under declarer's ace, South then will enter dummy with a heart and lead a spade toward his jack. This way he loses only one spade to East's king, winning his game.

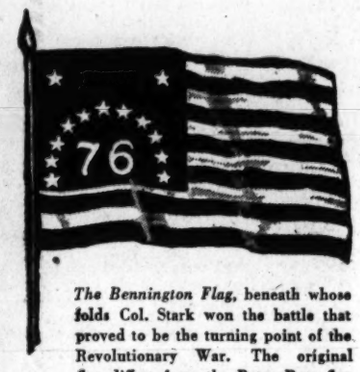
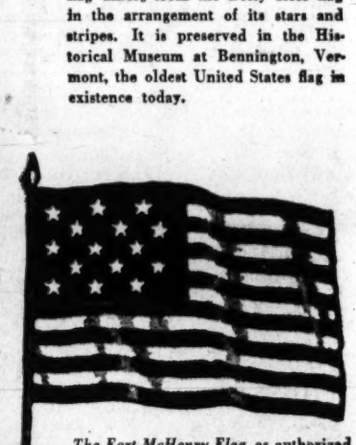
The Grand Union Flag, first symbol of the United Colonies, was hoisted over the First American Navy by John Paul Jones, Dec. 3, 1775, and was unfurled at Washington's headquarters, Jan. 1, 1776.

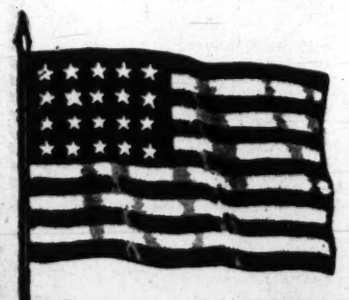
The First Stars and Stripes, as made by Betsy Ross, was adopted by Congress as the official American Flag on June 14, 1777 . . . "Thirteen Stripes, alternate red and white, and thirteen stars on a field of blue." Under its proud folds, the Colonies won their fight for freedom and independence, and George Washington was inaugurated as the first President.



The Bennington Flag, beneath whose folds Col. Stark won the battle that proved to be the turning point of the Revolutionary War. The original flag differs from the Betsy Ross flag in the arrangement of its stars and stripes. It is preserved in the Historical Museum at Bennington, Vermont, the oldest United States flag in existence today.



The Fort McHenry Flag, as authorized by Congress on Jan. 13, 1794, had fifteen stars and fifteen stripes, thus honoring Vermont's entry into the Union in 1791 and Kentucky in 1792. It was the thrilling sight of this flag during the bombardment of Ft. McHenry, Sept. 13-14, 1814, that inspired Francis Scott Key to compose the immortal lines of "The Star Spangled Banner."



Twenty stars graced the constellation of our flag in the days when river steamboats began navigating the Ohio and Mississippi. Five new states had been added: Tennessee, 1796; Ohio, 1802; Louisiana, 1812; Indiana, 1816; Mississippi, 1817; Congress voted to return to the original thirteen stripes with a new star for each new state.

1864 . . . "Remember the Alamo" and the Civil War were outstanding events in this period of our flag's history. Sixteen new stars were added for new states in the following order: Illinois, 1818; Alabama, 1819; Maine, 1820; Missouri, 1821; Arkansas, 1836; Michigan, 1837; Florida, 1845; Texas, 1845; Iowa, 1846; Wisconsin, 1848; California, 1850; Minnesota, 1858; Oregon, 1859; Kansas, 1861; Nevada, 1861; West Virginia, 1863.

The last of America's frontiers disappeared and her glorious flag reached its present form in 1912 when New Mexico and Arizona became the 47th and 48th states. Prior to that Nebraska was admitted in 1867, Colorado, in 1876, North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana, and Washington in 1889, Idaho and Wyoming in 1890, Utah in 1896 and Oklahoma in 1907.

The Story of Our Flag . . .

From the day in 1775 when John Paul Jones hoisted the first Grand Union flag over the first American Navy until today, our flag has been known the world over as the symbol of liberty and freedom.

Today (June 14) Is Flag Day . . . On June 14th, 1777, the Stars and Stripes, painstakingly sewn by Betsy Ross, was adopted as the official flag by Congress.

Honor the Flag . . . Unfurl it proudly . . . salute it sincerely . . . gaze upon it reverently . . . as the emblem of everything we hold dear . . . the emblem of the United States of America.
